Student shift from North topic tonight

The transfer of students in the North School area and rental of that school will be discussed tonight by the Arlington Heights Dist. 25 Board of Education.

The board voted to close North School, 410 N. Arlington Heights Rd., this June as part of budget cuts for the coming school year. The school is one of the district's oldest.

New attendance boundaries for the area from which North School students will be transferred to other schools in the district will be discussed at tonight's 7:30 board meeting at Greenbrier School, 2330 N. Verde Ave., Arlington Heights.

THE BOUNDARY PLAN being recommended provides for transferring students living west of Arlington Heights Road to Ridge School, 800 N. Fernandez Ave., those living east of Arlington Heights Road and south of Euclid Avenue to Windsor School, 1315 E. Miner St., and those living east of Arlington Heights Road and north of Euclid Avenue to Olive School, 303 E. Olive.

A group of parents has asked the board to revise the recommended plan transferring North School students living west of Arlington Heights Road and north of Hawthorne to Olive School because it is closer.

Tonight the board will also hear a progress report from the adminis-

Teachers ratify pact, 11% salary hike in Dist. 214

A teachers' contract calling for an over-all 11 per cent raise in salary for the 1976-77 school year has been accepted by an overwhelming majority of High School Dist. 214 teachers.

A tally of the votes Tuesday showed 719 teachers accepted the contract and 112 voted against the agreement. The Dist. 214 Board of Education unanimously approved the contract Monday. The new contract takes effect in August.

"I find it very gratifying and almost amazing that both sides so overwhelmingly approved the proposal," said Randall Knudsen, president of the Dist. 214 Education Assn. "I think in general that the board is happy with the teachers and I think in general the teachers are happy with the contract," he said. "It was a fair package." Knudsen said there was "cooperation throughout" the negotiating process between teachers and the board and there was "good faith throughout."

"I'M DELIGHTED. I couldn't be happier," said Board Pres. Donald Hoeck who served as chairman of the board's negotiating team. He thanked the teacher's bargaining team for their cooperation and communication throughout negotiations. "Without their help negotiations would probably have gone on," he said. Hoeck said this year's negotiations "speaks well of the cooperation we have going on between the two groups and it speaks

Hopes for basin 'caught' in marsh

by JOE SWICKARD

When the Arlington Heights Park District acquired use of the Wilke-Kirchoff retention basin for softball diamonds and a soccer field, park officials hoped there would be plenty of space for outfielders to chase long fly balls.

Instead, it appears players might have to stand ankle-deep in mud while spectators amuse themselves identifying marsh plants.

"We're just sitting on a dead duck over there," says Park Board Pres. Lloyd Meyer.

Last December, the park district's plans for use of the basin as a recreational site were approved by the Metropolitan Sanitary District, which wanted assurances that the plans would not interfere with its flood control designs.

ONCE MSD APPROVAL was given, the district went ahead with its end of the bargain to take over maintenance of the basin, which was dug by the village of Arlington Heights to ease flooding problems in the southern end of town.

Meyer now says of the arrangement with the village: "They got what they wanted. They got retention — and we got the water."

Plans to install flood lights on the diamonds, which already are laid out with backstops, to make a center for softball play in the Northwest suburbs should be dropped until the fields become playable, Meyer said.

"IT'S A GREAT location for softball, no question about it. The lights and noise wouldn't bother the neighbors because it is in the bottom of the basin. But you can't play in the mud," he said.

When plans for the basin were announced, it was said the basin floor would be dry enough for play within a few days of a heavy rain.

However, an inspection of the two diamonds Wednesday, a week after the area's last heavy rain, found one completely unplayable and the other only marginal.

The northern-most diamond is the better of the two, although the outfield is still wet enough that the sod would be ruined by extended play on it.

THE DIAMOND ON the eastern edge of the basin is a literal washout.

Water is still standing around homeplate and the "on-deck" areas. The outfield has standing water in left and center fields. Right field is muddy and new sod does not appear to be taking root.

The basin walls, where spectators would sit, are marsh-like, with water seeping to the surface in some areas. Reed-like plants are growing from the soggy turf.

Thomas Thornton, park district director, said the soggy conditions were typical spring time problems, but that it should be dry enough for play by next month.

HOWEVER, MEYER said the basin was in similar condition in July and August last year, while the other area fields wert "dry as a bone."

Trustee Frank Palmatier, chairman of the village Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding, said the recent rains "could be part of the problem."

Palmatier said there had been reports last year of seepage problems along the banks, but he had not recently investigated the situation.

VILLAGE ENGINEER Allen Sander was unavailable for comment on the condition of the basin.

Meyer said the lighted softball program could more than pay for itself within about 10 years through fees from softball leagues. But, with the present condition of the fields, he said he could not recommend installing the lighting, estimated to cost about $45,000 per field.

"It could be a great place for the games — plenty of parking and no problems for the neighbors. But you just can't play ball there, not the way it is now," he said.

Widespread corporate payoffs bared by SEC

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Corporate payoffs are widespread especially among drug and oil companies, and often reflect upon the integrity of management, the Securities and Exchange Commission said Wednesday.

After probing the payoffs for two years, the commission said it was "unable to conclude that instances of illegal payments are either isolated or aberrations limited to a few unscrupulous individuals.

"The problem of questionable and illegal corporate payments is, by any measure, serious and sufficiently widespread to be a cause of deep concern."

It said disclosure of such payoffs provided "an evaluation of management's stewardship over corporate assets" and "investors should be vitally interested in the quality and integrity of management."

The Securities and Exchange Commission, the federal agency that supervises public corporations, identified 95 corporations that have made improptr payments and said more than 30 others are under investigation.

Of these companies, it said, the drug and oil industries had the largest number of violators — 12 each.

"The majority, 66, were manufacturing companies," the commission said. "Among this number, the two

Because of uncertain state funding

Dist. 23 to charge summer fees

Uncertainty over state funding of summer school forced the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 Board of Education Wednesday night to approve charging a $50 per student fee for each summer school course this year.

The move reversed a decision made by the board in February to offer tuition-free summer school.

School districts in the past have been reimbursed by the state for summer school costs.

Supt. Edward Grodsky said, however, he did not believe summer school will be funded by the state this year because it is not a mandated program.

GRODSKY SAID ILLINOIS School Supt. Joseph Cronin has already warned school districts not to expect full state funding of their regular September to June program. Summer school costs the state about $37.5 million annually.

"Frankly, after our $110,000 budget reduction a month ago, I cannot recommend that the board gamble on not getting funded" for summer school," Grodsky said. The summer program is estimated to cost the district about $25,000 per year.

The board directed the administration to send letters to parents advising them that a $50 fee would be charged for each class in which a child enrolls. A minimum of 12 students per class will be required for a course to be offered.

The $5 textbook fee already paid by 246 students will be refunded, Grodsky said.

THE BOARD ALSO voted not to hold a summer camp, which the district was planning for the first time.

The board was informed that not enough students had signed up for the camp to make it economically feasible and that the camp would cost about $110 per student instead of $60 because of the tuition fee.

Assistant Supt. Gerald McGovern said the administration would contact other school districts to see if they could enroll Dist. 23 students in their summer camps.

Grodsky said other area school districts have dropped summer school programs, or have decided to charge tuition. Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 has canceled its summer school program because of uncertainty over state funding. Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21, Arlington Heights Dist. 25, and High School Dist. 214 will charge tuition for summer school.

5 & 10 stores—relics of the past, victims of inflation

Today

by JOE SWICKARD

The magic numbers are still on the sign and the kids still block the sidewalk with their bikes after school and on Saturdays, but there's not much you can find for 10 cents at the dime store anymore.

Whether they were called "five-and-dimes" or just dime stores, they were always something special for youngsters. Inside, knick-knacks and jimcracks by the score could be had for a dime.

A child could announce he was going to the store and parents would be assured there would be something left at the dime store from the allowance.

"THERE'S NOT TOO much you can get for a dime anymore. Maybe some candy," said Ronald McWherter, manager of the Ben Franklin in downtown Arlington Heights.

While many of the chain stores have dropped the nickel and dime motto from their signs and advertising, Ben Franklin still has the magical "5-10 Ben Franklin 5-10" above the store.

But it takes a sharp customer to find the 10-cent items. Most of the dime items are candies or special sales.

Inflation, taxes and new regulations and requirements all combined to force upward the prices of the products, McWherter said.

"OF COURSE, it used to be different. Woolworth's was the pioneer really," says McWherter, a long-time employe of F. W. Woolworth's before joining the Ben Franklin chain.

Frank Winfield Woolworth started the 5 and 10 cent merchandising trend in 1878 with a single counter of "Yankee Notions" selling for 5 cents at a Watertown, N.Y. general store.

Woolworth later recalled, "Like magic, the goods on the 5-cent counter faded away and the money flowed into the cash drawers."

From that one counter of Yankee Notions — tinpans, buttonhooks, washbasins and the like — the method of merchandising grew into the American institution of the dimestore.

THE TREND SEEMS to have reverted to a single counter, at least at the local Ben Franklin, called the "kiddie candy corner." There kids can buy a Tootsie Roll for 10 cents, but as McWherter points out, the same size used to be a nickel.

A candy charm bracelet made in Hong Kong goes for 10 cents. Because it contains "dectrose, sucrose, maltodectrin, stearate, natural and artificial flavors and U.S. certified colors," it's quite a buy for a dime.

McWherter said, most 5- and 10-cent toys are mainly a memory.

Gum chewers can have their choice of sugarless or "dragon teeth" gums for a dime. And 10 will get you 20 which gum the child with a dime will buy.

SOMETHING called "Crazy Climber," and described as a "laugh sensation," is 10 cents. Inside the packet are two plastic ladders with a doohickey that flip-flops from rung to rung. There also is a bonus of a bit of flesh-colored gum for the price.

Recent tax increases on imported items cut back on many of the small toys kids used to be able to get for a

Elk Grove teacher wins $1 million

Raymond Wells

A Spainish teacher at Elk Grove High School became a millionaire Wednesday night in an Illinois State Lottery Drawing. Raymond Wells, 36, of 50 Wellington Ave., heard his lucky number come up in a drawing at the student center of Southern Illinois University in Carbondale. "I'm going to go to Spain and probably buy a condominium apartment on Majorca," Wells said after he won the grand prize. "And then, I'll come back and teach for another year, retire and move to Bloomington, my home town." He said his wife Elinor, wearing a mustard seed for good luck, was the winning omen.

Antiburglary law proposed

Buffalo Grove police are drafting an ordinance that would require developers in the village to install dead-bolt locks and other security devices as antiburglary measures. Patrolman Charles Weidner said the proposed ordinance, believed to be the first in the state, would be based on similar laws in California and New Jersey. The cost to the developer would be approximately $125 for each new home and $25 for each new apartment unit. Other required safety measures for single-family homes would include restrictions on skylights and rooftop hatchways, plus break-resistant materials and glass panels for exterior doors.

Link probed in 3 bombings

Local and federal investigators are searching for a link to the bombings early Wednesday of a Palatine restaurant and two south suburban eateries. Palatine Police Chief Jerry Bratcher said Wednesday the bombing of the Pickwick House, 10 N. Northwest Hwy., and of restaurants in Lisle and Bridgeview are being investigated together because the three blasts occurred within less than four hours of each other. There were no injuries resulting from the incidents. Police said there was an estimated $25,000 damage to the Pickwick House. The 4:16 a.m. explosion ripped a 4-foot hole in the roof and left air conditioning and sprinkling units dangling from the collapsed ceiling.

Wickes zone trial delayed

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Arthur Dunne Wednesday delayed the trial of a zoning lawsuit filed against the Village of Wheeling by the Wickes Corp. and the Lexington Development Corp.

Dunne told attorneys who waited nearly two hours to begin the trial that a schedule of four hearings Wednesday afternoon prevented hearing of the zoning case. The suit, which was filed in January, asks Dunne to order Wheeling to approve plans for an office-warehouse project on eight acres of land west of the village hall. Dunne suggested that the attorneys ask for reassignment of the case to another judge because 15 other cases, which were filed before the zoning case, are scheduled in Dunne's courtroom today. Dunne told the attorneys to return about 11 a.m. today.

Elk Grove teacher wins $1 million

Raymond Wells

A Spainish teacher at Elk Grove High School became a millionaire Wednesday night in an Illinois State Lottery Drawing. Raymond Wells, 36, of 50 Wellington Ave., heard his lucky number come up in a drawing at the student center of Southern Illinois University in Carbondale. "I'm going to go to Spain and probably buy a condominium apartment on Majorca," Wells said after he won the grand prize. "And then, I'll come back and teach for another year, retire and move to Bloomington, my home town." He said his wife Elinor, wearing a mustard seed for good luck, was the winning omen.

Antiburglary law proposed

Buffalo Grove police are drafting an ordinance that would require developers in the village to install dead-bolt locks and other security devices as antiburglary measures. Patrolman Charles Weidner said the proposed ordinance, believed to be the first in the state, would be based on similar laws in California and New Jersey. The cost to the developer would be approximately $125 for each new home and $25 for each new apartment unit. Other required safety measures for single-family homes would include restrictions on skylights and rooftop hatchways, plus break-resistant materials and glass panels for exterior doors.

Link probed in 3 bombings

Local and federal investigators are searching for a link to the bombings early Wednesday of a Palatine restaurant and two south suburban eateries. Palatine Police Chief Jerry Bratcher said Wednesday the bombing of the Pickwick House, 10 N. Northwest Hwy., and of restaurants in Lisle and Bridgeview are being investigated together because the three blasts occurred within less than four hours of each other. There were no injuries resulting from the incidents. Police said there was an estimated $25,000 damage to the Pickwick House. The 4:16 a.m. explosion ripped a 4-foot hole in the roof and left air conditioning and sprinkling units dangling from the collapsed ceiling.

Wickes zone trial delayed

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Arthur Dunne Wednesday delayed the trial of a zoning lawsuit filed against the Village of Wheeling by the Wickes Corp. and the Lexington Development Corp.

Dunne told attorneys who waited nearly two hours to begin the trial that a schedule of four hearings Wednesday afternoon prevented hearing of the zoning case. The suit, which was filed in January, asks Dunne to order Wheeling to approve plans for an office-warehouse project on eight acres of land west of the village hall. Dunne suggested that the attorneys ask for reassignment of the case to another judge because 15 other cases, which were filed before the zoning case, are scheduled in Dunne's courtroom today. Dunne told the attorneys to return about 11 a.m. today.

Ford begins all-out fight for Michigan

by United Press International

President Ford headed home Wednesday for the start of an intensive campaign in advance of the Michigan primary, which could make or break his hopes of beating Ronald Reagan for the Republican presidential nomination.

At the same time, Jimmy Carter geared for a two-prong attack on his role as the frontrunner for the Democratic nomination — from Morris Udall in Michigan and from California's Jerry Brown in Maryland.

Carter was stunned by Frank Church in Nebraska Tuesday as the veteran Idaho senator turned his debut in the primaries into a victory party.

After splitting Tuesday's Nebraska and West Virginia primaries, Ford was described as "very buoyant" as he took off for a full day of campaigning in his home state.

But Rogers C.B. Morton, his top political adviser, said that Ford has to win in Michigan to avoid a divisive fight with Reagan at the national convention in Kansas City.

Others feel that if Ford loses in Michigan next Tuesday, his campaign would be shattered and he could become the first GOP president denied the nomination since Chester A. Arthur in 1884.

In Tuesday's voting:

- Reagan beat Ford 55 to 45 per cent, in Nebraska, polling 111,820 to Ford's 93,249, a solid 10 percentage point edge in a state which had no crossover voting.
- Ford evened the score, beating Reagan in West Virginia 57-43 per cent with 74,773 votes to Reagan's 57,130.
- Church, making his debut in the primaries, stunned Carter with a 39-38 per cent victory. Church rolled up 66,990 votes to Carter's 65,263. They far outdistanced a field of 11 others including noncandidates Hubert Humphrey and Edward M. Kennedy.
- Robert C. Byrd crushed George Wallace, his only opponent, in West Virginia's Democratic primary. Byrd, the most powerful vote-getter in the state rolled up a 90 per cent margin.
- Carter nipped Udall 35 to 33 per cent in Connecticut. He polled 35,415 votes to 32,860 for Udall. Henry Jackson was third with 18,962, followed by uncommitteds, 13,674, Ellen McCormack, 5,515, and Fred Harris, 178.

Reagan leads Ford in the number of pledged delegates, 426 to 331 but Ford has large blocs of nominally uncommitted delegates in Pennsylvania and New York.

Carter widened his lead to 598 delegates, well above one-third of the 1,505 he needs for nomination. He was followed by Udall, 205, Jackson, 202, and Wallace, 138.

Ford's flight to Michigan, long in the works, was only one sign of an all-out fight to save Michigan where Reagan is expected to get help from a crossover vote of conservative Democrats. Ford has also scheduled a weekend trip to his home state, including a six-hour whistlestop tour by train.

Reagan, who notched his sixth primary win in Nebraska, campaigned in Kentucky Wednesday before moving into Michigan for a two-day swing Thursday and Friday.

Patty competency question delays robbery charge plea

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Patricia Hearst's lawyer said Wednesday there is doubt whether she is mentally competent to undergo a second trial, and the heiress on his advice refused even to enter a plea to kidnap-assault-robbery charges.

Attorney Albert Johnson sprang the surprise at a pretrial hearing at which the 22-year-old Miss Hearst came face-to-face for the first time with her former captors and comrades, William and Emily Harris, since their arrest last September.

Any expectation of an angry confrontation faded immediately as Miss Hearst and the Harrises ignored each other when they were brought into the maximum security courtroom. They never exchanged a word.

At the end of the 2½-hour session, Mrs. Harris stood and stared in a stony manner at Miss Hearst and then tossed back her head in disdain. Miss Hearst gave back a tiny smile.

Miss Hearst was brought here by car under heavy guard by U.S. marshals from a federal institution at San Diego where she is undergoing, for at least 90 days, a psychiatric examination ordered by the judge at her San Francisco bank robbery trial.

Superior Court Judge Mark Brandler, presiding over the hearing, said the protracted period of tests ruled out having Miss Hearst and the Harrises tried together. The Symbionese Liberation Army soldiers want their case linked to hers.

"A joint trial with the Harrises is simply outside the realm of possibility," Brandler said.

The judge gave Johnson until May 28 to bring Miss Hearst back to his court with substantiation of his claim that there is a question of her competence.

He ordered the Harrises to return May 26 to dispose of several motions and indicated their trial would start in mid-June.

The Harrises pleaded not guilty at their arraignment a month after they were arrested.

Pale and wan, dressed in a peculiar costume of a green flowered sleeveless dress over navy blue wool trousers, Mis Hearst entered the courtroom first and took a seat at the counsel table.

A few minutes later the Harrises were brought in and took their seats, two lawyers interposed between Miss Hearst and William Harris. Miss Hearst stared straight ahead and the Harrises ignored her, Emily Harris laughing with her lawyer.

Brandler instructed Miss Hearst to stand to enter a plea to charges growing out of an incident in May, 1974, when she sprayed a sporting goods store with machinegun fire to rescue Harris.

Deputy District Attorney Sam Mayerson read a synopsis of the 11-count indictment and then sked how she wished to plead.

Before she could speak, Johnson interrupted and said: "At this time the defendant will stand mute." He quoted a section of the penal code which states that no insane person or one mentally incompetent can be forced to go to trial.

WITH TREMORS continuing to rock Italy, this couple apparently felt the safest place to spend the night was in a Udine park. On Wednesday, tremors split the ground and crumbled walls weakened by last week's major earthquake. Ten persons were injured when the walls collapsed.

Ethics panel to probe congressman Sikes

The House Ethics Committee — for the first time since it was created in 1968 — voted Wednesday to make a full investigation of conflict of interest charges against a congressman. By a vote of 9-0, with three members absent, the committee decided in closed session to investigate a complaint filed against Rep. Robert Sikes, D-Fla., by Common Cause, the citizens' lobby. Common Cause accused Sikes of improperly using his office to further his own financial interests.

DES can cause problems in males, too

Recent research into the effects of the synthetic estrogen DES, known to cause cancer in women, indicates it can cause reproductive system abnormalities and possible fertility problems in males. The National Institute of Child Health and Human Development recommended in a report made available Wednesday that both sons and daughters of women who took DES (diethylstilbestrol) during the first half of their pregnancies be examined for genital problems after they reach puberty.

Anheuser-Busch rejects proposed settlement

Striking bottlers at Anheuser-Busch's main brewery Wednesday overwhelmingly rejected a proposed settlement that would have sent them back to work. In other labor problems: New York apartment workers and landlords considered factfinders' recommendations to end a 10-day-old strike. Strikes continued to idle United Rubber Workers at plants of four major tiremakers, and teamsters employed by United Parcel and drivers for Continental Trailways in the South.

Panel votes to tighten tax on wealthy

The Senate Finance Committee Wednesday voted tentatively to tighten the minimum tax on the wealthy and expand it to cover more than half a million upper income taxpayers. At the same time, the committee voted to lower taxes for many of those wealthy individuals in tax brackets higher than 50 per cent who now pay large amounts of tax. The idea is to "tax those paying very little but give relief to those paying entirely too much," said Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the committee which is now considering a major tax revision bill.

Third purported Howard Hughes will filed

A third purported Howard Hughes will was filed in court Wednesday — this one naming Richard R. Hughes, who claims to be the son of the late billionaire, the sole beneficiary of his $2.5 billion estate. The third will differed from the first two handwritten wills which have been presented in a Las Vegas court in that it was typewritten — 12 lines of type on a single page — and it was crystal clear: it leaves everything to the mysterious young Hughes, whose present whereabouts are unknown.

U.S., Russ initial nuclear treaty draft

The United States and the Soviet Union have initialed the final draft of a treaty that limits peaceful nuclear explosions and provides for on-site inspections, the State Department said Wednesday. Ambassador Walter J. Stoessel initialed the agreement in Moscow on behalf of the United States and Igor Morokhov of the Soviet delegation did so for the Soviet Union. The treaty represents a breakthrough in the negotiation of nuclear agreements.

Supertanker explodes in Spanish port

A supertanker exploded in flames Wednesday at the entrance to Spain's port of La Coruna, spilling 110,000 tons of burning oil into the sea and threatening an "ecological disaster" to northwestern beaches. Fire from the blaze darkened the skies with black smoke visible for 80 miles. Eight hours after the first explosion, the wreckage and a vast area of sea around it were still in flames.

Battles flare; Soviets enter talks

Lebanon peace hopes demolished

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Renewed fighting throughout the country Wednesday demolished immediate hopes for peace in Lebanon. The Soviet Union entered the dispute over Syria's intervention in the civil war.

More than 50 were killed and 150 wounded Wednesday in battles which erupted in the capital and its suburbs, the northern city of Tripoli, and across the central Mount Lebanon region.

A gang of gunmen tried to blow up the home of President-elect Elias Sarkis.

Leftist parties held a long conference on the fighting with officers of the rebel Lebanese Arab Army, but Socialist chief Kamal Jumblatt, who had called the session, left unexpectedly to meet with Soviet Ambassador Alexander Soldatov.

"There are important developments in the situation," Jumblatt told newsmen later, but gave no further details.

Jumblatt said he would return to his coalition's meeting to report on his talks with the Russian but instead left for a hastily-arranged visit to Palatine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat.

Political soures said the Soviet Union was trying to pressure Jumblatt to drop the leftists' bitter opposition to Syria's peace initiative and their insistence that Syrian forces withdraw from Lebanon.

The increased fighting threatened the entire future of the Syrian mediation effort as fighting continued across Lebanon Monday night.

Mortar shells thudded onto the Baabda President Palace for the second time in less than 12 hours and four artillery shells hit the Mt. Lebanon Governor's office, but caused only material damages, a rightist radio station said.

The Iraqi news agency said in Beirut that pro-Syrian forces attacked the offices of a pro-Iraqi party in the northern city of Tripoli, with the security situation deteriorating "very badly."

Moslem Leftist and Christian rightist forces swapped mortar and rocket fire in downtown Beirut and in the suburbs. Snipers took pot shots at citizens venturing onto streets in most suburban areas.

The Leftists rained shells from Aley, the stronghold of Moslem Socialist leader Kamal Jumblatt, on the Christian village of Kahhaleh.

Gunmen attempted to blow up Sarkis' home in the village of Chibaneyeh, in Mt. Lebanon, but villagers fought them off. The house suffered slight damage.

Artillery units of the rebel "Lebanese Arab Army" fired seven shells around the presidential palace in Baabda, apparently as a warning to Sarkis of the danger he faced should he occupy the palace when he takes over from outgoing President Suleiman Franjieh.

Franjieh himself fled the palace after it was shelled in fighting last month.

Jumblatt, who doggedly opposes Syrian presence and mediation efforts, went to Aley for a meeting with his Leftist Alliance leaders.

Senate OKs $413.3 billion target budget for 1977

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Wednesday approved a $413.3 billion target federal budget for fiscal year 1977, $17.5 billion more than President Ford wants to spend.

Democrats urged Ford not to create a "political confrontation" over it.

The budget, approved 65 to 29, is the result of a House-Senate conference agreement and now goes to the House for final approval.

Senate Democrats said the congressional budget will create a million more jobs than the one Ford proposed and will result in a lower rate of inflation than under his proposal.

Ford has said it will increase inflation, disrupt economic recovery and lead to a new recession.

The budget only sets targets for Congress to follow as it passes individual spending bills for fiscal 1977 which begins Oct. 1. Ford cannot veto it, but he can veto the spending bills and, if elected for a new term, could possibly impound funds voted by Congress.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, told the Senate the budget resolution "represents Congress' judgment as to America's priorities. It will be most unfortunate if the President, using vetoes and impoundments, tries to reshape this resolution to match his original proposal. If the President wants a political confrontation instead of a sound fiscal policy, these differences can become a battlefield and the public will be the loser."

The budget provides $100.8 billion for defense, only $300 million less than Ford requested.

largest identifiable groups were drug manufacturers and companies engaged in petroleum refining and related services."

The commission issued its opinions and proposals for corrective legislation in a report to the Senate Banking Committee chaired by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

Proxmire said the commission report "points to the need for an explicit law requiring disclosure of all such foreign payments."

It is already against the law for corporations to give money to federal political candidates and officeholders.

Proxmire said he would introduce a bill along lines proposed by the Securities and Exchange Commission and would begin hearings next week.

The commission recommended that any false entries on books, gifts to government officials or unusually high payments to sales agents must be disclosed regardless of how small the amount.

But it said it had no legal authority to require reporting of payments that more often than not were bribes in foreign countries.

It also said companies with long histories of secret payoffs may be offering products and services that "could not be successfully marketed in the absence of the payments involved and that failure to continue to make such payments could endanger the business operations."

It gave no examples of corporations that might fail without making payoffs. But congressional committees have disclosed that Lockheed Aircraft Corp. made $24 million in payoffs at a time when it needed hundreds of millions of dollars in government-backed loans to prevent bankruptcy.

Brandler instructed Miss Hearst to stand to enter a plea to charges growing out of an incident in May, 1974, when she sprayed a sporting goods store with machinegun fire to rescue Harris.

Deputy District Attorney Sam Mayerson read a synopsis of the 11-count indictment and then sked how she wished to plead.

Before she could speak, Johnson interrupted and said: "At this time the defendant will stand mute." He quoted a section of the penal code which states that no insane person or one mentally incompetent can be forced to go to trial.

WITH TREMORS continuing to rock Italy, this couple apparently felt the safest place to spend the night was in a Udine park. On Wednesday, tremors split the ground and crumbled walls weakened by last week's major earthquake. Ten persons were injured when the walls collapsed.

Ethics panel to probe congressman Sikes

The House Ethics Committee — for the first time since it was created in 1968 — voted Wednesday to make a full investigation of conflict of interest charges against a congressman. By a vote of 9-0, with three members absent, the committee decided in closed session to investigate a complaint filed against Rep. Robert Sikes, D-Fla., by Common Cause, the citizens' lobby. Common Cause accused Sikes of improperly using his office to further his own financial interests.

DES can cause problems in males, too

Recent research into the effects of the synthetic estrogen DES, known to cause cancer in women, indicates it can cause reproductive system abnormalities and possible fertility problems in males. The National Institute of Child Health and Human Development recommended in a report made available Wednesday that both sons and daughters of women who took DES (diethylstilbestrol) during the first half of their pregnancies be examined for genital problems after they reach puberty.

Anheuser-Busch rejects proposed settlement

Striking bottlers at Anheuser-Busch's main brewery Wednesday overwhelmingly rejected a proposed settlement that would have sent them back to work. In other labor problems: New York apartment workers and landlords considered factfinders' recommendations to end a 10-day-old strike. Strikes continued to idle United Rubber Workers at plants of four major tiremakers, and teamsters employed by United Parcel and drivers for Continental Trailways in the South.

Panel votes to tighten tax on wealthy

The Senate Finance Committee Wednesday voted tentatively to tighten the minimum tax on the wealthy and expand it to cover more than half a million upper income taxpayers. At the same time, the committee voted to lower taxes for many of those wealthy individuals in tax brackets higher than 50 per cent who now pay large amounts of tax. The idea is to "tax those paying very little but give relief to those paying entirely too much," said Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the committee which is now considering a major tax revision bill.

Third purported Howard Hughes will filed

A third purported Howard Hughes will was filed in court Wednesday — this one naming Richard R. Hughes, who claims to be the son of the late billionaire, the sole beneficiary of his $2.5 billion estate. The third will differed from the first two handwritten wills which have been presented in a Las Vegas court in that it was typewritten — 12 lines of type on a single page — and it was crystal clear: it leaves everything to the mysterious young Hughes, whose present whereabouts are unknown.

The treaty represents a breakthrough in the negotiation of nuclear agreements.

Supertanker explodes in Spanish port

A supertanker exploded in flames Wednesday at the entrance to Spain's port of La Coruna, spilling 110,000 tons of burning oil into the sea and threatening an "ecological disaster" to northwestern beaches. Fire from the blaze darkened the skies with black smoke visible for 80 miles. Eight hours after the first explosion, the wreckage and a vast area of sea around it were still in flames.

Battles flare; Soviets enter talks

Lebanon peace hopes demolished

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Renewed fighting throughout the country Wednesday demolished immediate hopes for peace in Lebanon. The Soviet Union entered the dispute over Syria's intervention in the civil war.

More than 50 were killed and 150 wounded Wednesday in battles which erupted in the capital and its suburbs, the northern city of Tripoli, and across the central Mount Lebanon region.

A gang of gunmen tried to blow up the home of President-elect Elias Sarkis.

Leftist parties held a long conference on the fighting with officers of the rebel Lebanese Arab Army, but Socialist chief Kamal Jumblatt, who had called the session, left unexpectedly to meet with Soviet Ambassador Alexander Soldatov.

"There are important developments in the situation," Jumblatt told newsmen later, but gave no further details.

Jumblatt said he would return to his coalition's meeting to report on his talks with the Russian but instead left for a hastily-arranged visit to Palatine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat.

Political soures said the Soviet Union was trying to pressure Jumblatt to drop the leftists' bitter opposition to Syria's peace initiative and their insistence that Syrian forces withdraw from Lebanon.

The increased fighting threatened the entire future of the Syrian mediation effort as fighting continued across Lebanon Monday night.

Mortar shells thudded onto the Baabda President Palace for the second time in less than 12 hours and four artillery shells hit the Mt. Lebanon Governor's office, but caused only material damages, a rightist radio station said.

The Iraqi news agency said in Beirut that pro-Syrian forces attacked the offices of a pro-Iraqi party in the northern city of Tripoli, with the security situation deteriorating "very badly."

Moslem Leftist and Christian rightist forces swapped mortar and rocket fire in downtown Beirut and in the suburbs. Snipers took pot shots at citizens venturing onto streets in most suburban areas.

The Leftists rained shells from Aley, the stronghold of Moslem Socialist leader Kamal Jumblatt, on the Christian village of Kahhaleh.

Gunmen attempted to blow up Sarkis' home in the village of Chibaneyeh, in Mt. Lebanon, but villagers fought them off. The house suffered slight damage.

Artillery units of the rebel "Lebanese Arab Army" fired seven shells around the presidential palace in Baabda, apparently as a warning to Sarkis of the danger he faced should he occupy the palace when he takes over from outgoing President Suleiman Franjieh.

Franjieh himself fled the palace after it was shelled in fighting last month.

Jumblatt, who doggedly opposes Syrian presence and mediation efforts, went to Aley for a meeting with his Leftist Alliance leaders.

Senate OKs $413.3 billion target budget for 1977

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Wednesday approved a $413.3 billion target federal budget for fiscal year 1977, $17.5 billion more than President Ford wants to spend.

Democrats urged Ford not to create a "political confrontation" over it.

The budget, approved 65 to 29, is the result of a House-Senate conference agreement and now goes to the House for final approval.

Senate Democrats said the congressional budget will create a million more jobs than the one Ford proposed and will result in a lower rate of inflation than under his proposal.

Ford has said it will increase inflation, disrupt economic recovery and lead to a new recession.

The budget only sets targets for Congress to follow as it passes individual spending bills for fiscal 1977 which begins Oct. 1. Ford cannot veto it, but he can veto the spending bills and, if elected for a new term, could possibly impound funds voted by Congress.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, told the Senate the budget resolution "represents Congress' judgment as to America's priorities. It will be most unfortunate if the President, using vetoes and impoundments, tries to reshape this resolution to match his original proposal. If the President wants a political confrontation instead of a sound fiscal policy, these differences can become a battlefield and the public will be the loser."

The budget provides $100.8 billion for defense, only $300 million less than Ford requested.

largest identifiable groups were drug manufacturers and companies engaged in petroleum refining and related services."

The commission issued its opinions and proposals for corrective legislation in a report to the Senate Banking Committee chaired by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

Proxmire said the commission report "points to the need for an explicit law requiring disclosure of all such foreign payments."

It is already against the law for corporations to give money to federal political candidates and officeholders.

Proxmire said he would introduce a bill along lines proposed by the Securities and Exchange Commission and would begin hearings next week.

The commission recommended that any false entries on books, gifts to government officials or unusually high payments to sales agents must be disclosed regardless of how small the amount.

But it said it had no legal authority to require reporting of payments that more often than not were bribes in foreign countries.

It also said companies with long histories of secret payoffs may be offering products and services that "could not be successfully marketed in the absence of the payments involved and that failure to continue to make such payments could endanger the business operations."

It gave no examples of corporations that might fail without making payoffs. But congressional committees have disclosed that Lockheed Aircraft Corp. made $24 million in payoffs at a time when it needed hundreds of millions of dollars in government-backed loans to prevent bankruptcy.

Of suburban restaurants

Link probed in three bombings

by TONI GINNETTI

A link between the bombings early Wednesday of a Palatine restaurant and two south suburban restaurants is being explored in a coordinated investigation by local and federal authorities.

Palatine Police Chief Jerry Bratcher said the bombings of the Pickwick House, 10 N. Northwest Hwy., and restaurants in Bridgeview and Lisle will be studied to determine whether the incidents are related.

The three blasts occured within four hours of each other early Wednesday, but no injuries resulted in any of the incidents.

The Pickwick House blast, the last of the three, occurred at 4:46 a.m., only moments after the last employe had left the establishment, owner Jim Spentzos said Wednesday.

POLICE SAID the explosion caused an estimated $20,000 to $25,000 damage to the one-story restaurant building.

Spentzos said Wednesday he had not been threatened nor warned of the explosion. He said he has never had trouble at the establishment, which he and his family have owned for seven years.

"There was nothing like that," Spentzos said. "Somebody threw something on the roof, but they don't know what it was. We don't know anything."

The Pickwick House was closed most of 1975 for remodeling, and reopened in August.

SPENTZOS, of Des Plaines, also owns the Pickwick House restaurant in Park Ridge and Mangam's Chateau in Lyons.

Bratcher Wednesday met for an hour in Palatine with Bridgeview and Lisle police officials, state fire marshals and Cook County Sheriff's department officials to coordinate an investigation of the bombings.

The three explosions, at Niko's restaurant in Bridgeview, at Jerry Sharko's restaurant in Lisle and at the Pickwick House all involved powerful explosive devices, authorities said.

Evidence from the bombings will be sent to Washington for analysis by the federal Dept. of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, Bratcher said.

BRATCHER DECLINED to speculate on possible underworld connections to the bombings.

The Pickwick House bomb exploded on the roof of the west end of the building, ripping open a 4-foot hole in the roof. The blast left air conditioning and sprinkling units dangling from the collapsed ceiling over one of the restaurant's three dining areas.

Light fixtures in other sections of the restaurant were jarred loose by the force of the blast. Palatine police on the scene said the explosion was heard as far as seven blocks from the restaurant.

Bratcher said the bomb went off either beneath an air-conditioning unit or close enough to the unit to deflect the main blast down through the roof and into the dining area.

COOK COUNTY Sheriff's police bomb experts said the blast was caused by "a high explosive," such as dynamite or TNT.

A ladder was resting along the building, Bratcher said, but bomb experts said the exploding device could have been thrown onto the roof.

Bratcher added there were no substantial sightings of suspicious persons in the area before the explosion.

"The characteristics of the blast site are those of a high explosive," Sgt. Raymond Voelker of the county bomb unit said. "It was definitely a high explosive as opposed to a soft explosive."

He said there was no substantial damage to the building structure.

THE RESTAURANT remained open for business Wednesday despite the blast, Spentzos said.

The first bombing occurred at 1:19 a.m. when a 12-by 2-inch pipe bomb apparently containing dynamite exploded outside Niko's restaurant, causing $6,000 in damage, Bridgeview police said.

The last customers of a banquet party had just left the establishment moments before the blast.

Fragments of a pipe bomb also were found at the Sharko's restaurant in Lisle where an explosion occurred at 1:36 a.m. The Lisle restaurant sustained the worst damage of the three, with an estimated $40,000 in losses, Lisle police said.

PALATINE POLICE arrived on the scene of the Pickwick House explosion moments after the blast. Police and county bomb experts sifted through debris through midmorning.

Voelker and Investigator Philip Bettiker said the county would conduct a laboratory analysis of the bomb debris but that the results could take several days to process.

well of Dist. 214 as an entity."

The two-year contract calls for a 7 per cent increase in base salary from $10,140 to $10,850 the first year. In the second year the base pay would be raised equal to the percentage increase in the Chicago area cost-of-living for 1976.

Teachers now receive an annual raise for an additional year of experience. The average raise is about 4 per cent making the total pay raise for the average teacher about 11 per cent next year.

The contract also included an increase in medical insurance, elimination of some nonacademic assignments, an increase in extra duty, supervisory and summer school pay, an early retirement incentive plan, a provision to freeze a teacher's salary for unsatisfactory performance and the formation of a committee to recommend by Feb. 1, 1977 procedures for reducing staff as enrollment declines.

well of Dist. 214 as an entity."

The two-year contract calls for a 7 per cent increase in base salary from $10,140 to $10,850 the first year. In the second year the base pay would be raised equal to the percentage increase in the Chicago area cost-of-living for 1976.

Teachers now receive an annual raise for an additional year of experience. The average raise is about 4 per cent making the total pay raise for the average teacher about 11 per cent next year.

The contract also included an increase in medical insurance, elimination of some nonacademic assignments, an increase in extra duty, supervisory and summer school pay, an early retirement incentive plan, a provision to freeze a teacher's salary for unsatisfactory performance and the formation of a committee to recommend by Feb. 1, 1977 procedures for reducing staff as enrollment declines.

1,000 doctors drawn to capital

End to malpractice woes sought

by STEVE BROWN

SPRINGFIELD — Nearly 1,000 Illinois doctors Wednesday descended on the state capital to publicly lobby in support of improved malpractice legislation and to meet privately with lawmakers in an attempt to negotiate a compromise plan for passing other bills this session.

The doctors spent most of the day buttonholing legislators in their offices and in the corridors of the capitol building. However, while the public show of force was taking place, private talks also were going on with lawyers and members of the Illinois House Judiciary Committee.

The doctors also held a rally on the steps of the capitol to promote a package of eight bills which they believe are designed to attack what they called the "malpractice crisis" in Illinois.

WALTER WHISLER, A member of the Illinois State Society's special task force, predicted the private negotiations might produce a compromise agreement in the near future.

Whisler also charged "the lawyers don't want to give in on anything." He said the doctors are hopeful that legislation to prohibit wrongful lawsuits and control attorneys' contingency fees can be agreed upon.

The House Judiciary Committee has assigned a "shell bill" to its subcommittee on malpractice. The bill, which currently contains no provisions, will be used as a vehicle in an attempt to approve malpractice legislation this session.

The doctors who attended an afternoon rally on the steps of the capitol were encouraged by a number of legislators to keep up their lobbying campaign.

"UNLESS YOU CONTINUE to emphasize the malpractice crisis, nothing will be done, "State Sen. Bradley Glass, R-Northbrook, told the crowd.

Doctors have complained about soaring malpractice insurance premium costs and the fact that fewer insurance companies are offering malpractice insurance in Illinois.

The proposed legislative package would:

- Require medical witnesses in malpractice suits to be practicing in the defendant's community, therefore ending the possibility of traveling expert witnesses;
- Allowing counter claim lawsuits by doctors if they feel a malpractice suit is malicious;
- Set guaranteed percentages of settlements which must be given to persons successfully bringing suit and limiting the possibility of attorneys getting the bulk of a settlement;
- Allow for binding arbitration between doctors and patients, hospitals and insurance companies on malpractice claims;
- Require insurance companies to accept the results of binding arbitration; and
- Require persons filing suit to tell the jury what benefits might have already been received in the claim.

Some legislators hope to begin consideration of the malpractice bill in about two weeks.

Area doctor named to state medical unit

Palatine physician Alfred J. Clementi has been reelected to the Illinois State Medical Society Board of Trustees during the society's recent annual meeting in Chicago.

Clementi, chairman of the department of surgery at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, represents Cook County in the Illinois State Medical Society.

A THIRST FOR RECOGNITION

The name of the designer of the first Stars and Stripes has never been confirmed, although one man did make a formal claim to that honor. That man was a signer of the Declaration of Independence and a member of the Congress that made the Stars and Stripes our flag on June 14, 1777.

In 1780, Francis Hopkinson of New Jersey requested recognition for some "devices" he had created, including "the flag of the United States of America." Hopkinson wanted a small reward for these "labours of fancy" and suggested a "quarter cask of public wine."

Congress demanded a more detailed statement. Hopkinson then put a value of nine pounds — about $45 — hard money on his flag design.

Congress refused the claim. Hopkinson, angered by the rejection, resigned his governmental position but continued to press for compensation. In 1783, Congress finally decided that "the report relative to the fancy work of F. Hopkinson ought not to be acted upon" and he received neither recognition, nor money, nor public wine.

There is no question that Hopkinson did some design work on some flag. Whatever work he did do, however, was not regarded seriously, for the flag was to change many more times — both its stars and its stripes.

Hoffman firm among victims of extortion plan

A Hoffman Estates home building firm is among 29 victims of a $200,000 extortion scheme by Ironworkers Local Union 444 members in the Will County area, said U.S. Atty. Samuel Skinner Wednesday.

Skinner said five indictments were returned by the 1974 grand jury, charging extortion in the building trades industry.

The Hoffman Rosner Corp., Hoffman Estates, paid $1,000 on three separate dates in 1972 and 1973 to Edward Arambasich, Local 444 business representative, said Skinner. Arambasich is charged with 45 counts of extortion during the 1971 to 1975 period.

THE EXTORTIONS netted Arambasich some $90,000, Skinner said. Arambasich lives at 31 Mallard Ln., Wilmington, Ill. If he is convicted, he faces a maximum 20-year imprisonment and a $10,000 fine for each count.

In the other four indictments, Arambasich was named with another person. Charges of conspiracy to commit extortion and other charges are listed.

"Threats of economic harm" were used by Arambasich to gain payment for fictitious services or "ghost payrollers," Skinner said. In addition to Edward Arambasich, others charged were his brother John Arambasich of Wilmington, 9 counts; Howard Norberg of New Lenox, five counts; Robert Seeley of Joliet, six counts; and Andrew Wicevic of Joliet, three counts.

Skinner said the indictments followed a one-year investigation by special agents of the Internal Revenue Service, Joliet. Although he acknowledged a grand jury investigation will continue in the Will County area, Skinner had no comment on the existence of a similar Cook County investigation. Skinner did, however, urge business executives to continue to come forward with information on extortion demands.

Harper faculty chief urges linkup with AFT union

by DIANE GRANAT

The president of the Harper Faculty Senate Wednesday endorsed faculty affiliation with the American Federation of Teachers.

David Macaulay, faculty senate president, said he urged faculty members to vote for affiliation with the AFT in a referendum today and Friday.

The Harper faculty voted 105-77 last week in favor of affiliation with a national teachers' union. The faculty will decide which union will represent them in this week's vote.

THE UNIONS UNDER consideration are the National Education Assn., the American Assn. of University Professors and the AFT.

Macaulay said he favored affiliation with the AFT because he felt "they can provide the most support for the Harper faculty. In the Chicago area they have proved themselves to be more effective," he said.

The AFT, an affiliate of the AFL-CIO, now represents several community colleges in Northern Illinois including the College of Lake County, Thornton, Prairie State, Moraine Valley, Morton and Joliet community colleges.

The AFT has had a chapter at Harper for the past four years, said Norman Swenson, president of the Cook County Colleges Teachers' Union. The chapter has about 35 members but it does not have bargaining rights, Swenson said.

SWENSON AND A representative of the NEA participated in a debate Tuesday at Harper's campus in Palatine on the benefits of each union for the Harper faculty.

Swenson said the AFT would work with the Harper faculty for a binding arbitration agreement between the faculty and the college board, firm class-size limits, a salary schtdule that includes all faculty, and the abolition of quotas for promotions.

John McCluskey, director of higher education for the Illinois Education Assn., the state branch of the NEA, said his union would offer legal and professional advice in grievance and negotiations matters.

McCluskey said the IEA will absorb the legal costs of the faculty senate and it will help the faculty union win bargaining recognition from the college board.

Macaulay said last week the college board's breaking off of contract negotiations with the faculty last month was the "final push" in convincing the faculty to form a union.

He said the faculty senate, which now represents the teachers in negotiations, has not been effective.

Two earlier attempts to form a faculty union at Harper in 1973 and last fall were rejected by the faculty.

Funeral price data rights told

The consumer's right to funeral price information and the federal government's regulation of the funeral industry were discussed by witnesses at a Federal Trade Commission hearing Wednesday in Chicago.

Ruth Ochwald, representing the Minnesota Memorial Society, called for adoption of the FTC's proposed trade rule to eliminate abuse in the funeral industry. The proposed rule would prohibit misrepresentations and sales pressures, while requiring disclosure of prices and legal requirements to consumers.

The Rev. John Niles of Minneapolis, Minn., said the disclosure standard would clear up claims such as the 50-year water-tight casket guarantee offered by a Minnesota mortician. He said information on less expensive, pre-arranged funerals is restricted by some morticians.

Richard Grayson, representing the Minnesota Funeral Directors' Assn., said the FTC rule would not curb many abuses in the funeral industry. The requider disclosure of alternatives such as cremation would impose a burden on morticians, he said.

The hearings will continue through May 21 at 230 S. Dearborn St.

Harper faculty chief urges linkup with AFT union

by DIANE GRANAT

The president of the Harper Faculty Senate Wednesday endorsed faculty affiliation with the American Federation of Teachers.

David Macaulay, faculty senate president, said he urged faculty members to vote for affiliation with the AFT in a referendum today and Friday.

The Harper faculty voted 105-77 last week in favor of affiliation with a national teachers' union. The faculty will decide which union will represent them in this week's vote.

THE UNIONS UNDER consideration are the National Education Assn., the American Assn. of University Professors and the AFT.

Macaulay said he favored affiliation with the AFT because he felt "they can provide the most support for the Harper faculty. In the Chicago area they have proved themselves to be more effective," he said.

The AFT, an affiliate of the AFL-CIO, now represents several community colleges in Northern Illinois including the College of Lake County, Thornton, Prairie State, Moraine Valley, Morton and Joliet community colleges.

The AFT has had a chapter at Harper for the past four years, said Norman Swenson, president of the Cook County Colleges Teachers' Union. The chapter has about 35 members but it does not have bargaining rights, Swenson said.

SWENSON AND A representative of the NEA participated in a debate Tuesday at Harper's campus in Palatine on the benefits of each union for the Harper faculty.

Swenson said the AFT would work with the Harper faculty for a binding arbitration agreement between the faculty and the college board, firm class-size limits, a salary schtdule that includes all faculty, and the abolition of quotas for promotions.

John McCluskey, director of higher education for the Illinois Education Assn., the state branch of the NEA, said his union would offer legal and professional advice in grievance and negotiations matters.

McCluskey said the IEA will absorb the legal costs of the faculty senate and it will help the faculty union win bargaining recognition from the college board.

The way we see it

In the spirit of America

We had the opportunity last week to observe the Bicentennial wagoneers who are continuing their trek across America symbolically recreating a pioneer pilgrimage.

This handful of modern day pioneer families deserves a salute, as do the local residents who helped make the stop at Arlington Park Race Track a memorable one. Despite a downpour, several thousand Northwest suburban residents took time to partake in the local Bicentennial festivities.

Essential to the success of the program was Arlington Park race track and its president, Jack Loome, who provided the campgrounds. The Illinois and Arlington Heights Bicentennial commissions organized the event. Then there are those adventurous families who day after day ride the wagons and will end this Bicentennial journey July 4 at Valley Forge.

Those of us who attended or read about the wagon train convoy and encampment at Arlington Park must wonder what makes these free spirited folks tick. What kind of family would ride the highways across America in a covered wagon?

Someone said they're probably not much different from the rest of us except that they have a bit more gumption — like the Jim Jollo family of Blaine, Wash.

Jim Jollo's 16-year-old son took a year off school to drive the family wagon. "It's a good experience for me," he said. "My teacher thinks so, too."

We think the teacher is right — that the year of pioneering across the country will be a special time for him and his family and the other members of the convoy. Their stop here allowed us to view a tiny slice of Americana.

Kerner judgment not for President

All realistic purpose for a presidential pardon of the late Otto Kerner ended when he lost his bout with lung cancer last weekend. Further efforts to secure a pardon are pointless.

The former Illinois governor and federal judge had a long career in public service. For his contributions in the military, in the governor's mansion and on the federal bench, Otto Kerner will be remembered and respected.

Unfortunately, the many fine qualities he displayed took leave of him, according to the judgment of a jury convened to try him for extortion. As a result, history must judge his contributions in balance with the crime for which he was convicted. The tragedy of his trial, conviction and prison sentence will always evoke sadness in those who remembered Otto Kerner for his better moments. No posthumous pardon can erase his tragic final years.

Had Otto Kerner lived, a pardon could have restored some of his civil rights and permitted him to pursue a career in law. Now, however, only one significant judgment is left for Otto Kerner, and that rests with higher authority than the President of the United States.

'Vote on unit district gives people choice'

Having been a member of the Unit District Study Committee, I would like to offer some comments.

In efforts to provide for a proper balance, the study committee was composed of persons who were pro unit: 25 per cent; anti-unit: 25 per cent; and neutral: 50 per cent. I consider myself to have been in the latter 50 per cent.

Throughout most of the meetings I remained neutral; during scrutiny of the financial statements, I supported those which I determined were correct. Those who were critical of the financial statements seemed satisfied after discussions were concluded, or at least appeared to be until the meeting of May 3, 1976. I base this statement on the fact that there were few, if any, statements made that were critical of the financial portion at the last meeting of the committee when each individual member was given the opportunity to comment. At that particular time I felt I was well informed with respect to the $19 million surplus in Dist. 214; I made the statement that I felt Dist. 214 may have been over-taxing the people if they had a surplus of $19 million. I do realize that a school district must have a working capital from year to year, but when it is over 50 per cent of their total annual budget, I feel that if this is indeed legal, then it is at least immoral. As to the other side of the coin, possibly the administrators of Dist. 214 have been very frugal with tax moneys in order to come up with this surplus. If so, then in the event a unit district is formed, they should be able to continue to exercise their frugality and find ways to insure staying in the black rather than winding up in the red as has been predicted if such an event should take place.

The Unit District Study Committee provided for, extended to and included teachers from Dist. 214 and Dist. 59. The approved minutes of the March 25, 1976 meeting state that one teacher from each district agreed to supply the opinions of their respective teacher associations. The Dist. 59 member of the committee was willing to discuss Dist. 59's position; the Dist. 214 representative indicated that he was not in a position to discuss Dist. 214's position. Since the Dist. 214 representative chose not to discuss it fully, I really don't feel the committee should be held responsible for "muzzling" the opposition.

AS FAR AS the educational benefits to be derived from a unit district, my opinion is that the education my children have received in Dist. 59 has generally been good; I see no reason why there should be a reduction in quality if we were to go unit. I also feel that continuity of education is a strong argument in favor of a unit district since the transition of course material could be much more carefully controlled from junior to senior high school. I base this statement on the fact that all junior highs in Dist. 214 do not have the same programs, the same emphasis, the same texts and are not at the same levels. It is difficult enough to absorb students from various elementary schools into one junir high; the problems are naturally compounded when several junior highs, not even in the same elementary district, are fed into one high school.

With respect to the "missing tapes," I recall that at the very outset, the secretary of the committee stated that these tape recordings were being made to assure a complete report because he was not a recording secretary, per se. I assumed that the tapes would have been reused at the following meetings after they had been transcribed. I also recall that at least the last four meetings were recorded by a professional court reporter supplied by Dist. 214 and that these transcripts were to be made available. Possibly, then, the individual who was unable to hear the lost tape would be able to obtain a copy of the transcript from Dist. 214.

FINALLY, I WOULD urge both boards of education to consider this. The majority vote of the Unit District Study Committee, with which I concur, did not vote in favor of or against the unit, but did vote to put the issue in the hands of the voters and taxpayers where it belongs. Rather than spend many months or years wasting tax money on lawyers which could be better spent on education, why not let the people make the final decision with a minimum of time and tax money? If the feeling is so strong against a unit that 1,500 signatures on a petition could be gathered in less than one week, when it took a committee over 3½ months to carefully study it without reaching a hard decision, there should be no difficulty in defeating the proposal at the polls. After all, 1,500 people is about twice the total number of voters that saw fit to participate in the last school board election.

Meaning of Memorial Day

Lincoln once said, "The world will little note nor long remember." These words strike home, for the wars are over and those that fought them are rapidly becoming forgotten men. This is especially true of those that are confined to veterans hospitals.

Throughout our broad land, millions of Americans will gather on Memorial Day to pay homage to departed comrades, husbands, fathers and brothers, who died in the service of our country. Bands will play, men will march and speeches will be made in tribute to these honored dead. For each of these has proved the truth of the Bible verse: "Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his fellow man."

ILLINOIS SHOULD be proud that the first Memorial Day Service was held in our own state, two years before the famous proclamation by General Logan, in 1868, designating May 30 as the official day for decorating the graves. There is a bronze marker in Southern Illinois, at Carbondale, which tells of the first memorial service.

Arlington Heights is proud of the men that answered the call to defend their country against its enemies. Many of her sons are buried in foreign soils or sleep beneath the still waters of the seas, others that have passed on are buried in the surrounding cemeteries. If you will check your history of this area, you will find that veterans of all wars of this country are buried in our vicinity.

I urge that you support the Veterans of Foreign Wars Poppy Day and Memorial Day services in Arlington Heights this month.

'Serious beer can collectors will only trade'

I received a copy of the article by John Maes the other day, concerning the meeting of the International Society of Beer Can Collectors. To say the least, I was most amused by it.

For the record, serious collectors refrain from buying and selling cans. Before beer can collecting became a fad for every kid west of the Mississippi River, no one really even thought of buying and selling cans. Now, collecting has reached epidemic proportions, and even the easiest can in the world to get will cost you 5 cents from a parasitic can merchant.

As for the mention of "complete" collections, there is positively no way that someone could have a "complete" collection, and a 007 sold by a parasite would not make a collection complete.

I certainly hope that one day you will send a reporter and photographer to a meeting of serious collectors who leave their wallets at home on the dresser, and strictly trade for cans they need!

Hospital's abortion stand backed

From the time of recorded history three potent factors have driven men to seek homes in foreign lands: economic distress, political harassment and religious persecution. Many lives have been lost in wars caused by these same factors. Sadly, in our country's infancy, many of those who had been persecuted in their homelands became the persecutors in this new land.

Our founding fathers wisely incorporated into our constitution a total separation of church and state. If one is a true believer in our constitution, he/she should respect the right of each individual to make decisions within the framework of his/her own personal religious and moral conscience. One should not, through the media of the newspaper editorial page, force or compel others to believe and act contrary to their own beliefs and convictions.

Northwest Community Hospital was conceptualized to be just that: a community hospital responsive to the needs of those members living in the surrounding communities, not as a hospital catering to any specific religious belief or conviction. Its recent change in policy was long overdue, its former policy having been dictated too long by those seeking to impose religious beliefs upon all individuals seeking help from the community hospital. There are other surgical procedures long denied patients because of religious overtones . . . abortion is a very small facet of the problem.

Each individual in this community has total freedom of choice in regard to medical care: we are not a totalitarian state. There are many very excellent hospitals in this immediate area that will cater to specific religious beliefs — hospitals which do not impose a contrary belief or standard upon an individual. For the first time, a patient may have the option of electing or refusing surgical procedures according to his/her personal beliefs and convictions. After all, until one is faced with a decision it is impossible to predict what future circumstances may force a change in attitude. At the same time, the physician has an opportunity to perform those services which may be necessary for the health and welfare of all concerned without fear of reprisal or withdrawal of staff privileges at a hospital.

Each individual has the freedom to worship in the church of his/her choice. He or she should also respect the rights of others to worship and believe according to their convictions. The alternative is to move to a country where there is no separation of church and state. It is our very diversity that has made us the great nation we are today.

Elizabeth F. Hau
Prospect Heights

I would like to respond to the anti-abortion letters printed on May 6. First, I consider abortion a case-by-case operation. The story is not the same for everyone. I'm sure all the people writing those letters have happy families. But what about unwed mothers or rape victims? By choosing abortion as the best alternative, these women are not simply "washing their hands" of a problem. Young, unwed mothers can't be expected to raise a child single-handedly; it is a challenging task even for mature, financially stable, married couples.

Two young people need not be forced into marriage due to an unplanned pregnancy. Having a child involves more than just the physical aspect. If the parents are emotionally or financially unstable, bringing a child into the world is a mistake that will, by all probabilities, lead to divorce. Considering today's prices, a father in his early 20's will have a difficult time paying hospital bills and rent, as well as satisfying the needs of a growing child. Most likely, the mother would also have to hold down a full time job to make ends meet, so then . . . who takes care of the child?

The best answer is not necessarily adoption. How can one ask a 16-year-old girl to bear the burden of a child for nine months, risk her life to give birth, and have it snatched from her?

Modern birth control methods cannot always provide a solution. The pill, the most effective form of birth control, has far too many side effects at this point to be considered safe for all users. So what does one do . . . give up sexual relations?

These are just a few comments considering the other sides of this important issue. I'm not strictly pro-abortion, but I realize that in many cases, it is the only answer!

Cool it, mood ring watchers

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Cool it." "That's cool." "Don't lose your cool." Coolness as a verb, adjective and noun — these have been society's watchwords in recent years. But has the effect been entirely salutary?

To my knowledge, no research has been done to determine the impact of all this coolness. But from the observations one can make with the naked eye, it may be counter-productive.

I ran into an old friend, Nathan Hackleberry, on the street the other day. He looked morose.

NORMALLY, Hackleberry looks like a "Have a Nice Day" button. He's the only guy I ever knew who could out-smile Jimmy Carter.

"Why are you morose, Hackleberry?" I asked.

Hackleberry said that a couple of weeks ago he had celebrated his 40th birthday.

I nodded. "Number 40 is always a depressing milestone. It's traumatic to realize you'll never see 39 again."

Hackleberry shook his head. "That didn't bother me. In fact, I felt good about it. I believe that life begins at 40. It would have been fine except that one of my kids gave me a mood ring for a present. You know, one of those rings that is supposed to change colors according to what mood you are in."

"Why should that make you morose?"

"IT DIDN'T at first. It was kind of fun watching to see what color it would be. I'd go from brownish to bluish to greenish several times a day.

"But about a week after I got it, it turned deep purple. Only this time it stayed there. I kept expecting a different shade, but nothing happened. Finally, I got concerned about it."

"What did you do?"

"I started deliberately doing things that might put me in a good mood or bad mood to see whether it would affect the ring.

"I might watch part of an old Marx Brothers movie on television. Then I'd change channels and watch the ending of 'Love Story.' Nothing worked. That silly ring was stuck on deep purple.

"Next I tried mood-altering drugs. I'd take 'uppers' in the morning and 'downers' in the afternoon. Still no change."

"SO WHAT happened, Hackleberry? The suspense is killing me."

"I was telling some people at the office about it, and one of the secretaries said it probably meant that I was emotionally drained.

"As a result of trying to keep my cool, she said, I had become so tranquil the ring had blanked out."

I said, "No wonder you're morose, Hackleberry. Anyone who can't work up enough feeling to activate a mood ring is dangerously close to being deadly calm."

'Vote on unit district gives people choice'

Having been a member of the Unit District Study Committee, I would like to offer some comments.

In efforts to provide for a proper balance, the study committee was composed of persons who were pro unit: 25 per cent; anti-unit: 25 per cent; and neutral: 50 per cent. I consider myself to have been in the latter 50 per cent.

Throughout most of the meetings I remained neutral; during scrutiny of the financial statements, I supported those which I determined were correct. Those who were critical of the financial statements seemed satisfied after discussions were concluded, or at least appeared to be until the meeting of May 3, 1976. I base this statement on the fact that there were few, if any, statements made that were critical of the financial portion at the last meeting of the committee when each individual member was given the opportunity to comment. At that particular time I felt I was well informed with respect to the $19 million surplus in Dist. 214; I made the statement that I felt Dist. 214 may have been over-taxing the people if they had a surplus of $19 million. I do realize that a school district must have a working capital from year to year, but when it is over 50 per cent of their total annual budget, I feel that if this is indeed legal, then it is at least immoral. As to the other side of the coin, possibly the administrators of Dist. 214 have been very frugal with tax moneys in order to come up with this surplus. If so, then in the event a unit district is formed, they should be able to continue to exercise their frugality and find ways to insure staying in the black rather than winding up in the red as has been predicted if such an event should take place.

The Unit District Study Committee provided for, extended to and included teachers from Dist. 214 and Dist. 59. The approved minutes of the March 25, 1976 meeting state that one teacher from each district agreed to supply the opinions of their respective teacher associations. The Dist. 59 member of the committee was willing to discuss Dist. 59's position; the Dist. 214 representative indicated that he was not in a position to discuss Dist. 214's position. Since the Dist. 214 representative chose not to discuss it fully, I really don't feel the committee should be held responsible for "muzzling" the opposition.

AS FAR AS the educational benefits to be derived from a unit district, my opinion is that the education my children have received in Dist. 59 has generally been good; I see no reason why there should be a reduction in quality if we were to go unit. I also feel that continuity of education is a strong argument in favor of a unit district since the transition of course material could be much more carefully controlled from junior to senior high school. I base this statement on the fact that all junior highs in Dist. 214 do not have the same programs, the same emphasis, the same texts and are not at the same levels. It is difficult enough to absorb students from various elementary schools into one junir high; the problems are naturally compounded when several junior highs, not even in the same elementary district, are fed into one high school.

With respect to the "missing tapes," I recall that at the very outset, the secretary of the committee stated that these tape recordings were being made to assure a complete report because he was not a recording secretary, per se. I assumed that the tapes would have been reused at the following meetings after they had been transcribed. I also recall that at least the last four meetings were recorded by a professional court reporter supplied by Dist. 214 and that these transcripts were to be made available. Possibly, then, the individual who was unable to hear the lost tape would be able to obtain a copy of the transcript from Dist. 214.

FINALLY, I WOULD urge both boards of education to consider this. The majority vote of the Unit District Study Committee, with which I concur, did not vote in favor of or against the unit, but did vote to put the issue in the hands of the voters and taxpayers where it belongs. Rather than spend many months or years wasting tax money on lawyers which could be better spent on education, why not let the people make the final decision with a minimum of time and tax money? If the feeling is so strong against a unit that 1,500 signatures on a petition could be gathered in less than one week, when it took a committee over 3½ months to carefully study it without reaching a hard decision, there should be no difficulty in defeating the proposal at the polls. After all, 1,500 people is about twice the total number of voters that saw fit to participate in the last school board election.

Meaning of Memorial Day

Lincoln once said, "The world will little note nor long remember." These words strike home, for the wars are over and those that fought them are rapidly becoming forgotten men. This is especially true of those that are confined to veterans hospitals.

Throughout our broad land, millions of Americans will gather on Memorial Day to pay homage to departed comrades, husbands, fathers and brothers, who died in the service of our country. Bands will play, men will march and speeches will be made in tribute to these honored dead. For each of these has proved the truth of the Bible verse: "Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his fellow man."

ILLINOIS SHOULD be proud that the first Memorial Day Service was held in our own state, two years before the famous proclamation by General Logan, in 1868, designating May 30 as the official day for decorating the graves. There is a bronze marker in Southern Illinois, at Carbondale, which tells of the first memorial service.

Arlington Heights is proud of the men that answered the call to defend their country against its enemies. Many of her sons are buried in foreign soils or sleep beneath the still waters of the seas, others that have passed on are buried in the surrounding cemeteries. If you will check your history of this area, you will find that veterans of all wars of this country are buried in our vicinity.

I urge that you support the Veterans of Foreign Wars Poppy Day and Memorial Day services in Arlington Heights this month.

'Serious beer can collectors will only trade'

I received a copy of the article by John Maes the other day, concerning the meeting of the International Society of Beer Can Collectors. To say the least, I was most amused by it.

For the record, serious collectors refrain from buying and selling cans. Before beer can collecting became a fad for every kid west of the Mississippi River, no one really even thought of buying and selling cans. Now, collecting has reached epidemic proportions, and even the easiest can in the world to get will cost you 5 cents from a parasitic can merchant.

As for the mention of "complete" collections, there is positively no way that someone could have a "complete" collection, and a 007 sold by a parasite would not make a collection complete.

I certainly hope that one day you will send a reporter and photographer to a meeting of serious collectors who leave their wallets at home on the dresser, and strictly trade for cans they need!

Hospital's abortion stand backed

From the time of recorded history three potent factors have driven men to seek homes in foreign lands: economic distress, political harassment and religious persecution. Many lives have been lost in wars caused by these same factors. Sadly, in our country's infancy, many of those who had been persecuted in their homelands became the persecutors in this new land.

Our founding fathers wisely incorporated into our constitution a total separation of church and state. If one is a true believer in our constitution, he/she should respect the right of each individual to make decisions within the framework of his/her own personal religious and moral conscience. One should not, through the media of the newspaper editorial page, force or compel others to believe and act contrary to their own beliefs and convictions.

Northwest Community Hospital was conceptualized to be just that: a community hospital responsive to the needs of those members living in the surrounding communities, not as a hospital catering to any specific religious belief or conviction. Its recent change in policy was long overdue, its former policy having been dictated too long by those seeking to impose religious beliefs upon all individuals seeking help from the community hospital. There are other surgical procedures long denied patients because of religious overtones . . . abortion is a very small facet of the problem.

Each individual in this community has total freedom of choice in regard to medical care: we are not a totalitarian state. There are many very excellent hospitals in this immediate area that will cater to specific religious beliefs — hospitals which do not impose a contrary belief or standard upon an individual. For the first time, a patient may have the option of electing or refusing surgical procedures according to his/her personal beliefs and convictions. After all, until one is faced with a decision it is impossible to predict what future circumstances may force a change in attitude. At the same time, the physician has an opportunity to perform those services which may be necessary for the health and welfare of all concerned without fear of reprisal or withdrawal of staff privileges at a hospital.

Each individual has the freedom to worship in the church of his/her choice. He or she should also respect the rights of others to worship and believe according to their convictions. The alternative is to move to a country where there is no separation of church and state. It is our very diversity that has made us the great nation we are today.

I would like to respond to the anti-abortion letters printed on May 6. First, I consider abortion a case-by-case operation. The story is not the same for everyone. I'm sure all the people writing those letters have happy families. But what about unwed mothers or rape victims? By choosing abortion as the best alternative, these women are not simply "washing their hands" of a problem. Young, unwed mothers can't be expected to raise a child single-handedly; it is a challenging task even for mature, financially stable, married couples.

Two young people need not be forced into marriage due to an unplanned pregnancy. Having a child involves more than just the physical aspect. If the parents are emotionally or financially unstable, bringing a child into the world is a mistake that will, by all probabilities, lead to divorce. Considering today's prices, a father in his early 20's will have a difficult time paying hospital bills and rent, as well as satisfying the needs of a growing child. Most likely, the mother would also have to hold down a full time job to make ends meet, so then . . . who takes care of the child?

The best answer is not necessarily adoption. How can one ask a 16-year-old girl to bear the burden of a child for nine months, risk her life to give birth, and have it snatched from her?

Modern birth control methods cannot always provide a solution. The pill, the most effective form of birth control, has far too many side effects at this point to be considered safe for all users. So what does one do . . . give up sexual relations?

These are just a few comments considering the other sides of this important issue. I'm not strictly pro-abortion, but I realize that in many cases, it is the only answer!

Probe planned on Shea charges

by STEVE BROWN

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois House investigation into possible conflict-of-interest charges against House Majority Leader Gerald Shea, D-Riverside, has been assigned to the House executive committee for action.

State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, who brought the controversial and unprecedented charges against Shea, said House Speaker William Redmond, D-Bensenville, informed him Tuesday of the decision to assign the resolution. Redmond had been holding the matter since last week.

Schlickman introduced the resolution to reprimand Shea after disclosures that Shea had introduced a package of malpractice legislation while serving as an attorney for the Illinois State Medical Society. Shea also has been accused of lobbying for the Illinois Dept. of Insurance for approval of a plan by doctors to establish their own malpractice insurance company.

SHEA HAS repeatedly denied that any conflict of interest exists because of his work for the doctors' group.

Schlickman said he had hoped the matter would be referred to the house judiciary committee for hearings. He also noted Shea and Redmond have so far declined an invitation to meet with him to discuss procedures for handling the resolution.

Shea introduced the malpractice legislation last month. The package of bills generally is seen as legislation beneficial to doctors currently faced with rising malpractice insurance premiums. A review of Shea's 1976 economic disclosure statement showed he reported receiving more than $5,000 in legal fees from the doctors' group and another $5,000 from an unspecified health care organization. A review of Shea's ethics statement for previous years does not show Shea receiving similar fees.

SCHLICKMAN told The Herald he believes his resolution eventually will get a full hearing, but admitted many members of the Illinois General Assembly have been critical of his actions.

Some colleagues reportedly have told Schlickman they would have supported a request for an investigation, but they did not approve of his resolution, which charged Shea's actions brought discredit to all members of the legislature. They contended the wording of the resolution amounted to a prejudgement of the case against Shea.

State Rep. John Matijevich, D-North Chicago, chairman of the house executive committee, said he hopes to be able to propose a procedure for reviewing the resolution at the panel's next meeting on Tuesday.

He added that he is attempting to develop rules for handling the matter, noting that the house has not had a similar complaint since 1905. Matijevich also said he does not expect any member of the committee to attempt to scuttle the resolution before it can receive a full hearing.

dime, he said. Then new safety standards cut it back even further, McWherter said.

"Some pencils are 7 cents. They used to be two cents. And we don't have any dime writing tablets anymore, either," he said.

Even the little fuzzy Easter Chickies for the holiday baskets cost 19 cents now. And the smallest woven baskets are 15 cents.

"AT CHRISTMAS we have some small toys for a dime. They're used for stocking stuffers," he said.

"We used to sell a lot of rubber balls for a dime. They're now a quarter or 29 cents. Soap bubbles are 29 cents too," he said.

The balsa wood gliders are pushing the 30-cent mark, too.

Needles, thread, and the ever-popular pocket comb with a chrome clip probably never will see the 10-cent level without a special close-out or side walk sale.

VENDING MACHINES near the cash registers will return a "planet-size" gumball for a nickel or plastic gizmos for a dime, but there's not much more.

"Out East, they have what they call 69-cent stores. Those are stocked with items the store will buy in wholesale lots and just put out on tables," McWherter said. He thought for a moment.

"Goldfish," he said. "We used to have goldfish for a dime. I haven't seen those in years, though."

He paused again and then said, "Nickel and dime. That's sort of gone past."

Wheelmen plan benefit bike-a-thon

The Wheeling Wheelmen Bicycle Club is sponsoring a bike-a-thon to benefit the Heart Assn. between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. June 6.

Registration begins at 6 a.m. at Booth Tarkington School, Scott and Anthony streets, Wheeling. Riders must obtain sponsors or make a $5 donation to participate.

The route covers 9.5 miles through Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Arlington Heights. There are three check points where riders will pick up a token.

Trophies and medals will be awarded to the person who collects the most money by July 1, rides the most miles, has the most sponsors and who are the youngest and oldest riders in various classes.

Entry forms and additional information are available from the Heart Assn. of North Cook County, telephone 675-1535.

Mid-Suburban track finals begin today

by ART MUGALIAN
Track and Field Editor

It would make a great Bicentennial story if Forest View's track team scored 76 points in the Mid-Suburban boys conference track meet which begins today on Palatine's track and concludes Friday night.

But although most observers and rival coaches have all but conceded the first-place trophy to the mighty Falcons, few of them think coach Bill Mohrmann's team can accumulate 76 points. They ran away with last year's meet by taking eight firsts and a pair of seconds for 65 points.

"Hear me out now," cautioned Mohrmann on the eve of the big meet. "I'm not saying we'll score 76 points. All I'm saying is that if we can hit just right — if everybody scores where we think they can — we'll get 76."

The Falcons will be shooting for an unprecedented third straight MSL outdoor crown, led for the third year in a row by defending state champion Steve Schellenberger. The lithe, dark-haired senior will attempt to "triple" for the second straight year.

Joining Schellenberger will be defending long-jump and triple-jump champion Mike Harvey, junior distance runner Darryl Robinson and defending high hurdles champ Jim Vartanian.

Robinson, who is MSL indoor mile and two-mile champion, and Vartanian, a three-event winner in the league indoor meet will each try to double for the Falcons.

Forest View's supporting cast includes a formidable weight crew of Mike Mischnick, Randy Gaitsch and Lon Reitz, plus sophomore sprinter Kurt Jones, who is entered in the 220, the 100, and will help on the relays.

Fremd, Palatine and Rolling Meadows are probably the three teams with the best chance to upset Forest View. Prospect, Schaumburg and Hersey are also capable of scoring a lot of points.

Other schools entered in the meet are Hoffman Estates, Conant, Elk Grove, Buffalo Grove, Wheeling and Arlington.

Finals in the varsity long jump and discus will be held tonight along with prelims in the high hurdles, the lows, the 100, the 880, the 220, the 440, and the two sprint relays

Field events begin today at 4:30 and running events start at 5 p.m. The finals on Friday will start at seven.

TWO-MILE RELAY

Hoffman Estates probably has the edge here, although Conant and Fremd have good times too. But the Hawks registered an 8:14.5 on Monday and will benefit by the return of Steve Lind, who has missed several weeks because of an emergency appendectomy.

440-YD RELAY

Fremd's Dave Snow, Dave Talaber, Randy Polomsky and Paul Passaglia have recorded the best time in this sprint relay and should be the favorites. But Palatine, Schaumburg and Rolling Maadows are strong too and will challenge in an event that is highly unpredictable.

TWO-MILE RUN

Robinson will be strong and well rested and he can outkick sophomore Mark Smith of Prospect and Palatine's Chuck Elliott and Tony Vargas. At last Friday's Falcon Invite, though, soph Dan Inbody of Fremd showed he can match Robinson's kick. Inbody could be a threat in this event dominated by underclassmen.

HIGH HURDLES

Vartanian found out last Friday what can happen if he hits three or four hurdles in a row. It was his first loss in the 120-highs. More characteristic was Jim's performance at the Prospect Invite where he ran a :14.2. Prospect's Jim Wright is the top challenger, with Elk Grove's Pat O'Brien and Fremd's Gary Gunderson and Jim Borneman right there.

100-YD DASH

Minor injuries have kept defending champ Rick Sutton of Meadows below peak form and the Mustang junior will be hard-pressed to repeat. Vartanian, with a wind-aided :09.9 to his credit, could be the favorite. Bill Dipuma of Hoffman, Ben Orcutt of Buffalo Grove and Dave Boursaw of Meadows are all strong challengers.

880-YD. RUN

Schellenberger won't lose his specialty unless he misses the bus. There probably won't be anyone near him. Fremd could get second here with Kurt Rutz, who will be among the top challengers. Others are Conant's Brian Foss and Buffalo Grove's Joe Schmidt.

880-YD. RELAY

Rolling Meadows and Palatine are the teams to beat here, but Fremd, Hersey and Schaumburg could be in the hunt.

440-YD. DASH

Schellenberger owns this event once he gets out of the blocks. His :48.8 at the Falcon Invite is the state's best time for one lap around the track. Fremd's Polomsky has the second-best mark in the league — :50.7 in the Dist. 211 meet on Monday. Two outstanding underclassmen, Jeff Ways of Schaumburg and freshman Dave Kennedy of Palatine, could score. And indoor champ Kirk Morris of Palatine is also a threat.

LOW HURDLES

The six who reach the finals could well be Rich Falbo of Palatine, Sam Assil of Conant, Dave King of Elk

Swisher's 11th inning hit gives Cubs victory

Suddenly, the Cubs are working on a new act.

What a difference a week makes.

A pitching staff that was the joke of the league in cozy Wrigley Field now has thrown 24 consecutive scoreless innings, including 11 Wednesday in a thrilling 1-0 victory over San Francisco.

The robust hitting that was evident in the young season has cooled off, but the Cubs aren't complaining.

The Giants, however, have a lot to complain about.

It was the third straight shutout against the Giants and extended their string of scoreless innings to 33 with their eighth loss in the last nine games. It was also the eighth time this season San Francisco has been shut out.

Steve Swisher's single scored Jerry Morales from second base with the only run in the 11th inning Wednesday.

Morales singled to right field with one out and reached second on a hit-and-run ground out by Manny Trillo before the game-winning hit by Swisher, his third of the game.

The victory went to Mike Garman, who worked only one inning for the Cubs, after Rick Reuschel permitted only three hits and one walk while striking out six over the first 10 innings.

Reuschel hit rival pitcher Jim Barr early in the game, an interesting development after the recent incident in San Francisco when Barr nailed Jose Cardenal to touch off a fight.

Randy Moffitt, who worked the 11th for the Giants, got the loss.

Only one runner on either side reached third base in the first nine innings, Swisher, who singled and advanced on a single by Dave Rosello before Mick Kelleher popped out.

The two teams resume action today at Wrigley Field, starting at 1:30, San Francisco is still several innings away from the National League mark for the most consecutive scoreless frames. The record is 56.

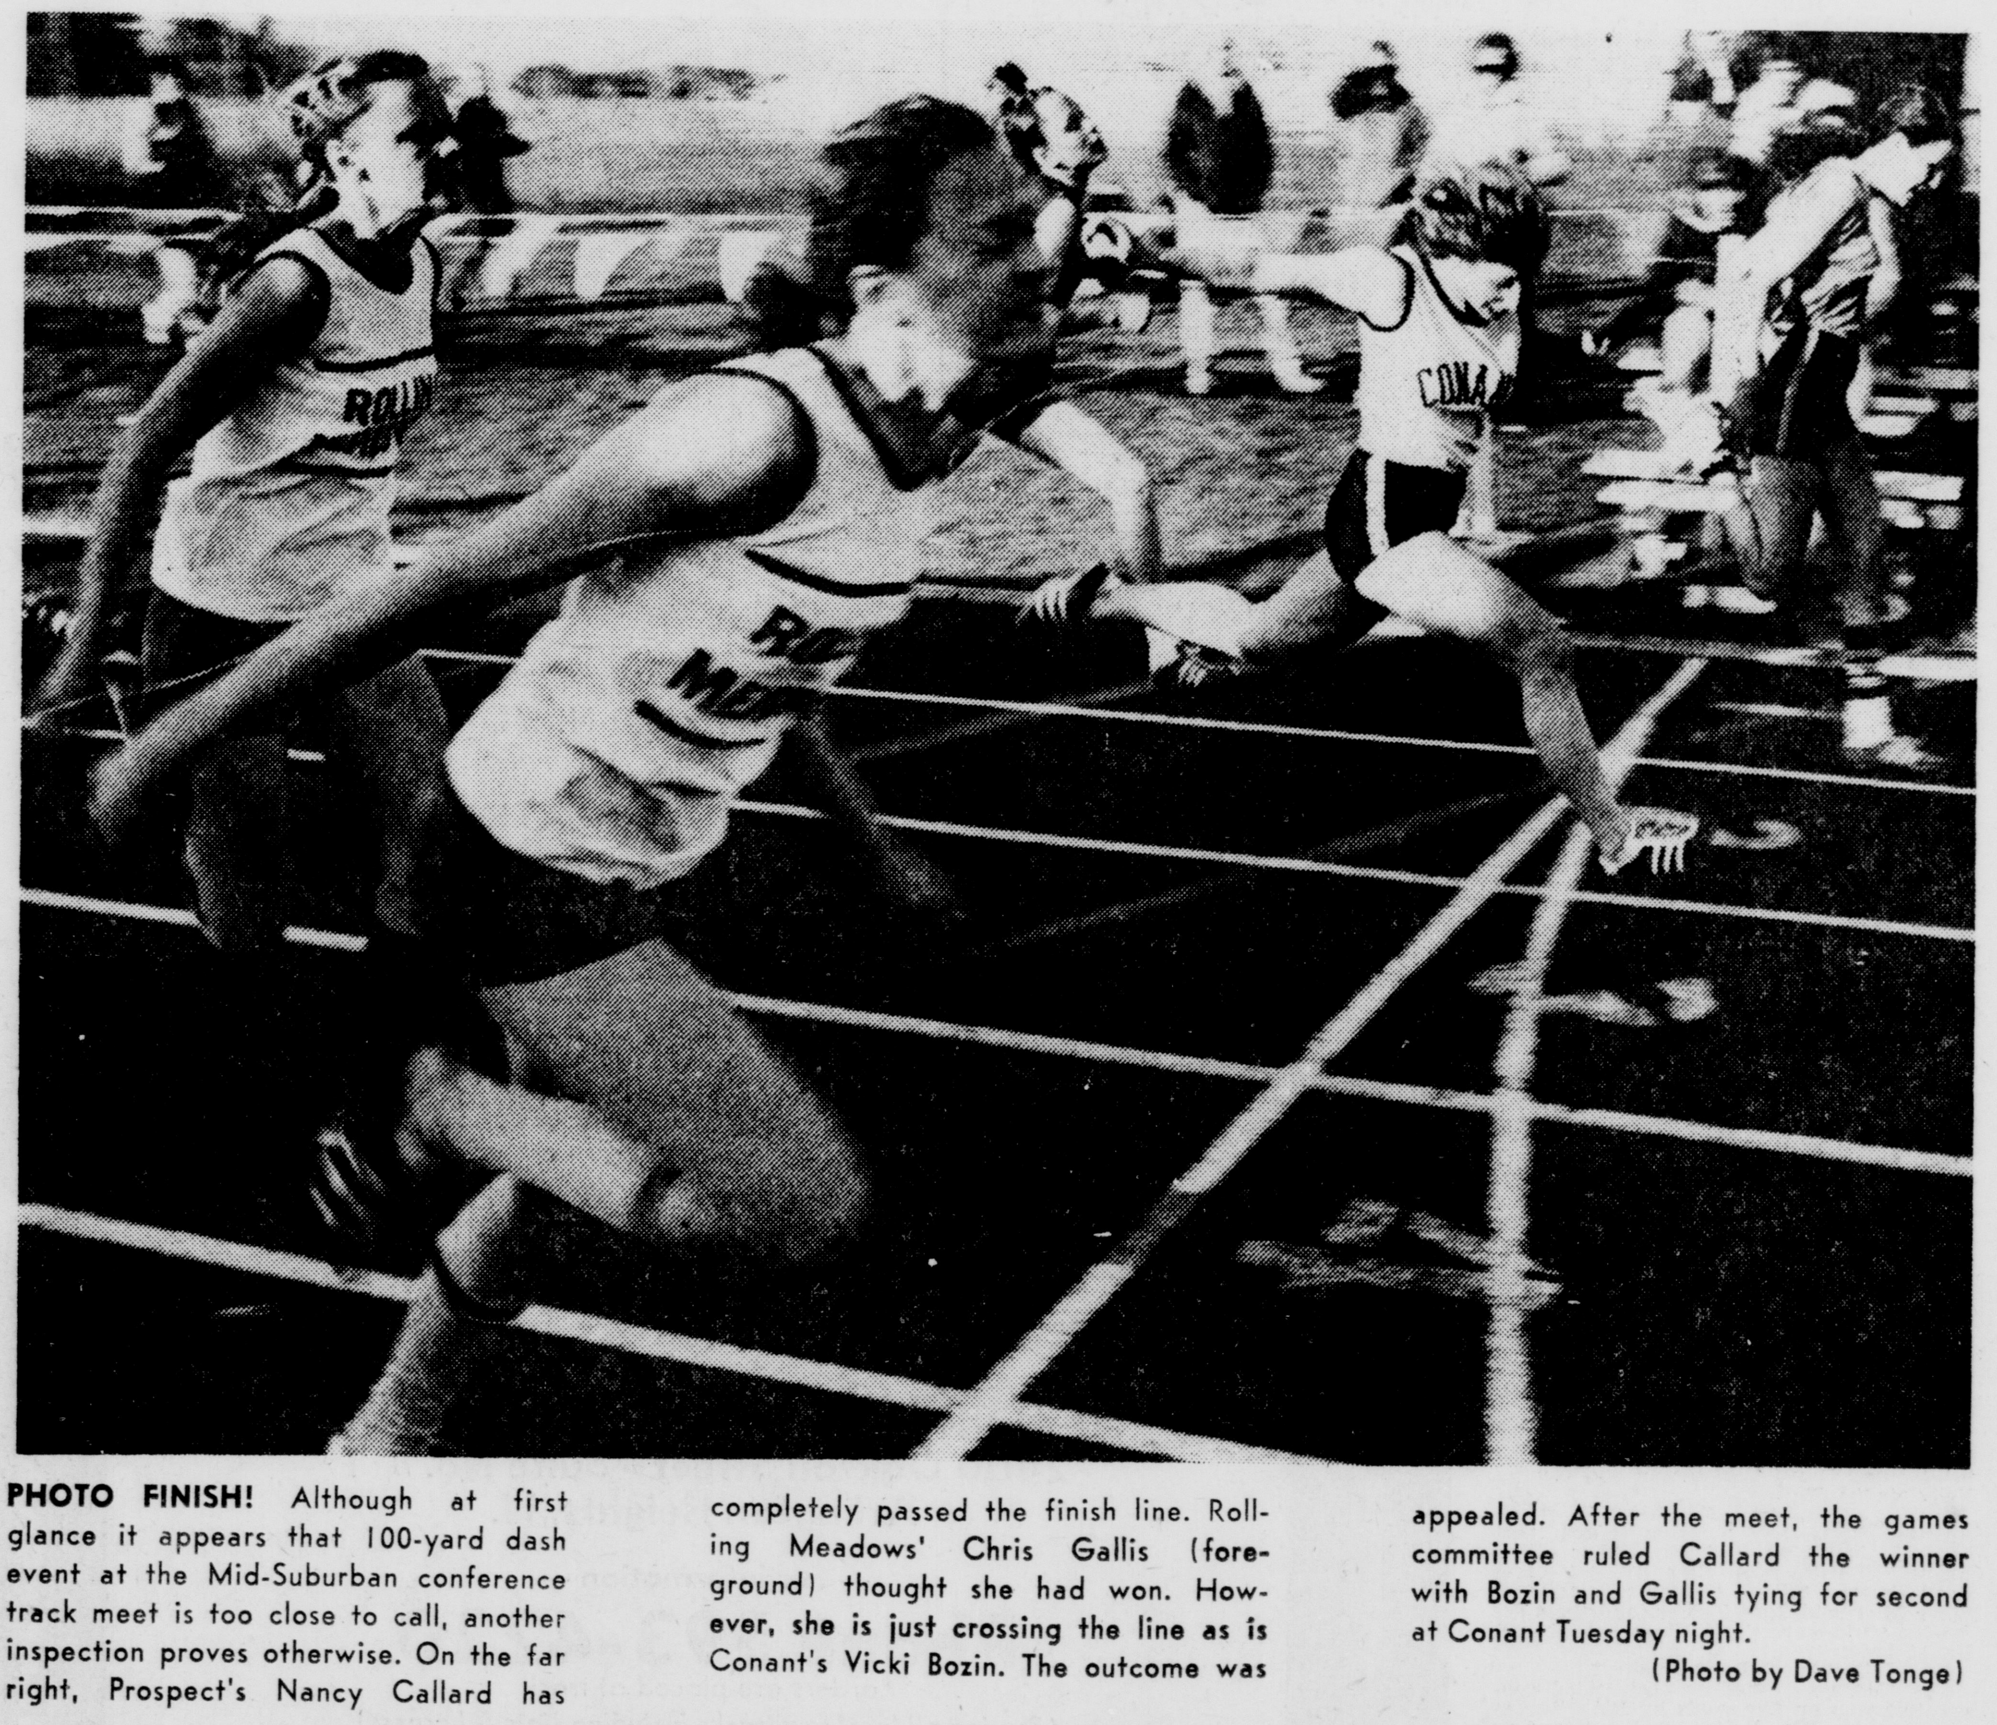

PHOTO FINISH! Although at first glance it appears that 100-yard dash event at the Mid-Suburban conference track meet is too close to call, another inspection proves otherwise. On the far right, Prospect's Nancy Callard has completely passed the finish line. Rolling Meadows' Chris Gallis (foreground) thought she had won. However, she is just crossing the line as is Conant's Vicki Bozin. The outcome was appealed. After the meet, the games committee ruled Callard the winner with Bozin and Gallis tying for second at Conant Tuesday night.

Paul Logan

Associate Sports Editor

Although it's most unfortunate, every once in a while a track meet is spoiled by controversy.

When human beings are the sole judges in determining a close finish, controversial decisions can occur. Such was the case in the girls' Mid-Suburban League meet at Conant Tuesday with the outcome of the 100-yard dash.

A Rolling Meadows sprinter, Chris Gallis, was told she had won. Then it was determined that Prospect's Nancy Callard had finished first with Gallis and Conant's Vicki Bozin tying for second.

However, the finish was so controversial that it was appealed. The results weren't officially announced until the games committee met at the end of the meet.

The committee upheld the finish, leaving Callard extremely happy and Gallis extremely upset. Emotions flowed, especially from the Rolling Meadows side.

It tarnished what had been an exciting meet. (Hersey had won a thrilling victory behind Kathy LaPorte's record-shattering trio of wins, including a super leap of 18-0 to erase the record of former Prospect superstar Trudi Rebsamen by a foot!)

As the adjacent picture by Herald photographer Dave Tonge shows, the judges picked the right winner. Unfortunately, the photo wasn't available at the height of the controversy.

If it's any consolation to those who suffered through this frustrating experience, such upsetting experiences will be eliminated in future major area meets.

The reason — Accutrack.

Most of the Dist. 214 boys' track teams raised the $4,000 needed to purchase this track timing device. It is wired to the starter's gun. As each runner crosses the finish line, a picture is taken and a time is recorded to 1/100ths of a second.

A polaroid-type picture emerges in less than a minute showing the proper finish as well as the times of each.

Joe Vitton, head boys' coach at Rolling Meadows, was instrumental in the district's acquiring of this machine. Two years ago the area coaches tried it on a trial basis at the MSL indoor meet.

"I would say that in three or four races that I know of it changed the placement (from what the judges had seen)," said Vitton.

The Accutrack just arrived last week. Since only one area man was qualified to operate it, the machine wasn't available for use Tuesday. However, it will be used as a backup for this week's MSL boys' meet.

Vitton plans to have an Accutrack seminar prior to 1977's major meets so more qualified people will be available.

The Illinois High School Assn. has purchased one to be used as the official timepiece for the state meets with the judges as the backup.

"If we would have had that (machine), I think it would have been a less emotional experience," said Joy Bundy, the Rolling Meadows girls' coach.

Hopefully, it was to be the last such frustrating night for area track athletes.

Kingman back on top

The last time Dave Kingman lead the league in homers was 1967. The 6-6 slugger smacked out only five circuit shots that season but it was enough to lead the Mid-Suburban League in round trippers. Wednesday, sporting New York Met togs rather than a Prospect Knight uniform, Kingman slammed out a pair of home runs to lead his team past Atlanta 6-3 and abruptly end the Braves' short winning streak.

Kingman had gone into the contest one behind Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt in the Major League homer derby for '76. Schmidt, last year's winner with 38 (to 36 for Kingman) has hit 13 this season but was silenced Tuesday by San Diego while Randy Jones become the first six-game winner in the Majors with a 4-0 shutout.

Kingman also drove in three runs and added a double to his fireworks while posting a 4-5 effort at the plate. Jerry Koosman with a touch of relief help from Skip Lockwood earned the win over Atlanta, allowing New York to move back into a tie with the Phillies for first place in the National League East.

The Oakland As owner hired an astrologer early in the season to help his club regain the American League title. But the current defending AL champs may have come up with an even better solution . . . witches.

Laurie Cabot, leader of some 300 Massachusetts witches headquartered in Salem, went to Cleveland Wednesday where the Boston Red Sox finally snapped out of a 10-game losing streak 6-4 on Carl Yastremski's sacrifice fly. It took 12 innings for the Sox to beat the Indians but it was well worth the extra effort . . . they last tasted victory April 23.

Cabot, who was consulted last year by a Baltimore radio station wanting to put a hex on Boston, was sent Wednesday by a Boston radio station.

Rutherford roars, Guthrie sits

Veteran Johnny Rutherford, who sat on the pole in 1973 and won the 500-mile race in 1974, whizzed around the Indianapolis Motor Speedway at speeds within a whisker of 190 miles per hour Wednesday. They were the fastest speeds posted thus far in practice for the May 30 race.

The veteran from Fort Worth, Tex. drove his primary car to a lap at 189.833 miles per hour and about five minutes before the end of practice he toured the 2½-mile oval at 189.633 m.p.h. in a two-year-old machine.

Two other drivers also hit peak speeds above 189 while for the fourth day in the last five, Janet Guthrie was unable to practice because of mechanical problems. Miss Guthrie had hoped to complete the second half of her rookie test.

Al Unser, the winner in 1970 and 1971, pushed his car with an English Cosworth engine to a circuit at 189.743 miles per hour while three-time winner A. J. Foyt circled the track at 189.633.

Stapleton hangs up skates

The Indianapolis Racers Wednesday announced the retirement of veteran defenseman Pat Stapleton, an eight-year veteran of the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League.

Stapleton, 36, played a major role in the Racers' winning the World Hockey Association's Eastern Division title this past season.

James W. Browitt, president and general manager of the Racers, said Stapleton advised him from his home in Canada that he planned to retire.

Stapleton was player-coach-owner of the Chicago Cougars in the WHA before that team folded two years ago. He then joined the Racers and was the major reason Indianapolis allowed the fewest goals in the league last season.

Otten replaces Wood on Sox roster

The Chicago White Sox put pitcher Wilbur Wood on the 60-day emergency disabled list Wednesday and called up Jim Otten, a right-hander from their Iowa farm club, to take Wood's place on the roster.

Wood suffered a broken kneecap when he was struck by a line drive May 9 in a game at Detroit.

Otten, who will be 25 July 1, has pitched in five American Associaverage. Last year at Denver his record with a 2.47 earned run average. Laast year at Denver his record was 9-9.

The Sox were in Des Moines for an exhibition game with the Iowa Oaks Wednesday night. It ended after four innings in a 3-3 tie because of rain.

And in other sports news . . .

Cincinnati Reds' third baseman Pete Rose was named Wednesday as the sixth recipient of the Roberto Clemente Award, given annually to the player who best exemplifies the game of baseball on and off the field . . . The Denver Nuggets reported that the American Basketball Association's silver championship trophy, valued at nearly $1,000, was stolen from the car of a league official in Denver for their playoff game with New York.

Defending champ Roscoe Tanner struggled to a 4-6, 6-2, 7-6 victory over Tom Gorman in the Las Vegas Tennis Classic while Jimmy Connors, annoyed about a call by a linesman, also won in the second round, punctuating his play with obscene gestures and vulgar remarks while beating Dick Stockton 6-3, 6-3 . . . Officials in charge of Olympic facilities' construction in Montreal said Wednesday they may bring in other contractors following the firing of 134 workers for slowdowns and acts of sabotage.

SOCCER
BOYS

Dolphins 4, Sting Rags 0

Kist's Sting Rays starred two Houlihans, Frank and Sean, and Matt Babler on offense; and Jeff Krohn and Barrett Poppler on defense. The Dolphins' strongest soccer men were scorers Dave Raby (one goal, one assist), Matt Lopresti (one and two), Dale Suslick (one and two), Louis Schager (one goal and fine defense), and Eric Nelson (fine defense).

Sharks 3, Seals 1

The Sharks stayed undefeated and untied on great defense by Carl Cordes, a hat trick by Matt May, and assists by Michael Zarob and John Love. Seal defensive stars were Todd Janney and Brett Ehlers, and their scorer was Rick Berens.

Gators 4, Barracudas 0

The Gators chewed on the Barracudas with goals by Tom McGuire, Michael Thomaszeck, John Walz, and Michael Hilicki; excellent play by Walz, Thomaszeck, and Danny O'Brien; and a shutout by goalie David Galvin. Particularly good effort was shown by 'Cudas Tim Canning and Randy Moore.

Dolphins 4, Marlins 0

The Dolphins rolled to their second win of the weekend on two goals by Matt Lopresti, one goal and one assist by Louis Schager, one tally by Dave Raby, a shutout by goalie Danny Jacobson, assists by Eric Nelson and Jim Sonnenberg, and a good all-around game by Brian Delanty. The most improved Marlin was Chris Cocalis.

JUNIORS

Alley Cats 4, Tigers 1

The Tigers took their first beating, although Steve Pejchl scored once and goalie Mike Donahue saved a PK. Cat goals were by Tom Dahlborn (2), Bruce Peterson, and Larry Kast.

Jaguars 3, Panthers 1

All the Jaguars were hot; Mark Anderson made a hat trick and Bruce McDaniel assisted on every goal. The only goal against them came on a PK by Scott Padgett, although Panther goalie Chris Strzalka and teammates Mike Swanson, Mark Williams and Doug Schneid played on fine defense.

Bobcats 2, Wildcats 1

The Bobcats squeaked through on two goals by Paul Haddock, assists by Dan Raby, excellent defensive play, and a fine game by Patrick Diamond in the nets. Mike Ahern made the Wildcat tally.

Lkions 4, Cougars 1

The Lions moved into the winner's column on goals by Jamie Trzeciak (2), Jamie Reiter, and Kevin Dorhout, and a good job by goalie Brad Liddiard. The Cougar goal was by Craig Hartman on an assist by Gabor Mark.

Pumas 1, Cheetahs 1

Kevin Smith starred and scored for the Pumas. On the Cheetah side, Paul Burgess, Al Kraml, and Mark Dammes earned coach's commendations and Todd Bleecker tallied.

INTERMEDIATES

Swifts 5, Flickers 2

David Graveline (2), Mike Updike, Jeff Koehl, and Mike Hogan scored for the Swifts; and David Christensen and George Kelly for the Flickers.

Blue Jays 4, Condors 2

Brian Galis led a team effort that brought home the victory when Rich Brandt, Ted Brunk, Rich O'Keefe and Brad Burgess tallied. Condor scorers were Steve Mick and Tom Forbes, and their defensive stars were Chris Kingsborough and David Arden.

Turkeys 6, Roadrunners 2

The Turkeys trotted to their third consecutive won on five goals by Rick Ruzbasan, one by Ron Reiter, and outstanding defense by Dave Shoaf, Steve Horness, and John O'Driscoll. Rich Drozd and Jon Oursler made some fine plays for the Runners, Chris Abbick scored twice, and Scott Replinger made an assist.

Orioles 4, Eagles 3

Daryl Warren and Carl Privett defended the Eagles' nest while David Eck scored twice and Bob Drozd once. Oriole pointmen were Michael Deutschmann (2), Michael Carroll and Tom Cole.

Hawks 4, Cardinals 2

Hawk points were by Tom Chernesky (assisted by Mark Hogan), Jim Kott (assisted by Chernesky), Chris Benson (assisted by Jim Martin) and Brian Hetzel (assisted by Ken Mueller). Their strongest defender was Brian Reed. Keane's Cardinals were sparked by scorers (and outstanding players) Clark Lush and Matt McElman, and Eddie Keane.

SENIORS

Impalas 1, Mustangs 0

The Mustang players joined in a superb short-handed effort (goalie Mike Grensing made 25 saves) to stop the powerful Impalas in a close game. The Impala strengths were fullbacks George Stillwell and Chris Ashburn, shutout goalie Mike Fashing, and Dave Castillo who scored on an assist by Rob Parenzan.

Impalas 4, Gazelles 2

Top field play by Impala center full Evan Privett and halfbacks Bill Dahlborn and Bill Scott, held the Gazelles to two points while Bob Wegener (assisted by Andy Deutschmann), Dave Moller (assisted by Wegener), Rob Parenzan (again by Wegener), and Dave Castillo (assisted by Brian Catlin) scored for the second win of the weekend. Tom Chu and Bill May booted in the Gazelle tallies; and Mike Ritter, Mike Walther, and Greg Norys were cited for field play.

Beavers 3, Rams 1

A first defeat for the Rams despite a goal by Jab Babler and fine play by halfback Bart McCarthy. Solid goaltending by Beavers Jim Pejchl and John Tierney, coupled with excellent backfield by Brant Andre and Bill Pederson aided the cause which ultimately succeeded because Chris Braun (assisted by Rich McElman), Tom Seiter, and McElman scored.

Bears 2, Wolves 0

Bear Charlie Marsland had a busy afternoon, assisting on Chris Schager's goal, scoring with a corner kick, and saving a PK in a temporary stint in goal. Rookie goalie Joe Irons had an equally good time pulling out a shutout and first win for the team in his first outing in goal — with some powerful help from fullbacks Jeff Seiter and Howard Jensen.

GIRLS

Steakers 0, Soccer Boppers 0

Two O'Briens, Mary Margaret in goal and Marita Ann on defense protected the Bopper nets with outstanding help from Joyce Randall and Kristen Dempsey. The other faction in this scoreless tie were superior Streaker players Rita Belsterling, Lori Love, Ellen Lamarre, and goalie Maribeth Lydon.

Soccer Boppers 3,
Jolly Green Giants 0

A good game by Giants' Tracey Carlson and goalie Annette Jackowski didn't faze the Boppers who came through with outstanding play by Ashley Williams, and Mary Lynn McNamara, a hat trick by Michelle Boudreau (on assists by Debbie Logan, Laura Carlisle, and Kelly Murphy), and a shutout by net-tender Mary Margaret O'Brien.

Sun Devils 0, Jeans 0

The shutout goalies were Devil, Laura Csoka and Jean, Diane Sharapata. Outstanding players for the Gold were Mary English and Kim Rouse; and for the Red, Erin Carroll, Adrianne Ferlaak, and Jenny Brennan.

INTERMEDIATES

Flaming Tigers 7, Skylarks 0

The Tigers had a feast on three goals by Colleen Molohon, one each by Colleen Patten, Ann Leis, Leslie Miller, and Carol Thielen, and a shutout for goalies Vanessa Hadley and Thielen.

Royal Runners 5, Red Barons 0

Baron goalie Peggy McGuire had a tough day of heroic defense; she saved 20 out of 25 shots. But the Runners, offense and defense, were having a good day; Karen Groth made a hat trick, and Dawn Dzikonsi and Danielle Lefevre one each, and Christy Eme had a shutout.

Golden Eagles 3, Green Machine 1

Cindy Chope did all the scoring for the High Flying Eagles; one alone, one on an assist by Nancy Shellander, and one PK. Denise Andre booted in the Green tally.

SENIORS

Bumblebees 0, Golden Eagles 0

Goalies Jennifer Wilson (Bees), Kitty Naughton and Karen Kearns (Eagles) earned the shutout, and Eagles Mary Jo Skangel, Joan Naughton, and Belinda Foy were cited for outstanding play.

Bumblebees 3, Orange Blossoms 2

76'ers 3, Grasshoppers 1

Coach Judy Miller was jubilant over her first win in a year and a half as good defensive play by Michelle Hebert and a fine passing game by Ruth Hierl, Elizabeth Simons, Lori Solimene, Dana Howard and Laura Francis enabled Solimene to score a hat trick and Howard to make an assist. Grasshopper stars were defensewomen Cheryl Willmann and Mary Shellander, scorer Lauree Small and assistor Holly Meyer.

Kingman back on top

The last time Dave Kingman lead the league in homers was 1967. The 6-6 slugger smacked out only five circuit shots that season but it was enough to lead the Mid-Suburban League in round trippers. Wednesday, sporting New York Met togs rather than a Prospect Knight uniform, Kingman slammed out a pair of home runs to lead his team past Atlanta 6-3 and abruptly end the Braves' short winning streak.

Kingman had gone into the contest one behind Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt in the Major League homer derby for '76. Schmidt, last year's winner with 38 (to 36 for Kingman) has hit 13 this season but was silenced Tuesday by San Diego while Randy Jones become the first six-game winner in the Majors with a 4-0 shutout.

Kingman also drove in three runs and added a double to his fireworks while posting a 4-5 effort at the plate. Jerry Koosman with a touch of relief help from Skip Lockwood earned the win over Atlanta, allowing New York to move back into a tie with the Phillies for first place in the National League East.

The Oakland As owner hired an astrologer early in the season to help his club regain the American League title. But the current defending AL champs may have come up with an even better solution . . . witches.

Laurie Cabot, leader of some 300 Massachusetts witches headquartered in Salem, went to Cleveland Wednesday where the Boston Red Sox finally snapped out of a 10-game losing streak 6-4 on Carl Yastremski's sacrifice fly. It took 12 innings for the Sox to beat the Indians but it was well worth the extra effort . . . they last tasted victory April 23.

Cabot, who was consulted last year by a Baltimore radio station wanting to put a hex on Boston, was sent Wednesday by a Boston radio station.

Rutherford roars, Guthrie sits

Veteran Johnny Rutherford, who sat on the pole in 1973 and won the 500-mile race in 1974, whizzed around the Indianapolis Motor Speedway at speeds within a whisker of 190 miles per hour Wednesday. They were the fastest speeds posted thus far in practice for the May 30 race.

The veteran from Fort Worth, Tex. drove his primary car to a lap at 189.833 miles per hour and about five minutes before the end of practice he toured the 2½-mile oval at 189.633 m.p.h. in a two-year-old machine.

Two other drivers also hit peak speeds above 189 while for the fourth day in the last five, Janet Guthrie was unable to practice because of mechanical problems. Miss Guthrie had hoped to complete the second half of her rookie test.

Al Unser, the winner in 1970 and 1971, pushed his car with an English Cosworth engine to a circuit at 189.743 miles per hour while three-time winner A. J. Foyt circled the track at 189.633.

Stapleton hangs up skates

The Indianapolis Racers Wednesday announced the retirement of veteran defenseman Pat Stapleton, an eight-year veteran of the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League.

Stapleton, 36, played a major role in the Racers' winning the World Hockey Association's Eastern Division title this past season.

James W. Browitt, president and general manager of the Racers, said Stapleton advised him from his home in Canada that he planned to retire.

Stapleton was player-coach-owner of the Chicago Cougars in the WHA before that team folded two years ago. He then joined the Racers and was the major reason Indianapolis allowed the fewest goals in the league last season.

Otten replaces Wood on Sox roster

The Chicago White Sox put pitcher Wilbur Wood on the 60-day emergency disabled list Wednesday and called up Jim Otten, a right-hander from their Iowa farm club, to take Wood's place on the roster.

Wood suffered a broken kneecap when he was struck by a line drive May 9 in a game at Detroit.

Otten, who will be 25 July 1, has pitched in five American Associaverage. Last year at Denver his record with a 2.47 earned run average. Laast year at Denver his record was 9-9.

The Sox were in Des Moines for an exhibition game with the Iowa Oaks Wednesday night. It ended after four innings in a 3-3 tie because of rain.

And in other sports news . . .

Cincinnati Reds' third baseman Pete Rose was named Wednesday as the sixth recipient of the Roberto Clemente Award, given annually to the player who best exemplifies the game of baseball on and off the field . . . The Denver Nuggets reported that the American Basketball Association's silver championship trophy, valued at nearly $1,000, was stolen from the car of a league official in Denver for their playoff game with New York.

Defending champ Roscoe Tanner struggled to a 4-6, 6-2, 7-6 victory over Tom Gorman in the Las Vegas Tennis Classic while Jimmy Connors, annoyed about a call by a linesman, also won in the second round, punctuating his play with obscene gestures and vulgar remarks while beating Dick Stockton 6-3, 6-3 . . . Officials in charge of Olympic facilities' construction in Montreal said Wednesday they may bring in other contractors following the firing of 134 workers for slowdowns and acts of sabotage.

SOCCER

Dolphins 4, Sting Rags 0

Kist's Sting Rays starred two Houlihans, Frank and Sean, and Matt Babler on offense; and Jeff Krohn and Barrett Poppler on defense. The Dolphins' strongest soccer men were scorers Dave Raby (one goal, one assist), Matt Lopresti (one and two), Dale Suslick (one and two), Louis Schager (one goal and fine defense), and Eric Nelson (fine defense).

Sharks 3, Seals 1

The Sharks stayed undefeated and untied on great defense by Carl Cordes, a hat trick by Matt May, and assists by Michael Zarob and John Love. Seal defensive stars were Todd Janney and Brett Ehlers, and their scorer was Rick Berens.

Gators 4, Barracudas 0

The Gators chewed on the Barracudas with goals by Tom McGuire, Michael Thomaszeck, John Walz, and Michael Hilicki; excellent play by Walz, Thomaszeck, and Danny O'Brien; and a shutout by goalie David Galvin. Particularly good effort was shown by 'Cudas Tim Canning and Randy Moore.

Dolphins 4, Marlins 0

The Dolphins rolled to their second win of the weekend on two goals by Matt Lopresti, one goal and one assist by Louis Schager, one tally by Dave Raby, a shutout by goalie Danny Jacobson, assists by Eric Nelson and Jim Sonnenberg, and a good all-around game by Brian Delanty. The most improved Marlin was Chris Cocalis.

JUNIORS

Alley Cats 4, Tigers 1

The Tigers took their first beating, although Steve Pejchl scored once and goalie Mike Donahue saved a PK. Cat goals were by Tom Dahlborn (2), Bruce Peterson, and Larry Kast.

Jaguars 3, Panthers 1

All the Jaguars were hot: Mark Anderson made a hat trick and Bruce McDaniel assisted on every goal. The only goal against them came on a PK by Scott Padgett, although Panther goalie Chris Strzalka and teammates Mike Swanson, Mark Williams and Doug Schneid played on fine defense.

Bobcats 2, Wildcats 1

The Bobcats squeaked through on two goals by Paul Haddock, assists by Dan Raby, excellent defensive play, and a fine game by Patrick Diamond in the nets. Mike Ahern made the Wildcat tally.

Lkions 4, Cougars 1

The Lions moved into the winner's column on goals by Jamie Trzeciak (2), Jamie Reiter, and Kevin Dorhout, and a good job by goalie Brad Liddiard. The Cougar goal was by Craig Hartman on an assist by Gabor Mark.

Pumas 1, Cheetahs 1

Kevin Smith starred and scored for the Pumas. On the Cheetah side, Paul Burgess, Al Kraml, and Mark Dammes earned coach's commendations and Todd Bleecker tallied.

INTERMEDIATES

Swifts 5, Flickers 2

David Graveline (2), Mike Updike, Jeff Koehl, and Mike Hogan scored for the Swifts; and David Christensen and George Kelly for the Flickers.

Blue Jays 4, Condors 2

Brian Galis led a team effort that brought home the victory when Rich Brandt, Ted Brunk, Rich O'Keefe and Brad Burgess tallied. Condor scorers were Steve Mick and Tom Forbes, and their defensive stars were Chris Kingsborough and David Arden.

Turkeys 6, Roadrunners 2

The Turkeys trotted to their third consecutive won on five goals by Rick Ruzbasan, one by Ron Reiter, and outstanding defense by Dave Shoaf, Steve Horness, and John O'Driscoll. Rich Drozd and Jon Oursler made some fine plays for the Runners. Chris Abbick scored twice, and Scott Replinger made an assist.

Orioles 4, Eagles 3

Daryl Warren and Carl Privett defended the Eagles' nest while David Eck scored twice and Bob Drozd once. Oriole pointmen were Michael Deutschmann (2), Michael Carroll and Tom Cole.

Hawks 4, Cardinals 2

Hawk points were by Tom Chernesky (assisted by Mark Hogan), Jim Kott (assisted by Chernesky), Chris Benson (assisted by Jim Martin) and Brian Hetzel (assisted by Ken Mueller). Their strongest defender was Brian Reed. Keane's Cardinals were sparked by scorers (and outstanding players) Clark Lush and Matt McElman, and Eddie Keane.

SENIORS

Impalas 1, Mustangs 0

The Mustang players joined in a superb short-handed effort (goalie Mike Grensing made 25 saves) to stop the powerful Impalas in a close game. The Impala strengths were fullbacks George Stillwell and Chris Ashburn, shutout goalie Mike Fashing, and Dave Castillo who scored on an assist by Rob Parenzan.

Impalas 4, Gazelles 2

Top field play by Impala center full Evan Privett and halfbacks Bill Dahlborn and Bill Scott, held the Gazelles to two points while Bob Wegener (assisted by Andy Deutschmann), Dave Moller (assisted by Wegener), Rob Parenzan (again by Wegener), and Dave Castillo (assisted by Brian Catlin) scored for the second win of the weekend. Tom Chu and Bill May booted in the Gazelle tallies; and Mike Ritter, Mike Walther, and Greg Norys were cited for field play.

Beavers 3, Rams 1

A first defeat for the Rams despite a goal by Jab Babler and fine play by halfback Bart McCarthy. Solid goaltending by Beavers Jim Pejchl and John Tierney, coupled with excellent backfield by Brant Andre and Bill Pederson aided the cause which ultimately succeeded because Chris Braun (assisted by Rich McElman), Tom Seiter, and McElman scored.

Bears 2, Wolves 0

Bear Charlie Marsland had a busy afternoon, assisting on Chris Schager's goal, scoring with a corner kick, and saving a PK in a temporary stint in goal. Rookie goalie Joe Irons had an equally good time pulling out a shutout and first win for the team in his first outing in goal — with some powerful help from fullbacks Jeff Seiter and Howard Jensen.

Steakers 0, Soccer Boppers 0

Two O'Briens, Mary Margaret in goal and Marita Ann on defense protected the Bopper nets with outstanding help from Joyce Randall and Kristen Dempsey. The other faction in this scoreless tie were superior Streaker players Rita Belsterling, Lori Love, Ellen Lamarre, and goalie Maribeth Lydon.

Soccer Boppers 3,
Jolly Green Giants 0

A good game by Giants' Tracey Carlson and goalie Annette Jackowski didn't faze the Boppers who came through with outstanding play by Ashley Williams, and Mary Lynn McNamara, a hat trick by Michelle Boudreau (on assists by Debbie Logan, Laura Carlisle, and Kelly Murphy), and a shutout by net-tender Mary Margaret O'Brien.

Sun Devils 0, Jeans 0

The shutout goalies were Devil, Laura Csoka and Jean, Diane Sharapata. Outstanding players for the Gold were Mary English and Kim Rouse; and for the Red, Erin Carroll, Adrianne Ferlaak, and Jenny Brennan.

INTERMEDIATES

Flaming Tigers 7, Skylarks 0

The Tigers had a feast on three goals by Colleen Molohon, one each by Colleen Patten, Ann Leis, Leslie Miller, and Carol Thielen, and a shutout for goalies Vanessa Hadley and Thielen.

Royal Runners 5, Red Barons 0

Baron goalie Peggy McGuire had a tough day of heroic defense; she saved 20 out of 25 shots. But the Runners, offense and defense, were having a good day; Karen Groth made a hat trick, and Dawn Dzikonsi and Danielle Lefevre one each, and Christy Eme had a shutout.

Golden Eagles 3, Green Machine 1

Cindy Chope did all the scoring for the High Flying Eagles; one alone, one on an assist by Nancy Shellander, and one PK. Denise Andre booted in the Green tally.

SENIORS

Bumblebees 0, Golden Eagles 0

Goalies Jennifer Wilson (Bees), Kitty Naughton and Karen Kearns (Eagles) earned the shutout, and Eagles Mary Jo Skangel, Joan Naughton, and Belinda Foy were cited for outstanding play.

Bumblebees 3, Orange Blossoms 2

The Bees buzzed in three goals (by Lori Hogan, Kathy Cernok, and Sue Chernesky), and strong defense by Julie Buist and Diane Belsterling kept them in the winners column. Blossom Tracy Christiansen played a great game, setting up Karen Felix's tally. Donna Gerdes scored the other Orange point.

76'ers 3, Grasshoppers 1

Coach Judy Miller was jubilant over her first win in a year and a half as good defensive play by Michelle Hebert and a fine passing game by Ruth Hierl, Elizabeth Simons, Lori Solimene, Dana Howard and Laura Francis enabled Solimene to score a hat trick and Howard to make an assist. Grasshopper stars were defensewomen Cheryl Willmann and Mary Shellander, scorer Lauree Small and assistor Holly Meyer.

VFW Monday League

Key, Foy and Snelten Insurance took over first place in the VFW Golf League Monday night, with an 18 to 6 win over its opponents, after Kolman Plumbing knocked off league leading Premier Electric by a score of 17 to 7, taking second place. Darryl Burkett of Kehe Motors grabbed three birdies on the 4th, 7th and 9th holes, while other birdies were picked up by Jim Hahn getting two on the 1st and 4th, Lee Stick and Al McDougall on the 7th, Mel Erickson on the 12th, Bill Becker and Loren Marschman on the 14th, Joe Seibert and Mel Roloff on the 15th hole. Low gross honors went to Darryl Burkett who fired a 1 under par 35 on the front nine while George Clarkson captured low net leadership with a searing 48-18—30 on the back nine holes.

May start for baseball best answer to problems

Bob Gallas

Staff Sportswriter

April means warm breezes, spring flowers, the proverbial throwing off of winter so they say. But to those who must play the game of baseball during that month, the thought of April conjures up a different image — one of endless rain, mud, cold weather and even a few inches of snow occasionally.

Yet every April, like lambs to the slaughter, high schoolers to major leaguears try to play the game that Abner Doubleday figured would be better suited for warm and dry weather. And every April, you need a computer to refigure the schedule after 47 rainouts, snowouts, freeze outs or wet grounds postponements.

There would seem to be a very easy solution to the mess — leave April to the ducks and begin baseball schedules in May.

Yet major league owners, despite ridiculously low attendance figures in cold weather cities this spring, cite the need for April play because of the lengthy 162-game schedule which they need to "break even."

Even high school schedule makers who fear wet weather even more because of poor playing fields that sometimes need several days of nice weather to dry out — are against moving their schedules back into May and June.

White Sox president Bill Veeck is one of the minority of big league owners who wants to spend April in spring training, not Antarctica. Veeck knows all about April weather.

Five of his first 10 home dates were canceled because of the weather. Those are cancellations which Veeck figures cost him 150,000 in people who might otherwise have spun his turnstyles.

"I've always contended that the season starts too early, ends too late and has too many games in between," Veeck said. "But even the schedule we have is backwards. We open the season playing Eastern Division teams who only come into Chicago twice a season. If the games are rained out, we have no place to play them."

One way to avoid April play in the major leagues would be to shorten the schedule by 20 or so games, say to about 140. There's a theory that the same amount of people would turn out to see 140 games as 162. That's because many fans plan their trips to the ballpark and will take a set number per year. Veeck agrees.

"Obviously there's a limit, but I believe the theory," Veeck said. "I pleaded for that (140 games) more than 15 years ago when the league expanded and my fellow owners listened very closely — then expanded the schedule from 154 to 162 games."

There are other ways to avoid April play like eliminating the large number of open dates early in the schedule, and setting up more doubleheaders to avoid April play.

Actually, it's a little hard to buy the owners' lament that 162 games are necessary. Elimination of 22 games would only mean better use of dates, getting rid of some games during "off-peak" week days. High attendance days — Friday nights, Sunday afternoons, etc — would still stay on the schedule.

High schools don't have the problem of making money off attendance, but nevertheless, don't look for a later season there. In fact, one enterprising high school in the Northwest suburbs is moving in the other direction and started its season this year on March 25.

The average April rainfall here of more than four inches plays havoc with high school schedules. Although the early part of the month this year was unusually dry, Mother Nature, as always, gets her due and the four inches of rain came later in the month. And the schedules haven't been the same since.

There's another argument for later play in high school. Some schools have been forced to play their opening game of the year without having practiced outdoors once prior to the game. Injuries and pulled muscles are also more prevalent in the cooler weather.

Bill Beckman, Forest View's athletic director, has long advocated a May-June schedule. Present schedules end now in late May. Beckman's idea would mean the elimination of "summer league" play for high school teams and hence he hasn't gotten much backing.

So keep your boots and slickers ready for viewing April baseball games and make sure the umbrella is in good working order, except of course if you're a fan of the Houston Astros, who are the big winners in April.

They play baseball indoors.

Mid-Suburban track meet

MILE RUN

Robinson may not have the strength to double, but he'll try it when he comes back in the mile. Prospect's Smith has the top-seeded time (4:25.8), and soph Tom Johnson of Palatine seems to be the fastest-charging miler in a field that is good but not spectacular. Anything could happen here, so watch Dan Tischler of Fremd, Rolling Meadows' Tom Choice, Hoffman's Sam Cox and Palatine's Vargas.

220-YD. DASH

Schellenberger's supreme test will come in the 220, where he has been beaten twice this year — by DiPuma and Schaumburg's Mike Christy. Sutton, O'Brien and Randy Krizmanich of Hoffman are also threats. If everything goes right for Schellenberger, he will be trying for his eighth MSL title in three years — three of them in the 220.

SHOT PUT

Forest View's Gaitsch and Mischnick are among the top-seeded here, but Dave Komiss of Hersey and Al DaValle of Fremd are capable of winning. Rich Huber of Meadows won't be able to put because of a back injury. Schaumburg's weight crew, Brad Crawford and Bill Bolger, have been coming on lately and Dan Streich of Elk Grove merits watching.

DISCUS

Crawford is the most consistent in the disc, with just about every throw in the 148-160 range. Dave Thompson of Rolling Meadows is the only one who has come within 10 feet of Crawford when he threw 158-1 last Saturday. Gaitsch and Reitz of Forest View are threats to score, as is Huber.

HIGH JUMP

Defending champ Mark Barnes of Palatine, who won last year with 6-2, will by chasing four jumpers who have gone 6-4 outdoors — Fremd's Jim Hamill, Schaumburg's Scott Mielke, Prospect's Brad Millar and Conant's Brian O'Donnell. Three others have gone 6-3.

POLE VAULT

Dave Paape of Hoffman, who has gone 14-4 and 14-0 in his last two meets, will be favored here. Prospect's Bryan Granzin has looked good trying 13-9, but aside from Paape, nobody else in the league has been consistent at 13-6.

LONG JUMP

This event could be wide open. The top four seeds are Pat Murphy of Meadows, Lawson England of Fremd, Millar and Christy, but only England has been consistent at 20 feet.

TRIPLE JUMP

Harvey and Hersey's Dave Koelper could have an interesting battle here. Harvey has reached 44-4½ and is the league record-holder, but Koelper has been coming on strong as have teammate Tony Becker and Fremd's Dave Smedley.

MILE RELAY

If it comes down to the mile relay, it will be a real showdown. Palatine, Fremd, Meadows and Arlington have shown the most so far. The Vikings and Pirates each clocked 3:28.2 in the Dist. 211 meet.

GRITTING HER TEETH is Hersey's Tricia Wurtz in the high jump at the Conant hosted Mid-Suburban track and field meet. Wurtz finished second to Wheeling's Sandy Rainey with a leap of 5-2 Tuesday. She also was on the winning 440 and 880 medley relay teams as Hersey captured the meet title, edging Wheeling 50 to 45.

Six girls' softball teams capture state Sub-Regional tournaments

Maine West, Forest View, Fremd, Hersey, Hoffman Estates and Wheeling captured Sub-Regional titles in the state girls' softball tournament Wednesday.

Here are the details:

MAINE WEST WINS

Nancy Habttler's two-hit, 13-strike-out performance paced Maine West over Sub-Regional host Elk Grove, 14-2.

Habetler was aided with the hitting of Annette Arnold (3-for-5), Carolyn Miller (2-for-4) and Debbie Carlstrom (2-for-5). Kathy Czopek took the loss.

Once-beaten Maine will meet undefeated Niles West at the Elk Grove Regional on Tuesday.

SCORE BY INNINGS

Maine West ....241 320 2—14-11-3
Elk Grove ....000 101 0— 2- 2-7

FOREST VIEW ROMPS

Plenty of extra base hits and Nancy Lachus' three-hit pitching helped Forest View top Sub-Regional host Prospect, 10-4.

Lachus homered and tripled for three RBI with Bonnie Rogosch having a triple and double in a 3-for-4 day and Linda Butzen clubbing a triple while going 2-for-3. Sue Artemenko was 2-for-3 off losing hurler Pam Mache.

Forest View will meet Barrington at the Barrington Regional on Monday.

SCORE BY INNINGS

Prospect ....011 002 0— 4- 3-2
Forest View ......134 200 x—10-12-2

PALATINE FALLS

Barrington scored in all but the final frame in handing Sub-Regional host Palatine a 21-3 loss.

Palatine's indy Charlier ruined Dunn's bid for a no-hitter with a third-inning single.

Dunn and Furst homered off loser Julie Kett. Palatine committed 12 errors.

SCORE BY INNINGS

Barrington ......432 543 0—21-14- 2
Palatine ....100 110 0— 3- 1-12

FREMD IN BIG INNING

Fremd exploded for 11 runs in the sixth inning en route to a 15-3 victory over Sub-Regional host Rolling Meadows.

Winning pitcher Pam Lechner struck out four and walked only one. She was backtd by a defense that committed just two errors.

Lechner was 3-for-4 with a triple. Also doing some heavy hitting were Cindy Nelson with 4-for-5 and Colleen Cannon with 3-for-5.

Nancy Budde was the losing pitcher. Carol Emerich paced Meadows with 2-for-4.

Fremd will meet Hersey in the second round of the talent-laden Barrington Regional on Tuesday.

Hurting Hinsdale clips Arlington, 7-2

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Tennis Editor

The Hinsdale Central Red Devils limped into Arlington Wednesday without two of their best players and handed the Cardinals a 7-2 dual meet defeat.

Ted Staren, the Devils' No. 1 singles player, and Al Pielet, a state champion in doubles last year, were both missing from the Hinsdale squad.

"Teddy has a pulled shoulder muscle," said Hinsdale coach Jay Kramer, "and Pielet is out with a groin injury.

"They're just little, nagging injuries but they're coming at a time when we don't need them.

"I had a lot of misgivings about playing a fine team like Arlington at this time."

Kramer inserted senior Randy Druz at No. 1 singles and Arlington's Paul Wei stopped him in three sets 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Druz, who later gave Arlington their second point when he had to default in a doubles match, played with a sore ankle that didn't cheapen Wei's victory.

"He sure didn't play like he had a sore ankle," said Arlington coach Tom Pitchford. "He was really moving out there."

Hinsdale took the other five singles matches in straight sets.

John Wallner and Pete Burkhardt took the first set of their No. 1 doubles match with Druz and Eric Umsted 7-5 before the Devils defaulted.

Hinsdale handled Arlington in the other doubles matches, winning both in straight sets.

"I was pleased with our doubles play," Pitchford said. "We got beat but this is the best competition we've had this year.

"We played but we took a lot of lessons, too."

Prospect, who will be Arlington's main challenger in the conference meet starting tomorrow at Wheeling, went out of the conference and suffered a 4-1 loss to Libertyville.

Steve Chelberg won the Knights' only point at No. 2 singles with a straight set victory.

"One of our biggest goals is to upgrade our schedule," said Prospect coach Jim Gelhaar. "It doesn't do any good to play teams and blow them off all the time.

"Libertyville is a good club and we want to play teams as good as we are or better."

GRITTING HER TEETH is Hersey's Tricia Wurtz in the high jump at the Conant hosted Mid-Suburban track and field meet. Wurtz finished second to Wheeling's Sandy Rainey with a leap of 5-2 Tuesday. She also was on the winning 440 and 880 medley relay teams as Hersey captured the meet title, edging Wheeling 50 to 45.

Six girls' softball teams capture state Sub-Regional tournaments

Maine West, Forest View, Fremd, Hersey, Hoffman Estates and Wheeling captured Sub-Regional titles in the state girls' softball tournament Wednesday.

Here are the details:

MAINE WEST WINS

Nancy Habttler's two-hit, 13-strikeout performance paced Maine West over Sub-Regional host Elk Grove, 14-2.

Habetler was aided with the hitting of Annette Arnold (3-for-5), Carolyn Miller (2-for-4) and Debbie Carlstrom (2-for-5). Kathy Czopek took the loss.

Once-beaten Maine will meet undefeated Niles West at the Elk Grove Regional on Tuesday.

Elk Grove ....000 101 0— 2- 2-7

FOREST VIEW ROMPS

Plenty of extra base hits and Nancy Lachus' three-hit pitching helped Forest View top Sub-Regional host Prospect, 10-4.

Lachus homered and tripled for three RBI with Bonnie Rogosch having a triple and double in a 3-for-4 day and Linda Butzen clubbing a triple while going 2-for-3. Sue Artemenko was 2-for-3 off losing hurler Pam Mache.

Forest View will meet Barrington at the Barrington Regional on Monday.

Stoltz fires no-hitter in title action

Hersey and Rolling Meadows joined the elite club of Illinois High School Assn. baseball district champions Wednesday. Already crowned earlier in the week were Wheeling and Palatine. The four squads will seek further advancement in regional tournaments beginning Saturday.

Dan Stoltz, only a .500 pitcher upon entering Wednesday's showdown with Arlington, pitched the game of his life and the game of the year for Hersey by no-hitting the Cardinals and powering the Huskies to the Forest View District Championship, 1-0.

Soltz, a 6-foot-1, 175-pound right-hander, completely stymied Arlington's vaunted bats that had been manufacturing an average of over seven runs per game during an 11-1 Cardinal season record.

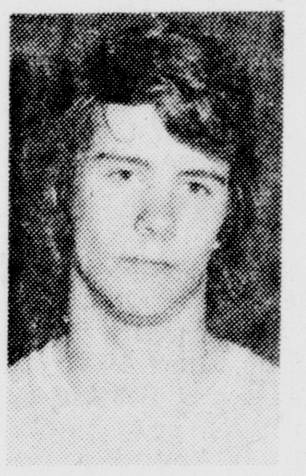
The closest Arlington came to recording a hit was Brett Frase's roller to the hole at short in the fifth inning that was overthrown at first and judged a two-base error by the game's official scorer.

"We just haven't played that many games for him to get much work," Hersey head coach Steve Chernicky explained of Stoltz' 2-1 record.

"I can't tell you if he's our number one, two or three pitcher, but he threw like a champ today. He was upset over a couple of calls on the corners, but he kept his poise and challenged their hitters."

Stoltz' gem overshadowed the three-hit hurling of Cardinal Craig Kennedy who suffered the heartbreaking defeat when an unearned run crossed on an infield throwing error.

Hersey's John Isola led off the top of the sixth inning with only the game's second hit, a bullet to the left-field corner that went for a double.



Dan Stoltz

Bob Frye harmlessly flied to left, but Joe Pusatera dumped a bunt down third for a base hit, Isola holding at second.

Mark Knuttel followed with a shot to short that was fielded on one hop and pegged to third to force Isola. But on the attempt to double up Knuttel at first, the ball was overthrown out of play, permitting Pusatera to be waved all the way home with the winner.

Arlington threatened throughout the course of the contest, stranding eight runners. The Cards' best opportunity came in the opening frame when Matt Splitt and John Vukovich both drew walks with nobody out.

Arlington also had runners in scoring position with less than two out on two other occassions, but Stoltz was equal to the task, getting by with seven walks while fanning three.

On the other side of the coin, Kennedy passed two while striking out five. Hersey (7-3) will face Rolling Meadows at the Maine South Regional Saturday at 1 p.m.

MUSTANGS TIP WARRIORS

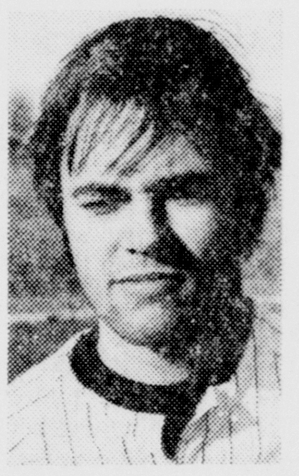
The Rolling Meadows Mustangs, aided by a Maine West error, pushed across two runs in the bottom of the third inning to win a superb pitchers' duel and the Rolling Meadows District championship, 2-1 Wednesday.

Starting pitcher John Igrasek survived some early wildness to notch the win for Meadows. For Maine West, left-hander Rob Earhart was superb in defeat, giving up only one earned run in seven innings.

Earhart struck out 10 men in the first four innings and retired the last 11 Mustangs he faced, finishing with a total of 11 strikeouts, while walking nobody.

Igrasek had trouble with wildness early in the game, walking three in the first two innings. One of these three walks blossomed into the only Maine West run of the day.

But Igrasek abandoned the slow curve he'd had trouble getting in the strike zone and went to throwing more sliders and fastballs, and West threatened only once more after their initial score.



John Igrasek

"Yea, I was wilder than usual," Igrasek said after the game. "I usually strike out more, but they (Maine West) were hitting them into the ground and I have a good defense behind me."

A walk led to the first and only Maine West run which came in the second inning. Doug Unzicker walked after one was out and made it to third on two stolen bases.

Igrasek got Rick Sandri on a strikeout for the second out of the inning before giving up another walk to Bob Anderson. Wayne Wishnew then came up for the Warriors and topptd a high hopper about 20 feet down the third base line.

Wishnew beat out the swinging bunt for a base hit and Unzicker scored on the play. Igrasek then got Bob Zuccarini to ground out to first for the final out.

Meadows got both of its runs in the bottom of the third. Igrasek singled after one was out and went to second when Paul Marsillo got on base due to a throwing error on Warriors' shortstop, Dean Carpenter.

With runners on first and second, second baseman Guy Tenuta slammed a triple to right field which scored Igrasek and Marsillo with the go ahead runs.

Earhart then proceeded to mow down every Mustang hitter from there on, putting down the next 11 he faced.

The Warriors threatened in the fourth, when Rick Sandri doubled after two out, and again in the fifth. Bob Zuccarini reached on a throwing error on shortstop Marsillo. Matt Serna followed with a fielders' choice and both runners were safe when Igrasek threw the double play ball hit back at him high to the second baseman. The relay to first was wild and the runners were at second and third.

But Igrasek fanned Earhart and got Glen Watson to survive the jam.

There were only five hits in the game, two for Maine West and three for Meadows.

Marshall homers again; Bison rock Fremd, 12-2

A Herald Staff Report

Mike Marshall slammed out his fourth homer of the conference campaign and Buffalo Grove went on to score in every inning while whipping a visiting Fremd nine Wednesday, 12-2.

Phil Czosnyka backed up Bison bats with a three-hit mound showing as the Grove posted their eighth win in 10 loop contests. It was also their fourth time hitting double scoring figures in their last five league games.

Marshall set the offensive wheels in motion after Al Cymbal had singled with one away in the bottom of the first, stroking one over the fence in left center. He later walked with the bases loaded to produce his third RBI of the day.

Mike Ledna and Steve Chobanian contributed run-producing doubles to the home cause and Don Saulic slammed out a solo homer in the fourth. Buffalo Grove went on to rake four Viking hurlers for ten hits to go with nine walks and five Fremd errors.

The guests scored their two runs in the second after Bill Friskics had reached on an error and Ron Leahy had singled him to third. A subsequent delayed double steal attempt resulted in a pair of miscues and both runners came home.

Czosnyka whiffed 10 and walked only one in notching his third straight conference triumph without a defeat. The losing verdict went to Vike starter Matt Fox, his first after a pair of wins.

SAXONS HANDLE FALCONS, 3-2

Steve Conrad scored the winning run on a wild pitch that enabled the Schaumburg Saxons to turn back the Forest View Flacons, 3-2.

The Saxons trailed 2-0 after five innings as the Falcons tallied single runs in both the fourth and fifth.

Tom Lunak, the Forest View third baseman, was 3-for-3 and accounted for one of the Falcon runs with a homer in the fifth inning.

Schaumburg tied the score in the sixth when Dave Jones walked and went to third on Russ Zonca's line single.

Zonca then stole second and followed Jones home on Bob Connell's double down the left field line.

Schaumburg got the winning run without a hit as Conrad reached on an infield error.

He went to second on a wild pickoff attempt and to third on a ground out by Tony Mazza.

Schaumburg hurler Tim McCue picked up the win when Conrad scored on the wild pitch.

COUGARS NIP ELK GROVE

The Conant Cougars scored two runs in the opening inning and made them hold up for a 2-1 win over the Elk Grove Grenadiers.

Conant pitcher Rob Totten, who pitched a complete game to record the win, drove in the eventual winning run with an infield hit in the first.

Jeff Johnson, Totten's battery mate, drove in the other moments earlier with a triple that scored Mike Wendt from second.

Totten had some brief control trouble in the sixth inning that cost him the shutout.

He walked Jim Nolan and then served up a double to Joe Parmentier to put men on second and third.

After a walk to Jim Maier that loaded the bases, Totten plunked Joe Woelfel to force in Elk Grove's only run.

Stoltz fires no-hitter in title action

Hersey and Rolling Meadows joined the elite club of Illinois High School Assn. baseball district champions Wednesday. Already crowned earlier in the week were Wheeling and Palatine. The four squads will seek further advancement in regional tournaments beginning Saturday.

Dan Stoltz, only a .500 pitcher upon entering Wednesday's showdown with Arlington, pitched the game of his life and the game of the year for Hersey by no-hitting the Cardinals and powering the Huskies to the Forest View District Championship, 1-0.

Soltz, a 6-foot-1, 175-pound right-hander, completely stymied Arlington's vaunted bats that had been manufacturing an average of over seven runs per game during an 11-1 Cardinal season record.

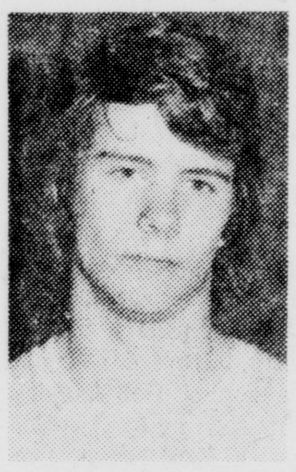
The closest Arlington came to recording a hit was Brett Frase's roller to the hole at short in the fifth inning that was overthrown at first and judged a two-base error by the game's official scorer.

"We just haven't played that many games for him to get much work," Hersey head coach Steve Chernicky explained of Stoltz' 2-1 record.

"I can't tell you if he's our number one, two or three pitcher, but he threw like a champ today. He was upset over a couple of calls on the corners, but he kept his poise and challenged their hitters."

Stoltz' gem overshadowed the three-hit hurling of Cardinal Craig Kennedy who suffered the heartbreaking defeat when an unearned run crossed on an infield throwing error.

Hersey's John Isola led off the top of the sixth inning with only the game's second hit, a bullet to the left-field corner that went for a double.



Dan Stoltz

Bob Frye harmlessly flied to left, but Joe Pusatera dumped a bunt down third for a base hit, Isola holding at second.

Mark Knuttel followed with a shot to short that was fielded on one hop and pegged to third to force Isola. But on the attempt to double up Knuttel at first, the ball was overthrown out of play, permitting Pusatera to be waved all the way home with the winner.

Arlington threatened throughout the course of the contest, stranding eight runners. The Cards' best opportunity came in the opening frame when Matt Splitt and John Vukovich both drew walks with nobody out.

Arlington also had runners in scoring position with less than two out on two other occassions, but Stoltz was equal to the task, getting by with seven walks while fanning three.

On the other side of the coin, Kennedy passed two while striking out five. Hersey (7-3) will face Rolling Meadows at the Maine South Regional Saturday at 1 p.m.

MUSTANGS TIP WARRIORS

The Rolling Meadows Mustangs, aided by a Maine West error, pushed across two runs in the bottom of the third inning to win a superb pitchers' duel and the Rolling Meadows District championship, 2-1 Wednesday.

Starting pitcher John Igrasek survived some early wildness to notch the win for Meadows. For Maine West, left-hander Rob Earhart was superb in defeat, giving up only one earned run in seven innings.

Earhart struck out 10 men in the first four innings and retired the last 11 Mustangs he faced, finishing with a total of 11 strikeouts, while walking nobody.

Igrasek had trouble with wildness early in the game, walking three in the first two innings. One of these three walks blossomed into the only Maine West run of the day.

But Igrasek abandoned the slow curve he'd had trouble getting in the strike zone and went to throwing more sliders and fastballs, and West threatened only once more after their initial score.

John Igrasek

"Yea, I was wilder than usual," Igrasek said after the game. "I usually strike out more, but they (Maine West) were hitting them into the ground and I have a good defense behind me."

A walk led to the first and only Maine West run which came in the second inning. Doug Unzicker walked after one was out and made it to third on two stolen bases.

Igrasek got Rick Sandri on a strikeout for the second out of the inning before giving up another walk to Bob Anderson. Wayne Wishnew then came up for the Warriors and topptd a high hopper about 20 feet down the third base line.

Wishnew beat out the swinging bunt for a base hit and Unzicker scored on the play. Igrasek then got Bob Zuccarini to ground out to first for the final out.

Meadows got both of its runs in the bottom of the third. Igrasek singled after one was out and went to second when Paul Marsillo got on base due to a throwing error on Warriors' shortstop, Dean Carpenter.

With runners on first and second, second baseman Guy Tenuta slammed a triple to right field which scored Igrasek and Marsillo with the go ahead runs.

Earhart then proceeded to mow down every Mustang hitter from there on, putting down the next 11 he faced.

The Warriors threatened in the fourth, when Rick Sandri doubled after two out, and again in the fifth. Bob Zuccarini reached on a throwing error on shortstop Marsillo. Matt Serna followed with a fielders' choice and both runners were safe when Igrasek threw the double play ball hit back at him high to the second baseman. The relay to first was wild and the runners were at second and third.

But Igrasek fanned Earhart and got Glen Watson to survive the jam.

There were only five hits in the game, two for Maine West and three for Meadows.

Marshall homers again; Bison rock Fremd, 12-2

A Herald Staff Report

Mike Marshall slammed out his fourth homer of the conference campaign and Buffalo Grove went on to score in every inning while whipping a visiting Fremd nine Wednesday, 12-2.

Phil Czosnyka backed up Bison bats with a three-hit mound showing as the Grove posted their eighth win in 10 loop contests. It was also their fourth time hitting double scoring figures in their last five league games.

Marshall set the offensive wheels in motion after Al Cymbal had singled with one away in the bottom of the first, stroking one over the fence in left center. He later walked with the bases loaded to produce his third RBI of the day.

Mike Ledna and Steve Chobanian contributed run-producing doubles to the home cause and Don Saulic slammed out a solo homer in the fourth. Buffalo Grove went on to rake four Viking hurlers for ten hits to go with nine walks and five Fremd errors.

The guests scored their two runs in the second after Bill Friskics had reached on an error and Ron Leahy had singled him to third. A subsequent delayed double steal attempt resulted in a pair of miscues and both runners came home.

Czosnyka whiffed 10 and walked only one in notching his third straight conference triumph without a defeat. The losing verdict went to Vike starter Matt Fox, his first after a pair of wins.

SAXONS HANDLE FALCONS, 3-2

Steve Conrad scored the winning run on a wild pitch that enabled the Schaumburg Saxons to turn back the Forest View Flacons, 3-2.

The Saxons trailed 2-0 after five innings as the Falcons tallied single runs in both the fourth and fifth.

Tom Lunak, the Forest View third baseman, was 3-for-3 and accounted for one of the Falcon runs with a homer in the fifth inning.

Schaumburg tied the score in the sixth when Dave Jones walked and went to third on Russ Zonca's line single.

Zonca then stole second and followed Jones home on Bob Connell's double down the left field line.

Schaumburg got the winning run without a hit as Conrad reached on an infield error.

He went to second on a wild pickoff attempt and to third on a ground out by Tony Mazza.

Schaumburg hurler Tim McCue picked up the win when Conrad scored on the wild pitch.

COUGARS NIP ELK GROVE

The Conant Cougars scored two runs in the opening inning and made them hold up for a 2-1 win over the Elk Grove Grenadiers.

Conant pitcher Rob Totten, who pitched a complete game to record the win, drove in the eventual winning run with an infield hit in the first.

Jeff Johnson, Totten's battery mate, drove in the other moments earlier with a triple that scored Mike Wendt from second.

Totten had some brief control trouble in the sixth inning that cost him the shutout.

He walked Jim Nolan and then served up a double to Joe Parmentier to put men on second and third.

After a walk to Jim Maier that loaded the bases, Totten plunked Joe Woelfel to force in Elk Grove's only run.

N4C track finals at Harper today

Harper College will play host to the N4C junior college track and field championships today, and the field has never been so large or so strong.

The Hawks of coach Bob Nolan are winding up their first season of competition in the N4C, and they will be among the challengers as DuPage tries to defend its title when the meet begins with the steeplechase and the six-mile run at 3 p.m.

The steeplechase will be held at Palatine High School but all the other events will be conducted on Harper's all-weather track, at the corner of Roselle and Algonquin Roads in Palatine.

"Du Page has won this meet just about every year," said Harper coach Nolan. "But it should be interesting. It's possible for us to beat them."

Strong teams from Wright and Joliet will join Harper in the hunt for the first-place trophy, as well as squads from Triton and Illinois Valley. The N4C is made up of community colleges in northern Illinois.

Rock Valley and Thornton, the two remaining N4C schools, did not field track teams this year.

"This is the first time Triton and Harper have competed in the N4C meet so I guess it will be the largest field ever," Nolan noted.

DuPage again appears to be the strongest team in the field. The Chaparrals won the Morton Invite earlier this year and edged Triton in Harper's own invitational meet three weeks ago. They were third in the region meet behind Black Hawk and Lincoln Land last week.

The Chaps are led by region discus champ Mike Pacholski, shot putter Mark Johnson, do-everything jumper Jim Chirbas, and several other versatile athletes.

"DuPage is especially strong in the shot and the triple jump," said Nolan. "But we think we can score a lot of points and if we hit just right we could win it."

The Hawks will depend on big points from weightman Bob Roels, distance man Mark Kaufman and steeplechaser Augie Ziicarelli.

Roels was the only Harper trackman who managed to qualify for the Juco nationals in the Region IV meet last weekend. The Rolling Meadows grad took second place in the discus, just a couple of feet behind Pacholski. Roels was also fourth in the shot.

"We got word that Roels will be able to go to the nationsl in Houston (Tex.)," said Nolan, who had to wait for an okay from the Harper athletic department before announcing that Roels would be able to attend the nationals May 20.

"I think Bob is capable of scoring there too," he said. "He's capable of throwing over 150 feet."

Kaufman in the six-and three-mile and Ziccarelli and teammate Dean Glenesk in the steeplechase will need to score heavily in their events to offset expected DuPage points from Chirbas, a 6-8 high jumper who can also triple jump 46 feet, Mark Malek and Ken Mauer.

Malek has registered 47 feet in the triple jump and Mauer, a top decathloner, is a threat in several events. DuPage is also blessed with a 1:58-man in the 880, Greg Malecha, who was second in the region meet.

Harper can score in the pole vault, where three Hawks have reached 13-6 this year. The trio includes a pair of ex-Fremd vaulters, Grant McNerney and Randy Gray, plus Bob Maslin, who also takes his turn on the Hawks' 440-relay team with Paul Rizzo, Dan Miller and George McCahey.

Palatine football signup May 22

Final registration for the Palatine Amateur Football Assoc. will be Saturday, May 22 at Maple Park from 9 a.m. to noon.

Maple Park is located at Anderson and Winston Drive in Palatine. The league is open to all boys who will be in grades fifth through eighth come September. Depending on response, a "Midget" league for fourth and fifth graders is also being planned.

Cost is $40 per boy, which includes insurance and most equipment. There is a $65 maximum fee for families with more than one boy participating.

Further information can be obtained by calling Len Sjostedt at 359-9616 or Dick Geller at 359-6737.

Board of Directors
Northwest Community Hospital
800 W. Central Road
Arlington Heights, Illinois 60005

Gentlemen:

As Vicar for this area, I have been authorized by the priests to write you concerning the recent decision by the Board of Directors allowing abortions to be performed in the first three months at your hospital.

The decision was made by an 8-7 vote with five members not present. It goes against the vote of the Executive Board of the Medical Staff which had previously voted against such a policy. Since the hospital was established through gifts and donations of so many people of the community, we would remind you that such a policy offends the consciences of very many people of that community. We do not feel it pursues the purpose of a hospital dedicated to serving the health and life-sustaining interests of the community.

Each of the undersigned priests of the area wish to protest very strongly the adoption of such a policy. It is our hope that the Board would reconsider its decision in the light of the whole community's wishes and not to serve the interest of a few.

We ask that the Board consider the danger in such a policy in the respect for human life it professes to serve.

Very truly yours,

Board of Directors
Northwest Community Hospital
800 W. Central Road
Arlington Heights, Illinois 60005

Gentlemen:

As Vicar for this area, I have been authorized by the priests to write you concerning the recent decision by the Board of Directors allowing abortions to be performed in the first three months at your hospital.

The decision was made by an 8-7 vote with five members not present. It goes against the vote of the Executive Board of the Medical Staff which had previously voted against such a policy. Since the hospital was established through gifts and donations of so many people of the community, we would remind you that such a policy offends the consciences of very many people of that community. We do not feel it pursues the purpose of a hospital dedicated to serving the health and life-sustaining interests of the community.

Each of the undersigned priests of the area wish to protest very strongly the adoption of such a policy. It is our hope that the Board would reconsider its decision in the light of the whole community's wishes and not to serve the interest of a few.

We ask that the Board consider the danger in such a policy in the respect for human life it professes to serve.

Very truly yours,

Summer conservation job signup ends Monday

by LEA TONKIN

Last call for summertime environmental education jobs in Illinois, said the Illinois Dept. of Conservation.

Tony Dean, department director, said young people ages 15 to 18 can apply through Monday for Youth Conservation Corps jobs. The to 12-week work sessions are slated at 23 state parks and conservation areas.

Successful applicants will receive $66 for each 40-hour week. Ten hours each week will be spent in environmental education programs.

The starting date for the new program is June 14. Among the sites chosen for Youth Conservation Corps work are Apple River State Park in Jo Daviess County, Goose Lake Prairie State Park, Morris and Mississippi Palisades, Savanna. Application forms are available at participating park offices.

Work assignments will include trail renovation and construction, development of picnic areas, installation of signs and railings and erosion control projects.

A WILDFLOWER pilgrimage is slated Saturday at the Starved Rock State Park, near Utica. Photography hikes and a nature photography clinic are included in the program.

"I HOPE THAT people concerned about protection of land and water from irresponsible strip mining will not be comforted by the secretary's action today," said U. S. Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz. following Interior Sec. Thomas Kleppe's Tuesday announcement of new strip mining rules. Udall said the new standards are "woefully inadequate."

Kleppe said the strip mining rules are "more flexible" than a bill twice vetoed by President Ford. They will protect the environment and allow nearly a tenfold increase in coal production on federal lands by 1985, he said.

The administration set a U. S. coal production target of more than 1 billion tons a year by 1985. Of that amount, some 305 million tons would be produced on federal lands.

CHILDREN ARE MOST vulnerable to air pollution, said Connecticut researcher Dorothy Noyse Kane. Ms. Kane, a public health specialist at Walden University, said standards for air quality have been set for adults, but they should be determined for children under five years of age.

"In addition to the fact that children's breathing zone is closer to the ground, there's the nature of their play — their dust raising proclivity as they travel hither and yon and their hand to mouth activity," she said. A youngster's immature system may allow greater impact by pollutants, she said.

More funding main RTA request

Discussion at Wednesday's Regional Transit Authority meeting in Chicago was much cooler than some recent RTA-related discussions have been.

The objective Wednesday simply was to brief federal transportation officials about the authority's history and future plans. The emphasis, at both the beginning and end of the meeting, was on the need for more federal funding.

RTA Chairman Milton Pikarsky was most vocal in the request. "The need is great for capital and operating grants," he said.

BUT ROBERT J. Patricelli, administrator for the Urban Mass Transit Administration in Washington, said the RTA must determine which transit projects have priority. "The Chicago metropolitan area cannot in the next couple of years move forward on all its projects," he said. "We have to be hard-nosed about it."

Patricelli added that the federal government has given Chicago $123 million for transportation equipment and railroad subsidies.

Patricelli said the establishment of the RTA was very important. "One of the purposes is to look at and test a region's priorities," he said. "The institution of the RTA was an important step forward. We best function with a regional group."

RTA board members did not comment during the meeting on remarks made Tuesday by Mayor Richard J. Daley about suburban complaints relating to the RTA.

"They can't look to the federal government and (regional) government to provide what they won't provide themselves," said Daley, referring to mass transit funding.

Daley also said suburban RTA members have griped "because they (the suburbs) aren't given enough money. They want to buy bus companies that aren't worth 10 cents, and spend hundreds of millions of dollars on broken-down railroads that aren't worth anything."

Doctor honored for work with intensive care

Dr. Stanley Zydlo, chief of emergency medicine at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington, was honored by the Chicago Hospital Council Wednesday for pioneer efforts in setting up the Northwest suburban mobile intensive care network.

Zydlo accepted the award "on behalf of all those who had faith in the idea, in themselves and who work in the pits in the emergency rooms of area hospitals."

Also cited by the hospital council at its annual meeting at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago were the Chicago Board of Health, the Chicago Fire Department and Chicago Police Commr. James Rochford.

Ask Andy

Ostrich gallops up to 42 m.p.h.

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Brigannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Dayle Schmidt, 11, of Medicine Hat, Alta., Canada, for her question:

HOW FAST CAN AN OSTRICH RUN?

The ostrich does very well in the running department. If sufficiently motivated he can reach 42 miles per hour — not bad for a land-locked bird. The cheetah, of course, is the champion runner in the animal world, but his 70 mile-per-hour bursts seldom exceed 100 yards. Our ostrich clocks in pretty close to the kangaroo's 45 miles per hour, and the coyote's 43 miles per hour — amazing really when you consider he has only two legs.

Although Mother Nature denied the ostrich the wherewithal to fly, she didn't scrimp on the other assets. He is an exceptionally fast runner, scooting along on long, powerful legs at more than 40 miles per hour. His eyes — the size of tennis balls — provide him with superb vision. His dietary needs are simple, and if a favorite plant or lizard isn't available he will calmly eat something else. What's more, he manages to outlive most other animals on the African plains and deserts, often reaching the ripe old age of 70.

The ostrich is at home in east Africa, and claims first prize as the world's biggest nonflying bird. An adult male may reach 8 feet in height and tip the scales at 350 pounds. He is not an aggressive animal, but if attacked by such enemies as lions and other big cats, he will stoutly defend himself with strong kicks from his powerful legs. If running from predators seems the best resort, he leads a merry chase.

As far as appearances go, the ostrich is a study in contrasts. His long legs and neck are like gawky protrusions from a fluffy, beautifully feathered body. His feet are unique in the bird world, having only two toes instead of the usual three of four. Although awkward-looking, he is really quite graceful. His springy stride consists of gigantic steps up to 13 feet long, and as he runs his feathers and plumes flutter delicately in the breeze.

Mating time for ostriches involves a series of rituals. The male cocks dance around, proudly displaying their plumage for the female hens to admire. Then, after the male selects his territory, he mates with several hens who in turn lay their eggs in the nest that the cock has scaped in the bare ground. One of the hens becomes the "boss" and drives the others off. For about six weeks the hen and cock share egg-sitting duties. The hen takes the daytime shift, since her rather drab brown plumage is less apt to attract predators. In fact, she frequently flattens herself out on the ground, taking on the appearance of an anthill.

The amazing ostrich lives peaceably with other grazing animals such as antelopes and zebras. In fact, each species benefits the other. The ostrich's height allows him to spot danger first, thereby warning his companions as he darts off full speed ahead. In return for this service, the other animals stir up mice, lizards and insects as they graze. These add welcome variety to the ostrich's usual diet of fruit and seeds.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Mary Burgoyne, 13, of York County, N.B., Canada, for her question:

WHAT IS MEANT BY SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION:

Spontaneous combustion refers to burning that is started without the aid of a match or flame of some sort. This happens when substances such as coal, oil-soaked rags, piles of hay or grass clippings are left to accumulate heat. The oxygen in the air rapidly unites with the carbon and hydrogen in these substances, and this raises their temperatures above the kindling point. At this stage, fire breaks out.

Needless to say, spontaneous fires can be extremely dangerous. Containers of flammable liquids, such as paint thinner, turpentine and gasoline, should always be kept tightly closed so that they cannot spill out onto cleaning rags. Piles of grass clippings, set aside perhaps until there's time to dispose of them, are another potential source of fire. The hot rays of the summer sun add to the heat-building process. So this summer, do be careful with all fire hazards.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

Here is a Kesley hand where bridge logic and a little bit of luck bring home a contract that most players would miss.

West opens the 10 of hearts. You win and play two more rounds of trumps. West follows with the nine and eight while East sheds a club and a diamond. You take a successful club finesse (the little bit of luck), cash dummy's ace of clubs and ruff a club. West follows to all three clubs and produces the six and jack of diamonds when you cash your ace and king of that suit.

At this point in time you have a cinch play for your contract provided that West has at least five spades to the ace for his vulnerable overcall.

Just play your king of spades. West takes his ace. If he continues with the queen of spades he will collect three spades and then give you a ruff and discard. If he leads a low spade to his partner's jack, East will cash a diamond and give you that needed ruff and discard.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

HOMEBUILDERS in the single-family market often don't build what the buyers want. In an effort to cut construction costs, builders often cut lot size or eliminate the family room — both things valued by homebuyers. They also underestimate the consumer's willingness to experiment with energy-saving devices such as solar heating.

Magazine survey finds

Builders drop features buyers seek in homes

by LYNN ASINOF

Homebuilders often don't build what the homebuyer wants, according to a survey by Professional Builder Magazine.

The survey shows that homebuilders are cutting costs by dropping features like large yards and family rooms that are important to the homebuyer. At the same time, builders are underestimating the consumer's willingness to experiment with such things as energy-saving devices.

Statistics for the central region of the country show that many builders are reducing housing costs by using smaller lots. While 34.7 per cent of the builders favored this approach, only 3.6 per cent of the buyers said they were willing to give up yard space.

Most homebuyers, more than 80 per cent, said they preferred to cut costs by buying homes that can be expanded at a future date. Only 68.9 per cent of the builders are constructing such homes. Other builders are building smaller houses and using standard designs.

A SIMILAR survey of homebuyers conducted by the Home Builders Assn. of Chicago showed that 81.1 per cent will buy a smaller home rather than buy a townhouse.

The homebuilders' survey showed that the most important features of single-family homes are the family room and the third bedroom.

The Professional Builder survey backs this with figures showing that only 6 per cent of buyers will accept a two-bedroom house. Only about 8 per cent said they are willing to eliminate the family room.

A large number of buyers said they would be willing to reduce the number of bathrooms if they were better designed. About 55 per cent of buyers said they favored this approach.

A SURPRISING 94 per cent of the buyers said they would be willing to spend an extra $600 during construction for energy-saving devices if they could cut heating and cooling bills by $100 a year.

Nearly 75 per cent of the buyers said they liked the idea of solar heating compared to only 42 per cent of the builders.

THE SURVEY shows that builders underestimate the importance of the written guarantee or warranty. More than 80 per cent of the buyers said this was very important, compared to only 18.9 per cent of the builders. At least 32 per cent of the builders said they did not consider a guarantee a factor at all.

Urban life great—huh? Well, many don't think so

by GAY PAULEY
Unitted Press International

Bill Lutz and Marion Rockefeller live at opposite ends of the country but are united with one vision — the dream of a return to rurality and a life far removed from big city patterns.

Lutz, once a city garbageman, runs a dairy farm in upstate New York. Marion is a California housewife, mother and heiress to a huge chunk of the Rockefeller fortune, living with her family in an abandoned train caboose.

They represent, however, more than the opposite ends of the country geographically, economically and socially. Their common goal represents a national trend, a population shift moving slowly as a glacier but inexorably to desertion of the urban life.

THE REVERSAL MARKS the turning point from the past three decades when 30 million Americans moved to metropolitan centers, the largest migration in history.

Now, the U. S. Census Bureau has issued a 76-page report on mobility of the U. S. population, from March 1970 to March 1975, its most recent summary. It found "persons moving from metropolitan areas exceeded movers to metropolitan areas . . . the data indicate that 6.7 million persons five years old and older moved out of metropolitan areas . . . and 5.1 million moved into metropolitan areas, resulting in a new migration loss from metropolitan to non-metropolitan areas of 1.6 million.

Cities are faced not with just individual families leaving; whole companies are moving outward.

Economically and socially, the reverse migration will create problems for the city — decreased tax revenues, excess housing, empty schools, for instance. In turn, it will put a burden, in reverse, on the small communities — how to cope with more people, need for more housing, more revenue.

WHERE ARE MOST of them going, these restless Americans who traditionally have been on the move since the first migration from other countries?

The pattern, in general, is to the sunbelt states of the South and Southwest.

Bill Lutz, 40, chose upstate New York because he wanted a dairy farm — New York is a major dairy state — and retained childhood memories when his grandfather kept one milk cow on their acreage on Long Island.

Three thousand miles across the land, in the Berkeley, Calif., area. Marion Rockefeller has elected a life less physically demanding than that of the Lutzes, but simplified to the nth degree, even to cooking with a wood-burning stove.

MARION'S HUSBAND, Warren, has his doctorate in Shakespeare's early comedies. They bought land in northern California and with their two small children live most of the time in that transplanted caboose.

In no way are Marion, the great-granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, and her husband "hippies." Their decision to move to the country is an outgrowth of their intense interest in land use and reform, perhaps cultivated in part because Marion's father, Laurence, long has been a conservationist.

A lot of population experts are studying the return to rurality and its causes, because once upon a time young people grabbed the Greyhound bus and headed for a future in the big town, hoping to fulfill the American dream. Now many of the young aren't even catching the bus. They are staying where they grew up, where their ties — family, jobs, social life, religion — already are established.

"At the beginning of the century one-third of the population in the United States was urban and two-thirds rural," said Dr. Peter C. Goldmark, an inventor-physicist.

"A gradually mounting migration, totally unplanned, led to the current population distribution of three quarters urban (and suburban) and one-quarter rural."

THE RESULTS: "Unprecedented social, economic and environmental problems. Concurrently, rural areas began to decline and were unable to compete with the real or imagined attractions of urban living . . . a gradual degeneration of rural life occurred."

Larry H. Long, 32, of the census bureau's population division in Washington, has done much research in population patterns. Born in Lockhart, Tex., son of a farmer-rancher, Long said that at one time migration to the cities was often because small towns "gave little room for growth.

"You could be nothing more than your father's son. Cities then offered more opportunities based on merit, more educational opportunity."

Today, the families are moving farther out; suburbia as a lifestyle flounders. Now the pattern is of the ex-urbanite living in the country, commuting to a suburban job.

LONG LISTS several factors figuring in the move from metropolitan areas. There is a deterioration of the inner cities, a diminishing of things that pulled people to the city, the fact that income differences for the nation have declined so that stimulus for moving to the city has weakened — "most economists look on migration as money stimulated."

Government policies have increased access to the urban without having to live there, with such things as interstate routes, and the recreation facilities created through parks, dams and waterways.

Jet planes also have helped eliminate isolation. Communications media — newspaper, radio and television — all bring rural America in constant contact with the world.

And one of the strongest factors of all for migration — crime in the cities.

Money – the great family bugaboo

Money is not only the root of all evil, but the root of many family arguments as well. In fact, a recent survey shows that 54 per cent of American families argue a lot about money. The figure is 64 per cent among families having serious money problems.

Having a lot of money isn't the answer, since families will fight over how to spend discretionary income. What's behind all the arguing is very often a power struggle: A battle over who spends what and how.

"The struggle can be between husband and wife over who's in charge, or it could be between parent and teen-ager over the youngster's independence," said Penny Scott, family financial advisor for Great American Federal Savings.

According to the study, conducted by Yankelovich, Skelly & White, family money arguments often are traceable to poor communications. In short, many family members don't want to talk about money. Like death and sex, it becomes a taboo subject.

"PARENTS OFTEN won't discuss family finances with their children on the grounds that the kids have no right to know, or that they'll blab it all over the neighborhood if they do know, or that they simply are too young to understand," Miss Scott said. "As for teen-agers, money edicts are a way to keep the young person in his or her place."

She said husbands often will keep their wives in ignorance of the family's finances in perpetuation of the old belief that the man is boss and women really don't know how to manage money. "This often creates serious problems if the husband dies leaving the wife with no knowledge of his financial affairs," she said.

A working wife may aggravate the situation by regarding the husband's earnings as 'our money' while her earnings are 'her money' to spend as she sees fit. The situation can be aggravated if the man loses his job and relies on the wife's earnings to support the family.

Many altercations over money stem from different attitudes. One member of the family may regard money as a security blanket, while another wants it to buy life's enjoyments. One wants to save, another wants to spend now. The differences may be especailly great among people from different backgrounds and economic classes.

"DISAGREEMENTS CAN often be traced to assumptions," Miss Scott said. "The husband or wife assumes that the partner shares his or her beliefs toward money. The parents assume the children will go along quietly with spending decisions. This is often wrong."

Unless a family has serious relationship problems that need counseling to overcome, many money quarrels can be avoided by better communications, Miss Scott said. Here are some tips on the subject:

- Have a budget. A budget forces the family to come to grips with income and expenses. It compels family members to discuss priorities. Writing it down is a good way to avoid arguments over who said what and what the family's spending plans are.
- Hold meetings about money matters. Family counseling authorities recommend casual meetings involving the entire family when money problems come up. If that doesn't work, regular weekly or monthly meetings may be the answer.
- Involve your children in money discussions. When they're young, they don't have to be told exactly what Daddy or Mommy makes, but as they grow older, they should be informed of how much money the family earns and what the important family needs are. Children should also be permitted to participate in discussions of spending plans that affect them.
- Compromise rather than fight for total victory, and put the compromise in writing. This is particularly good in settling disputes with teen-agers. If the teen-ager wants a car and the parents want him home by 10 p.m., perhaps the best solution is to grant the car if the teen-ager agrees to the curfew.
- When money fights erupt, rather than argue it out orally, put the complaints in writing. This often gets rid of the emotionalism that conceals what people are really arguing about, and enables the key issues to be studied objectively.
- Tape-record money discussions with the knowledge of all participants. Then play back the tape. The results will often astound family members into a realization of what they are arguing about.

Stocks continue to waver, close down .94

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, trying to break out of a three-month-old rut, ran into profit-taking Wednesday for the second consecutive session and prices fell in fairly active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which fluctuated throughout the day, lost 0.94 points to 1,005.67. It lost 0.87 point Tuesday after challenging its 39-month high of 1,011.02 set April 21.

On six previous occasions this year, the Dow average of 30 blue-chip industrial stocks failed to sustain penetrations of the 1,000 level. It has run into profit-taking pressure at the 1,010 level the past two days.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, a broader indicator, lost 0.18 to 102.77, the NYSE common stock index slipped 0.10 to 54.74 and the average price of an NYSE common share decreased six cents.

BREADTH FIGURES reflected investor uncertainty about the course of the market. Declines topped advances, 802 to 612, among the 1,858 issues crossing the tape, and 444 issues remained unchanged.

Volume totaled 18,510,000 shares, down from the 23,590,000 traded Tuesday, the busiest day in three weeks.

The turnover decline indicated investors were uncertain about inflation, the prospects of higher interest rates and the political races for the Presidential nominations.

Chart watchers were disappointed the Dow average failed for the second day to pierce its 1976 high and said this showed a large number of traders were willing to cash in on first quarter profits in the 1,010 area of the Dow industrials. Many feared the market could slide because of the failures.

PAN AMERICAN World Airways topped the Big Board actives, losing 1/8 to 5½ on 482,900 shares, including a block of 420,000 shares at 5¼. The company's shareholders approved a 30-million-share increase in the total number of outstanding shares.

Litton Industries followed, up 7/8 to 17-1/8 on 360,000 shares. Company officials said they knew of no reason for the stock's activity. Best Products was the third most active Big Board issue, off 3/8 to 16-3/8 on 231,100 shares, including a late block of 215,500 shares at 16.

Prices closed mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share increased three cents. Declines, however, topped advances, 319 to 282, among the 903 issues crossing the tape. Volume totaled 2,430,000 shares, compared with 2,880,000 traded Tuesday.

HOMEBUILDERS in the single-family market often don't build what the buyers want. In an effort to cut construction costs, builders often cut lot size or eliminate the family room — both things valued by homebuyers. They also underestimate the consumer's willingness to experiment with energy-saving devices such as solar heating.

Magazine survey finds

by LYNN ASINOF

Homebuilders often don't build what the homebuyer wants, according to a survey by Professional Builder Magazine.

The survey shows that homebuilders are cutting costs by dropping features like large yards and family rooms that are important to the homebuyer. At the same time, builders are underestimating the consumer's willingness to experiment with such things as energy-saving devices.

Statistics for the central region of the country show that many builders are reducing housing costs by using smaller lots. While 34.7 per cent of the builders favored this approach, only 3.6 per cent of the buyers said they were willing to give up yard space.

Most homebuyers, more than 80 per cent, said they preferred to cut costs by buying homes that can be expanded at a future date. Only 68.9 per cent of the builders are constructing such homes. Other builders are building smaller houses and using standard designs.

A SIMILAR survey of homebuyers conducted by the Home Builders Assn. of Chicago showed that 81.1 per cent will buy a smaller home rather than buy a townhouse.

The homebuilders' survey showed that the most important features of single-family homes are the family room and the third bedroom.

The Professional Builder survey backs this with figures showing that only 6 per cent of buyers will accept a two-bedroom house. Only about 8 per cent said they are willing to eliminate the family room.

A large number of buyers said they would be willing to reduce the number of bathrooms if they were better designed. About 55 per cent of buyers said they favored this approach.

A SURPRISING 94 per cent of the buyers said they would be willing to spend an extra $600 during construction for energy-saving devices if they could cut heating and cooling bills by $100 a year.

Nearly 75 per cent of the buyers said they liked the idea of solar heating compared to only 42 per cent of the builders.

THE SURVEY shows that builders underestimate the importance of the written guarantee or warranty. More than 80 per cent of the buyers said this was very important, compared to only 18.9 per cent of the builders. At least 32 per cent of the builders said they did not consider a guarantee a factor at all.

Urban life great—huh? Well, many don't think so

by GAY PAULEY
Unitted Press International

Bill Lutz and Marion Rockefeller live at opposite ends of the country but are united with one vision — the dream of a return to rurality and a life far removed from big city patterns.

Lutz, once a city garbageman, runs a dairy farm in upstate New York. Marion is a California housewife, mother and heiress to a huge chunk of the Rockefeller fortune, living with her family in an abandoned train caboose.

They represent, however, more than the opposite ends of the country geographically, economically and socially. Their common goal represents a national trend, a population shift moving slowly as a glacier but inexorably to desertion of the urban life.

THE REVERSAL MARKS the turning point from the past three decades when 30 million Americans moved to metropolitan centers, the largest migration in history.

Now, the U. S. Census Bureau has issued a 76-page report on mobility of the U. S. population, from March 1970 to March 1975, its most recent summary. It found "persons moving from metropolitan areas exceeded movers to metropolitan areas . . . the data indicate that 6.7 million persons five years old and older moved out of metropolitan areas . . . and 5.1 million moved into metropolitan areas, resulting in a new migration loss from metropolitan to non-metropolitan areas of 1.6 million.

Cities are faced not with just individual families leaving; whole companies are moving outward.

Economically and socially, the reverse migration will create problems for the city — decreased tax revenues, excess housing, empty schools, for instance. In turn, it will put a burden, in reverse, on the small communities — how to cope with more people, need for more housing, more revenue.

WHERE ARE MOST of them going, these restless Americans who traditionally have been on the move since the first migration from other countries?

The pattern, in general, is to the sunbelt states of the South and Southwest.

Bill Lutz, 40, chose upstate New York because he wanted a dairy farm — New York is a major dairy state — and retained childhood memories when his grandfather kept one milk cow on their acreage on Long Island.

Three thousand miles across the land, in the Berkeley, Calif., area. Marion Rockefeller has elected a life less physically demanding than that of the Lutzes, but simplified to the nth degree, even to cooking with a wood-burning stove.

MARION'S HUSBAND, Warren, has his doctorate in Shakespeare's early comedies. They bought land in northern California and with their two small children live most of the time in that transplanted caboose.

In no way are Marion, the great-granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, and her husband "hippies." Their decision to move to the country is an outgrowth of their intense interest in land use and reform, perhaps cultivated in part because Marion's father, Laurence, long has been a conservationist.

A lot of population experts are studying the return to rurality and its causes, because once upon a time young people grabbed the Greyhound bus and headed for a future in the big town, hoping to fulfill the American dream. Now many of the young aren't even catching the bus. They are staying where they grew up, where their ties — family, jobs, social life, religion — already are established.

"At the beginning of the century one-third of the population in the United States was urban and two-thirds rural," said Dr. Peter C. Goldmark, an inventor-physicist.

"A gradually mounting migration, totally unplanned, led to the current population distribution of three quarters urban (and suburban) and one-quarter rural."

THE RESULTS: "Unprecedented social, economic and environmental problems. Concurrently, rural areas began to decline and were unable to compete with the real or imagined attractions of urban living . . . a gradual degeneration of rural life occurred."

Larry H. Long, 32, of the census bureau's population division in Washington, has done much research in population patterns. Born in Lockhart, Tex., son of a farmer-rancher, Long said that at one time migration to the cities was often because small towns "gave little room for growth.

"You could be nothing more than your father's son. Cities then offered more opportunities based on merit, more educational opportunity."

Today, the families are moving farther out; suburbia as a lifestyle flounders. Now the pattern is of the ex-urbanite living in the country, commuting to a suburban job.

LONG LISTS several factors figuring in the move from metropolitan areas. There is a deterioration of the inner cities, a diminishing of things that pulled people to the city, the fact that income differences for the nation have declined so that stimulus for moving to the city has weakened — "most economists look on migration as money stimulated."

Government policies have increased access to the urban without having to live there, with such things as interstate routes, and the recreation facilities created through parks, dams and waterways.

Jet planes also have helped eliminate isolation. Communications media — newspaper, radio and television — all bring rural America in constant contact with the world.

And one of the strongest factors of all for migration — crime in the cities.

Money — the great family bugaboo

Money is not only the root of all evil, but the root of many family arguments as well. In fact, a recent survey shows that 54 per cent of American families argue a lot about money. The figure is 64 per cent among families having serious money problems.

Having a lot of money isn't the answer, since families will fight over how to spend discretionary income. What's behind all the arguing is very often a power struggle: A battle over who spends what and how.

"The struggle can be between husband and wife over who's in charge, or it could be between parent and teen-ager over the youngster's independence," said Penny Scott, family financial advisor for Great American Federal Savings.

According to the study, conducted by Yankelovich, Skelly & White, family money arguments often are traceable to poor communications. In short, many family members don't want to talk about money. Like death and sex, it becomes a taboo subject.

"PARENTS OFTEN won't discuss family finances with their children on the grounds that the kids have no right to know, or that they'll blab it all over the neighborhood if they do know, or that they simply are too young to understand," Miss Scott said. "As for teen-agers, money edicts are a way to keep the young person in his or her place."

She said husbands often will keep their wives in ignorance of the family's finances in perpetuation of the old belief that the man is boss and women really don't know how to manage money. "This often creates serious problems if the husband dies leaving the wife with no knowledge of his financial affairs," she said.

A working wife may aggravate the situation by regarding the husband's earnings as 'our money' while her earnings are 'her money' to spend as she sees fit. The situation can be aggravated if the man loses his job and relies on the wife's earnings to support the family.

Many altercations over money stem from different attitudes. One member of the family may regard money as a security blanket, while another wants it to buy life's enjoyments. One wants to save, another wants to spend now. The differences may be especailly great among people from different backgrounds and economic classes.

"DISAGREEMENTS CAN often be traced to assumptions," Miss Scott said. "The husband or wife assumes that the partner shares his or her beliefs toward money. The parents assume the children will go along quietly with spending decisions. This is often wrong."

Unless a family has serious relationship problems that need counseling to overcome, many money quarrels can be avoided by better communications, Miss Scott said. Here are some tips on the subject:

- Have a budget. A budget forces the family to come to grips with income and expenses. It compels family members to discuss priorities. Writing it down is a good way to avoid arguments over who said what and what the family's spending plans are.
- Hold meetings about money matters. Family counseling authorities recommend casual meetings involving the entire family when money problems come up. If that doesn't work, regular weekly or monthly meetings may be the answer.
- Involve your children in money discussions. When they're young, they don't have to be told exactly what Daddy or Mommy makes, but as they grow older, they should be informed of how much money the family earns and what the important family needs are. Children should also be permitted to participate in discussions of spending plans that affect them.
- Compromise rather than fight for total victory, and put the compromise in writing. This is particularly good in settling disputes with teen-agers. If the teen-ager wants a car and the parents want him home by 10 p.m., perhaps the best solution is to grant the car if the teen-ager agrees to the curfew.
- When money fights erupt, rather than argue it out orally, put the complaints in writing. This often gets rid of the emotionalism that conceals what people are really arguing about, and enables the key issues to be studied objectively.
- Tape-record money discussions with the knowledge of all participants. Then play back the tape. The results will often astound family members into a realization of what they are arguing about.

Inventory home possessions for insurance needs

Most people cannot remember all of their home's contents following a major fire. The result is a potential loss that could amount to thousands of dollars.

"The full amount of the 'contents' insurance you carry as part of your homeowners or tenants policy is not automatically paid. You, the homeowner or tenant, must provide a detailed list of all items stolen or destroyed," said James Carter, CNA Insurance's vice president of property and casualty marketing.

"To prove to yourself how important a list can be," says Carter, "just take 10 minutes for a simple exercise. Sit down and itemize from memory everything in one room. Then compare your list against what's actually there. Most people find they've forgotten several things," Carter said.

Carter suggested systematically going through every room listing each piece of furniture and clothing. In addition to the name of each item, you should also indicate, as accurately as possible, the date of purchase and the price. Then don't forget to keep your home inventory current by adding all new purchases and gifts.

"An excellent method of describing the items listed in the inventory is to take color photos of everything," Carter said, "including inside closets and drawers."

He also said that you should not keep the inventory list and photographs in your home. They will simply be destroyed along with everything else in the event of a fire, or possibly stolen if burglarized. Make a copy of the inventory for your use, but keep the originals in your safe deposit box.

After you have completed the inventory, discuss it with your insurance agent to make certain you might have adequate coverage. Also, some items — such as jewelry and furs — might not be covered and will require a separate rider on your homeowners policy.

"The few hours it takes to complete your inventory could save thousands of dollars, and will definitely save you time and aggravation, in the event of a major fire or theft," Carter said.

Stocks continue to waver, close down .94

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, trying to break out of a three-month-old rut, ran into profit-taking Wednesday for the second consecutive session and prices fell in fairly active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which fluctuated throughout the day, lost 0.94 points to 1,005.67. It lost 0.87 point Tuesday after challenging its 39-month high of 1,011.02 set April 21.

On six previous occasions this year, the Dow average of 30 blue-chip industrial stocks failed to sustain penetrations of the 1,000 level. It has run into profit-taking pressure at the 1,010 level the past two days.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, a broader indicator, lost 0.18 to 102.77, the NYSE common stock index slipped 0.10 to 54.74 and the average price of an NYSE common share decreased six cents.

BREADTH FIGURES reflected investor uncertainty about the course of the market. Declines topped advances, 802 to 612, among the 1,858 issues crossing the tape, and 444 issues remained unchanged.

Volume totaled 18,510,000 shares, down from the 23,590,000 traded Tuesday, the busiest day in three weeks.

The turnover decline indicated investors were uncertain about inflation, the prospects of higher interest rates and the political races for the Presidential nominations.

Chart watchers were disappointed the Dow average failed for the second day to pierce its 1976 high and said this showed a large number of traders were willing to cash in on first quarter profits in the 1,010 area of the Dow industrials. Many feared the market could slide because of the failures.

PAN AMERICAN World Airways topped the Big Board actives, losing 1/8 to 5½ on 482,900 shares, including a block of 420,000 shares at 5¼. The company's shareholders approved a 30-million-share increase in the total number of outstanding shares.

Litton Industries followed, up 7/8 to 17-1/8 on 360,000 shares. Company officials said they knew of no reason for the stock's activity. Best Products was the third most active Big Board issue, off 3/8 to 16-3/8 on 231,100 shares, including a late block of 215,500 shares at 16.

Prices closed mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share increased three cents. Declines, however, topped advances, 319 to 282, among the 903 issues crossing the tape. Volume totaled 2,430,000 shares, compared with 2,880,000 traded Tuesday.

To avoid difficulty

Plan moving day carefully

Some 42 million Americans are scheduled to move in 1976 and the biggest part of that real-live game of musical chairs is played during the period May 1 to Oct. 1.

If you're going to be included in that vanguard of Americans-on-the-move, it is well that you plan carefully and that you make plans well in advance so that your move will be completed in an orderly manner. To do otherwise — to try to do everything in the last week or so before your move — will only make your job more difficult and cause more strain on every member of your family.

Moving specialists suggest you approach your moving day in this manner.

Decide what is to be moved, then give away or get rid of everything else. This is a good time to do a general house cleaning and discard those items of little or no use.

Select your mover and agree on a moving date. Price will be a consideration, but reputation for complete and responsible service is equally important. Arrange for a visual estimate but remember that final charges will be based on the extent of the service performed, not on what they were estimated to be.

Clean and pack as soon as you can. Collect all items that need to be cleaned or repaired, such as linens, bedding, curtains, clothing and rugs.

Check the contents of all furniture and distribute elsewhere the items in drawers that are heavily loaded. (A heavily loaded drawer can cause furniture damage.) Remove extra linens and bedding that you will want to pack separately.

Collect all spillable or breakable items. Use masking tape to seal the tops of all bottles or jars containing liquids. Place them in individual plastic bags.

If you intend to do some of the packing yourself, ask the mover's help in getting proper cartons. Be sure to mark on each one the room for which it is intended.

At proper time take down TV antenna, draperies, traverse rods, slide and other items that are your property. Have them prepared for moving.

Take care of all address changes and instruct the post office on forwarding mail. The post office can furnish two types of change-of-address cards: one to publishers of magazines and newspapers and the other to your correspondents, in whatever quantities you need. Make a list. Don't overlook credit cards, insurance, book and record clubs.

If you are moving long-distance, arrange for the proper handling of all the accounts and records you may need immediately.

Make necessary arrangements for utility and appliance service. The mover can handle the latter if you give him sufficient notice. Your gas dryer, for example, must be disconnected at the old residence and hooked up in your new home — to be ready on the day that you move in.

If you are moving out of town, make travel and overnight arrangements before you move. If you have pets, you may want to ship them by air or express. A veterinarian can assist you and provide for necessary immunizations. Experts point out that house plants cannot be transported by long-distance movers, so make other arrangements for them, too.

Inventory home possessions for insurance needs

Most people cannot remember all of their home's contents following a major fire. The result is a potential loss that could amount to thousands of dollars.

"The full amount of the 'contents' insurance you carry as part of your homeowners or tenants policy is not automatically paid. You, the homeowner or tenant, must provide a detailed list of all items stolen or destroyed," said James Carter, CNA Insurance's vice president of property and casualty marketing.

"To prove to yourself how important a list can be," says Carter, "just take 10 minutes for a simple exercise. Sit down and itemize from memory everything in one room. Then compare your list against what's actually there. Most people find they've forgotten several things," Carter said.

Carter suggested systematically going through every room listing each piece of furniture and clothing. In addition to the name of each item, you should also indicate, as accurately as possible, the date of purchase and the price. Then don't forget to keep your home inventory current by adding all new purchases and gifts.

"An excellent method of describing the items listed in the inventory is to take color photos of everything," Carter said, "including inside closets and drawers."

He also said that you should not keep the inventory list and photographs in your home. They will simply be destroyed along with everything else in the event of a fire, or possibly stolen if burglarized. Make a copy of the inventory for your use, but keep the originals in your safe deposit box.

After you have completed the inventory, discuss it with your insurance agent to make certain you might have adequate coverage. Also, some items — such as jewelry and furs — might not be covered and will require a separate rider on your homeowners policy.

"The few hours it takes to complete your inventory could save thousands of dollars, and will definitely save you time and aggravation, in the event of a major fire or theft," Carter said.

On the move

To avoid difficulty

Plan moving day carefully

Some 42 million Americans are scheduled to move in 1976 and the biggest part of that real-live game of musical chairs is played during the period May 1 to Oct. 1.

If you're going to be included in that vanguard of Americans-on-the-move, it is well that you plan carefully and that you make plans well in advance so that your move will be completed in an orderly manner. To do otherwise — to try to do everything in the last week or so before your move — will only make your job more difficult and cause more strain on every member of your family.

Moving specialists suggest you approach your moving day in this manner.

Decide what is to be moved, then give away or get rid of everything else. This is a good time to do a general house cleaning and discard those items of little or no use.

Select your mover and agree on a moving date. Price will be a consideration, but reputation for complete and responsible service is equally important. Arrange for a visual estimate but remember that final charges will be based on the extent of the service performed, not on what they were estimated to be.

Clean and pack as soon as you can. Collect all items that need to be cleaned or repaired, such as linens, bedding, curtains, clothing and rugs.

Check the contents of all furniture and distribute elsewhere the items in drawers that are heavily loaded. (A heavily loaded drawer can cause furniture damage.) Remove extra linens and bedding that you will want to pack separately.

Collect all spillable or breakable items. Use masking tape to seal the tops of all bottles or jars containing liquids. Place them in individual plastic bags.

If you intend to do some of the packing yourself, ask the mover's help in getting proper cartons. Be sure to mark on each one the room for which it is intended.

At proper time take down TV antenna, draperies, traverse rods, slide and other items that are your property. Have them prepared for moving.

Take care of all address changes and instruct the post office on forwarding mail. The post office can furnish two types of change-of-address cards: one to publishers of magazines and newspapers and the other to your correspondents, in whatever quantities you need. Make a list. Don't overlook credit cards, insurance, book and record clubs.

If you are moving long-distance, arrange for the proper handling of all the accounts and records you may need immediately.

Make necessary arrangements for utility and appliance service. The mover can handle the latter if you give him sufficient notice. Your gas dryer, for example, must be disconnected at the old residence and hooked up in your new home — to be ready on the day that you move in.

If you are moving out of town, make travel and overnight arrangements before you move. If you have pets, you may want to ship them by air or express. A veterinarian can assist you and provide for necessary immunizations. Experts point out that house plants cannot be transported by long-distance movers, so make other arrangements for them, too.

Check mover's reputation before signing contract

Summer brings a slower pace for most Americans, unless they are among the thousands making a long-distance move.

Summer is the peak season for moves of all kinds — movers do about 60 per cent of their business during June, July, August and September — and for each family picking up stakes and moving from one region to another the change of residence is a big step.

Not the least is the physical move itself. Of chief concern is finding a long-distance mover who will get the family's possessions from here to there on time and undamaged.

"It's easy enough," according to Mike Grey, 34-year-old president of Terminal Van Lines, Inc., St. Petersburg, Fla.

"Ask to see a mover's performance report, which the Interstate Commerce Commission requires him to provide."

"Among other things," Grey said, "it will show how many moves the company carried out in the previous year, the percentage made on schedule and the percentage of claims for damage.

"Check a mover's rates, too," Grey suggested. "Because all long-distance movers provide closely similar services most people think their rates must be the same, but this is not true."

The way to move without misery is to plan ahead, according to Grey.

"Once you've made your choice of a mover, consult with him.

"Establish dates on which you want your possessions picked up and delivered, remembering that a moving company is at the mercy of weather and traffic conditions.

"The mover is the expert, so he can advise you on such things as pre-move servicing of major appliances. If you want to do your own packing, companies will provide you with a booklet of instructions. If you want to skip the packing, the mover can do it for you."

Grey is the grandson of Henry Scramlin, founder of the company and active in its daily operation until his death at 81 in 1973. Grey recalled his grandfather telling him of a week-long run in 1928, camping out overnight and hauling the possessions of a Michigan man to Florida.

His goods filled the van to capacity, and he had to choose between sending a desk or his Great Dane. He opted for the dog, making the van a roadside sensation, because the king-size pet was tethered to one of the most prominent parts of the vehicle — the tailgate.

Grey pointed out that the Federal government no longer allows household movers to transport animals. Also on the prohibited list are stocks, bonds, currency, jewelry and coins.

He offered the following tips for families on the move:

"If you have children, ask a relative or neighbor to care for them on the big day — it's easier on the kids and on the van crew.

"After a box is packed, note the contents on the outside and the room for which they are intended. Furnish the mover with a rough plan for the positioning of furniture in your new home.

"Advise the mover if you are shipping something of extraordinary value — a musical instrument, for example.

"Pick a company which guarantees to advise you of the move's cost BEFORE you leave your old home.

"Try to be present during unloading at your new residence. Have ready for the van operator a certified check, cash or a money order covering the cost of your move."

Covering the Northwest Suburbs with 10 Convenient Locations

Popularity of townhouses growing in suburban areas

Townhouses, once largely confined to bustling metropolitan centers, are now moving in ever increasing numbers to suburbia, said Jackson W. Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Co.

"No matter what type of dwelling is involved, the typical home buyer can quickly enumerate the basic reasons for owning a home — the distinct tax advantages; pride of ownership; and others," Goss said.

"But townhouse owners — and, more especially, those young families under 30 — have a few additional reasons," Goss said.

Highlights of a recent random IMIC report covering the under-30 group include the following points:

- Young adults favor the suburban townhouse setting for raising a family. Maintenance cares are minimal. The units are roomy and modern.
- This type of dwelling in suburban communities is found in a great variety of styles and price ranges. For the 30-and-under purchase candidate, flexible pricing and financing is a strong incentive.
- Many young townhouse owners select their home for its proximity to jobs and shopping. These factors may well cancel out the need for a second car or excessive commuting costs.
- In addition to expecting the value of their property to grow during the years, young townhouse residents also enjoy the benefits of community sports plus the built-in social and recreational amenities.

HOMEFINDING IS OUR BUSINESS

Check mover's reputation before signing contract

Summer brings a slower pace for most Americans, unless they are among the thousands making a long-distance move.

Summer is the peak season for moves of all kinds — movers do about 60 per cent of their business during June, July, August and September — and for each family picking up stakes and moving from one region to another the change of residence is a big step.

Not the least is the physical move itself. Of chief concern is finding a long-distance mover who will get the family's possessions from here to there on time and undamaged.

"It's easy enough," according to Mike Grey, 34-year-old president of Terminal Van Lines, Inc., St. Petersburg, Fla.

"Ask to see a mover's performance report, which the Interstate Commerce Commission requires him to provide."

"Among other things," Grey said, "it will show how many moves the company carried out in the previous year, the percentage made on schedule and the percentage of claims for damage.

"Check a mover's rates, too," Grey suggested. "Because all long-distance movers provide closely similar services most people think their rates must be the same, but this is not true."

The way to move without misery is to plan ahead, according to Grey.

"Once you've made your choice of a mover, consult with him.

"Establish dates on which you want your possessions picked up and delivered, remembering that a moving company is at the mercy of weather and traffic conditions.

"The mover is the expert, so he can advise you on such things as pre-move servicing of major appliances. If you want to do your own packing, companies will provide you with a booklet of instructions. If you want to skip the packing, the mover can do it for you."

Grey is the grandson of Henry Scramlin, founder of the company and active in its daily operation until his death at 81 in 1973. Grey recalled his grandfather telling him of a week-long run in 1928, camping out overnight and hauling the possessions of a Michigan man to Florida.

His goods filled the van to capacity, and he had to choose between sending a desk or his Great Dane. He opted for the dog, making the van a roadside sensation, because the king-size pet was tethered to one of the most prominent parts of the vehicle — the tailgate.

Grey pointed out that the Federal government no longer allows household movers to transport animals. Also on the prohibited list are stocks, bonds, currency, jewelry and coins.

He offered the following tips for families on the move:

"If you have children, ask a relative or neighbor to care for them on the big day — it's easier on the kids and on the van crew.

"After a box is packed, note the contents on the outside and the room for which they are intended. Furnish the mover with a rough plan for the positioning of furniture in your new home.

"Advise the mover if you are shipping something of extraordinary value — a musical instrument, for example.

"Pick a company which guarantees to advise you of the move's cost BEFORE you leave your old home.

"Try to be present during unloading at your new residence. Have ready for the van operator a certified check, cash or a money order covering the cost of your move."

A total of 922 unit sales in March 1976 was reported by MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate Service, an increase of 38 per cent over the same period in 1975. To date in 1976, MAP Multiple Listing offices have participated in over 2,304 home and property sales, an increase of 38 per cent over the same period in 1975. The average per home sale for the three month period ending in March 1976 is $49,990.

March was the biggest month in the 121-year history of "BAIRD & WARNER, INC., Chicago, diversified real estate company, with a total of 546 sales participations and a volume of $37,580,494.

The number of sales participations was 17.16 per cent ahead of March, 1975, while volume was 38.40 per cent ahead.

For the first quarter of 1976, Baird & Warner's total of 1,287 sales participations is 18.72 per cent ahead of the same quarter in 1975, while its volume of $83,496,909 is 33.51 per cent ahead.

Commercial and industrial sales also showed an improvement. During March, Baird & Warner had 44 sales participations with a volume of $7,083,165, compared to 39 participations and $2,694,190 in volume in March, 1975.

Nineteen of the company's residential sales offices scored more than $1 million in sales participations for the month.

Gladstone, Realtors recently broke ground for expanded facilities at their Elk Grove Village office, 200 E. Higgins Road. The firm also has offices in Des Plaines, Berkeley, Westchester, Villa Park, Franklin Park and LaGrange.

The new, one story office building is being constructed next to Gladstone's present quarters in Elk Grove. Plans call for the 6,000 square foot building to house Gladstone's Residential Sales, Industrial Sales and Property Management Divisions in addition to the Gladstone School of Real Estate training center.

Construction is scheduled for completion within 6 months.

QUINLAN AND TYSON, INC., Realtors, has set an all-time monthly sales record, with sales of $20.2 million during March.

The gross residential sales mark topped the previous monthly high, set in June of 1975, it was announced by William B. Martin, senior vice president and general manager-residential sales.

In the first three months of 1976, the North Shore and Northwest suburban real estate firm also recorded the best first quarter in its history. First quarter sales totalled $51 million, up $13 million from the same period of last year.

The Glenview-Northbrook area office led all 11 offices in March, with $2.3 million in sales. Other offices over $2 million were Arlington Heights-Mt. Prospect, Buffalo Grove, Highland Park, Lake Forest, Libertyville-Mundelein and Winnetka.

Popularity of townhouses growing in suburban areas

Townhouses, once largely confined to bustling metropolitan centers, are now moving in ever increasing numbers to suburbia, said Jackson W. Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Co.

"No matter what type of dwelling is involved, the typical home buyer can quickly enumerate the basic reasons for owning a home — the distinct tax advantages; pride of ownership; and others," Goss said.

"But townhouse owners — and, more especially, those young families under 30 — have a few additional reasons," Goss said.

Highlights of a recent random IMIC report covering the under-30 group include the following points:

- Young adults favor the suburban townhouse setting for raising a family. Maintenance cares are minimal. The units are roomy and modern.
- This type of dwelling in suburban communities is found in a great variety of styles and price ranges. For the 30-and-under purchase candidate, flexible pricing and financing is a strong incentive.
- Many young townhouse owners select their home for its proximity to jobs and shopping. These factors may well cancel out the need for a second car or excessive commuting costs.
- In addition to expecting the value of their property to grow during the years, young townhouse residents also enjoy the benefits of community sports plus the built-in social and recreational amenities.

Jaycees win award from realtor panel

The Computer Multiple Listing Service of Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors presented their fourth annual Community Service Award to Arlington Heights Jaycees and Jaycees Wives for their Northwest Community Hospital Project. The Jaycees and Jaycee Wives are pledged to raise $30,000 over an 18-month period for the purchase of a thermoscope for the hospital. This machine for the early detection of cancer, especially breast cancer, through heat process, will be available to anyone in the Northwest suburban area on a doctor's referral. There is only one other such machine in the Chicago area, and it is not convenient to residents of this area.

The award was presented on behalf of the MLS by committee member Dorothy J. Ellis, Park Ridge sales manager for Rich Port Realtors, with Virgil E. Grand of V. E. Grand & Co., Realtors in Park Ridge, president of Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors, participating.

Accepting on behalf of the Arlington Heights Jaycees was Nick Montesano, president, and Anthony Polenzani, cochairman of the hospital project.

Donations are still needed and will be welcomed at P.O. Box 1, Arlington Heights 60006, with checks made payable to Arlington Heights Jaycees Hospital Fund.

A door-to-door drive for funds was conducted in Arlington Heights on March 20.

Previous winners of the MLS Community Service Award have been the Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines for their "Choose A Child" Christmas Gift Program in 1972, Mt. Prospect Lions Club for inaugurating American Blind Skiing Foundation in 1973 and Northwest Suburban Aid for the Retarded for their Work Experiences Program and other services to the retarded in 1974.

A total of 922 unit sales in March 1976 was reported by MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate Service, an increase of 38 per cent over the same period in 1975. To date in 1976, MAP Multiple Listing offices have participated in over 2,304 home and property sales, an increase of 38 per cent over the same period in 1975. The average per home sale for the three month period ending in March 1976 is $49,990.

March was the biggest month in the 121-year history of "BAIRD & WARNER, INC., Chicago, diversified real estate company, with a total of 546 sales participations and a volume of $37,580,494.

The number of sales participations was 17.16 per cent ahead of March, 1975, while volume was 38.40 per cent ahead.

For the first quarter of 1976, Baird & Warner's total of 1,287 sales participations is 18.72 per cent ahead of the same quarter in 1975, while its volume of $83,496,909 is 33.51 per cent ahead.

Commercial and industrial sales also showed an improvement. During March, Baird & Warner had 44 sales participations with a volume of $7,083,165, compared to 39 participations and $2,694,190 in volume in March, 1975.

Nineteen of the company's residential sales offices scored more than $1 million in sales participations for the month.

Gladstone, Realtors recently broke ground for expanded facilities at their Elk Grove Village office, 200 E. Higgins Road. The firm also has offices in Des Plaines, Berkeley, Westchester, Villa Park, Franklin Park and LaGrange.

The new, one story office building is being constructed next to Gladstone's present quarters in Elk Grove. Plans call for the 6,000 square foot building to house Gladstone's Residential Sales, Industrial Sales and Property Management Divisions in addition to the Gladstone School of Real Estate training center.

Construction is scheduled for completion within 6 months.

QUINLAN AND TYSON, INC., Realtors, has set an all-time monthly sales record, with sales of $20.2 million during March.

The gross residential sales mark topped the previous monthly high, set in June of 1975, it was announced by William B. Martin, senior vice president and general manager-residential sales.

In the first three months of 1976, the North Shore and Northwest suburban real estate firm also recorded the best first quarter in its history. First quarter sales totalled $51 million, up $13 million from the same period of last year.

The Glenview-Northbrook area office led all 11 offices in March, with $2.3 million in sales. Other offices over $2 million were Arlington Heights-Mt. Prospect, Buffalo Grove, Highland Park, Lake Forest, Libertyville-Mundelein and Winnetka.

'Activated patients' cut medical bills

by MERLE E. DOWD

Medicine remains one of the last major spending areas to yield to do-it-yourself (DIY) activity as a means of cutting costs. A new guide for spending less while remaining healthy is an eye-popping new book, "How to Be Your Own Doctor — Sometimes," by Dr. Keith W. Sehnert.

Spending for health care now tops $100 billion per year — much of it unnecessary, according to Dr. Sehnert. He is currently director of the Center for Continuing Health Education at Georgetown University.

Attendees at Dr. Sehnert's classes in Washington, D.C. and readers of his monthly column in "Family Health Magazine" and "How to Be Your Own Doctor — Sometimes," develop as "activated patients." As enlightened and inquisitive individuals, they rate as junior partners in managing their own health care — about ¾ patient and ¼ physician. Activated patients not only solve many of their own health problems, but they learn to communicate in the doctor's own language.

"The Self-Healp Medical Guide" is a book within Dr. Sehnert's book that offers specific details for dealing with 36 illnesses, inquiries and emergencies. A computer analysis of medical practice isolated these 36 medical needs as representative of 70 per cent of the reasons you might see a family doctor, pediatrician, internist or obstetrician/gynecologist during a typical year.

The self-help guide uses the algorithm as a systematic approach for asking questions answerable with a simple yes or no. This problem-solving system was developed in engineering and adapted to other technologies — including income tax compilation. Yes answers direct you to another probing question. A no answer points directly to a solution — one of which could be to see your physician immediately.

Among the 27 common ailments you learn to either treat yourself or seek a physician's aid for are arthritis, asthma, bladder infection, earache, sore throat, common cold, stomach flu, bleeding nose, burns, fractured or sprained ankle, wrist or back, and insect bites. Among the nine most common emergencies subject to symptom screening are abdominal pain, heart attack, poisoning, psychiatric problems, shock, stroke and an unconscious patient.

Two other sections of the self-help guide detail effects of and reasons for using common drugs and a treatment index for many common family ills. Dr. Sehnert's key to self-diagnosis concepts help readers determine when an illness or injury will likely cure itself or requires immediate attention by a professional.

Dr. Sehnert advises buying and learning to use three tools common in the physician's black bag — a simple stethoscope, a sphygmomanometer for measuring blood pressure and an otoscope for examining ears. These tools of the trade when used on a regular basis help the activated patient develop a norm for each family member and report vital signs to a physician.

Activated patents can reduce their visits to a doctor's office or hospital emergency room by as much as 70 per cent, according to Dr. Sehnert. Physicians can then concentrate their awesome knowledge and skills on the real problems of the remaining 30 per cent.

Prof. Eli Ginzberg of Columbia University, an internationally known health economist, is quoted as saying, "Programming the American people to do much more about their own health would be a lot more economical and effective in easing the demands on physicians than producing more of them. Patients themselves are an immense, untapped health manpower resource. Unless laymen can be trained to deal with early symptomology — and many ailments require no more than for a citizen of ordinary intelligence to do some very ordinary things — we'll never have enough physicians."

Preventive medicine gets high marks from Dr. Sehnert as another means for reducing family medical costs. His book provides practical guidance on diet and nutrition, exercise and systems for combating battle fatigue among today's fast-living, hard-working Americans. One unique self-testing section asks, "Are You Older Than Your Birth Certificate." Fascinating!

"With this book as a guide," Dr. Sehnert states, "you should be able to avoid having to sue yourself for malpractice."

Jaycees win award from realtor panel

The Computer Multiple Listing Service of Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors presented their fourth annual Community Service Award to Arlington Heights Jaycees and Jaycees Wives for their Northwest Community Hospital Project. The Jaycees and Jaycee Wives are pledged to raise $30,000 over an 18-month period for the purchase of a thermoscope for the hospital. This machine for the early detection of cancer, especially breast cancer, through heat process, will be available to anyone in the Northwest suburban area on a doctor's referral. There is only one other such machine in the Chicago area, and it is not convenient to residents of this area.

The award was presented on behalf of the MLS by committee member Dorothy J. Ellis, Park Ridge sales manager for Rich Port Realtors, with Virgil E. Grand of V. E. Grand & Co., Realtors in Park Ridge, president of Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors, participating.

Accepting on behalf of the Arlington Heights Jaycees was Nick Montesano, president, and Anthony Polenzani, co-chairman of the hospital project.

Donations are still needed and will be welcomed at P.O. Box 1, Arlington Heights 60006, with checks made payable to Arlington Heights Jaycees Hospital Fund.

A door-to-door drive for funds was conducted in Arlington Heights on March 20.

Previous winners of the MLS Community Service Award have been the Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines for their "Choose A Child" Christmas Gift Program in 1972, Mt. Prospect Lions Club for inaugurating American Blind Skiing Foundation in 1973 and Northwest Suburban Aid for the Retarded for their Work Experiences Program and other services to the retarded in 1974.

'Activated patients' cut medical bills

by MERLE E. DOWD

Medicine remains one of the last major spending areas to yield to do-it-yourself (DIY) activity as a means of cutting costs. A new guide for spending less while remaining healthy is an eye-popping new book, "How to Be Your Own Doctor — Sometimes," by Dr. Keith W. Sehnert.

Spending for health care now tops $100 billion per year — much of it unnecessary, according to Dr. Sehnert. He is currently director of the Center for Continuing Health Education at Georgetown University.

Attendees at Dr. Sehnert's classes in Washington, D.C. and readers of his monthly column in "Family Health Magazine" and "How to Be Your Own Doctor — Sometimes," develop as "activated patients." As enlightened and inquisitive individuals, they rate as junior partners in managing their own health care — about ¾ patient and ¼ physician. Activated patients not only solve many of their own health problems, but they learn to communicate in the doctor's own language.

"The Self-Healp Medical Guide" is a book within Dr. Sehnert's book that offers specific details for dealing with 36 illnesses, inquiries and emergencies. A computer analysis of medical practice isolated these 36 medical needs as representative of 70 per cent of the reasons you might see a family doctor, pediatrician, internist or obstetrician/gynecologist during a typical year.

The self-help guide uses the algorithm as a systematic approach for asking questions answerable with a simple yes or no. This problem-solving system was developed in engineering and adapted to other technologies — including income tax compilation. Yes answers direct you to another probing question. A no answer points directly to a solution — one of which could be to see your physician immediately.

Among the 27 common ailments you learn to either treat yourself or seek a physician's aid for are arthritis, asthma, bladder infection, earache, sore throat, common cold, stomach flu, bleeding nose, burns, fractured or sprained ankle, wrist or back, and insect bites. Among the nine most common emergencies subject to symptom screening are abdominal pain, heart attack, poisoning, psychiatric problems, shock, stroke and an unconscious patient.

Two other sections of the self-help guide detail effects of and reasons for using common drugs and a treatment index for many common family ills. Dr. Sehnert's key to self-diagnosis concepts help readers determine when an illness or injury will likely cure itself or requires immediate attention by a professional.

Dr. Sehnert advises buying and learning to use three tools common in the physician's black bag — a simple stethoscope, a sphygmomanometer for measuring blood pressure and an otoscope for examining ears. These tools of the trade when used on a regular basis help the activated patient develop a norm for each family member and report vital signs to a physician.

Activated patents can reduce their visits to a doctor's office or hospital emergency room by as much as 70 per cent, according to Dr. Sehnert. Physicians can then concentrate their awesome knowledge and skills on the real problems of the remaining 30 per cent.

Prof. Eli Ginzberg of Columbia University, an internationally known health economist, is quoted as saying, "Programming the American people to do much more about their own health would be a lot more economical and effective in easing the demands on physicians than producing more of them. Patients themselves are an immense, untapped health manpower resource. Unless laymen can be trained to deal with early symptomology — and many ailments require no more than for a citizen of ordinary intelligence to do some very ordinary things — we'll never have enough physicians."

Preventive medicine gets high marks from Dr. Sehnert as another means for reducing family medical costs. His book provides practical guidance on diet and nutrition, exercise and systems for combating battle fatigue among today's fast-living, hard-working Americans. One unique self-testing section asks, "Are You Older Than Your Birth Certificate." Fascinating!

"With this book as a guide," Dr. Sehnert states, "you should be able to avoid having to sue yourself for malpractice."

Questions pay when hunting for house

by DOROTHEA BROOKS
United Press International

You've decided to buy a house. You know what you'd like. You know what you can afford. You're willing to compromise.

The problem now is to find THE house.

It's not always a case of "What you see is what you get."

It pays to look behind the scenes — at beams and foundations and the neighborhood around the house. It pays to ask a lot of questions.

American Bankers Association housing experts suggest a program for zeroing in on compatible communities, neighborhoods and specific homes:

First, select areas where you'd like to live. Then consider:

- Schools. Are they good quality, convenient?
- Public Facilities. Are there parks, playgrounds, swimming and other recreational facilities nearby? What about convenient shopping? What about cultural facilities that may be important to your family?
- Transportation. How long will it take, and how much will it cost to travel to work, to school, to shopping? Is there public transportation? Will an additional car be necessary?
- Zoning. Is the surrounding area restricted to residential building? Are there any plans to develop industry, roads or other facilities?
- Property Values. How much have homes in the area sold for in recent months? How does this compare with surrounding areas? Is the neighborhood on its way up or down? Have people improved their homes? Are they well kept? Is there a problem with noise or air pollution?
- Taxes. What are current rates for property, school, sewer and other taxes? Are future building programs likely to increase taxes?

A local realtor or banker can help with answers to some of these questions. You may want to contact the local zoning or planning board, public works department or other local government agencies. You may find it worthwhile talking to neighbors.

Before considering specific houses, list features important to your family in order of their importance — things like the number of bedrooms, baths, a separate dining room, air conditioning, garage, family room. If you're thinking of adding features to a home, such as appliances, carpeting, air-conditioning, garage, be aware of the price tag — what the cost will be to add it either now or at a later date.

In looking at an existing home, be sure just what the asking price includes — appliances, carpeting, window air conditioners, chandeliers, outdoor equipment, even shrubbery. Be sure everything you want is listed in the contract.

In any house you are considering seriously, you should check certain physical factors as a part of your preliminary inspection. Professional inspection is wise before you buy, or you may sign a contract subject to a satisfactory inspection report.

Among things to be aware of, ABA lists:

- Plumbing. Turn on several hot water faucets. There should be plenty of pressure and water should run clear and hot in a few seconds and remain hot. Check capacity and age of water heater. Depending on quality and use, a heater will last seven to 15 years. Is there good quality piping? Are any pipes exposed, subject to freezing? Is there public sewage disposal or a septic tank? Is septic tank capacity adequate?

A three-bedroom home requires a 900-gallon tank; four-bedrooms, 1,125 and each added bedroom calls for another 270 gallons. Be sure the system has been inspected recently and is in good working order. Find out how old drainage fields are. If there is a private water supply, check the system carefully and have water tested for purity. Keep a sharp eye out for evidence of large water leaks, wet pipes or wet areas near plumbing.

- Heating and Cooling. Does the house feel comfortable? Thermostat setting above 72-74 degrees in winter, or below 70-72 degrees in summer, may indicate problems. Is the house well-insulated? Are there drafts from doors, windows or other openings? Ask for recent bills for all utilities, getting several for the coldest and warmest months for a fair indication.
- General Construction. Check walls for serious cracks or bulges; floors to be sure they are level and in good condition (look under carpeting.) Be sure appliances work. Determine what remodeling and decorating will be required.
- Outdoors. Look for water damage along foundation. Check gutters, downspouts, cement walks, shingles, roofing, driveway and other exposed areas. Will substantial landscaping be needed. Will any trees require expensive repair or removal?

Always examine a house in daylight and try to examine it on a rainy day.

Century 21 membership doubles

Century 21 Real Estate Corporation of Northern Illinois reported doubled membership and tripled real estate transaction value in the first quarter of 1976.

Total real estate sales volume for the three months ended March 31 was $137 million, up from $47 million in the first quarter of 1975. Properties sold rose to 2,999 from 946, and the number of reporting offices increased to 132 from 61. The actual number of offices signed at the end of the quarter was 146 compared with 64 in the first quarter of 1975.

Lowell Stahl, regional director of Century 21's Rosemont-based office, said each CENTURY 21 reporting office increased unit sales by an average of 46 per cent. "The value of these sales was up an average of 35 per cent per office," Stahl said.

"Total sales volume for 1975 was $308 million," Stahl said. "That figure was generated by an average of 84 offices, 55 at the beginning of the year and 113 reporting offices out of 125 signed at the end of the year. If we achieve our goal of 200 offices signed by the end of 1976 and the gains per office recorded in the first quarter hold through the balance of the year," Stahl said, "our combined membership could generate total real estate sales volume of more than $700 million this year with an annualized value, assuming the availability of 200 offices for the full year, of close to $1 billion, double the annualized value of the 1975 figure."

In the American Tradition . . .

He was a Potomac squire. He devoted twelve years to soldiering and then he was offered the crown of a young, vigorous nation destined to become the leader of the world.

The garden front of the elegant house pictured above was inspired by one of the most famous countryhouses in America, where George Washington spent his happiest times. It will have an atmosphere all its own, high standards of quality and the convenience of today, and it can be built for you and your family this year.

If you are interested in building this residence — or a house of some other historic design — and would like to make the building process a pleasant and exciting experience, we invite you to call or write us for a preliminary appointment.

Divorced couple needs appraiser

Mr.Meltzer onreal estate

by Bernard Meltzer

With the growing number of divorces taking place in the United States, I receive many letters concerning split marriages. Here is one example.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: My husband and I have been married for seven years. We have both decided that is enough. He has decided to relocate out West. I am going to stay put.

We worked out a very amicable divorce until we got down to the issue of our house. Since I am staying in the area, I would like to keep the house. My husband says this is fine, and I should pay him for his half.

When we bought the house five years ago, the price was $30,000. There is a mortgage balance of $20,000. I offered him $5,000, which seemed fair for his half. My husband claims that the house is now worth $60,000 — and wants me to pay him $20,000.

We are at a loss in trying to settle our differences. Please advise.

—Seven Year Itch.

This is one area where the services of a good real estate appraiser could come in handy. It is important that the appraiser be somebody independent of both you and your husband.

The normal procedure is for the attorneys to select an appraiser and the cost be divided equally between husband and wife. This is the only way you will ever solve this type of problem.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: The house we are living in is quite old and almost no renovation work has been done since it was originally built 40 years ago.

When we purchased the house last year, there was an old fuse box in the basement with only two fuses in it. It was a common occurrence to blow at least one fuse a day — and my wife and I began to make a game out of whose turn it was next to venture down to the basement and replace the fuse.

A year of this was enough. We called in a local electrician who told us that in order to update the house's electrical service, we needed a new 200-amp circuit breaker system. We gave the job to the electrician and it cost a lot of money.

Now we have a large circuit breaker panel in the basement with only two circuit breakers in it. These circuit breakers have to be reset as often as we had to change fuses. I am writing you before I sue the electrician. What seems to be the problem?

—Blown Fuse.

Replacing the circuit breaker panel was only half of the problem. The other part of the problem has to do with the distribution of wiring throughout the house.

Unfortunately, when your house was built, there were very few appliances, and the use of electricity was limited to minimal lighting requirements.

All of the outlets and lights in your house are connected to only two circuits. The size of the wiring can handle no more than 20 amps per circuit. You must consider the new electrical service to be phase one of your electrical renovation.

As a next step, you should install additional outlets throughout the house where they are needed. Give prime attention to the kitchen, for appliances, and any area where air conditioners or similar electrical devices are used.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Our daughter and her husband are now in a position to buy a house. They have a downpayment, but they can get more favorable terms if we will lend them enough to fatten the initial payment. There is no problem about the sum involved or the probability of repayment.

In your judgment, what is the best way to set up this loan to avoid complications for all parties concerned?

—Doting Parents

If there is no problem about the sum involved or the probability of repayment, I think it would be best if you offered this loan on an informal basis, rather than as a typical business transaction.

After all, if it should turn out that they are unable to repay the loan, you would certainly not foreclose on the mortgage. Very often when close members of a family become too businesslike, strained relations (and sometimes even complete estrangement) result.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Last week I received a telephone call from the political headquarters for one of the presidential candidates. They would like to rent my vacant garage for one month prior to the primary election.

They claim they do not have any money and wonder if I would donate the space. Since the rental value is $100, can I give them the space free and deduct $100 from my tax return as a political contribution?

—Patriotic But Practical

Whenever you donate the use of a property for no rental, it is impossible to deduct the rental value as a political contribution or a charitable contribution.

The law requires an exchange of dollars. If they were to pay you the rent, you could then donate it back to the campaign, if you were so inclined. In that way, you would have a legal deduction.

But you would also be required to report the $100 rental as income. This would be of no real benefit to you unless the candidate wins — thereby offering the possibility of a political job.

Some investigations need not scare you

People getting supplemental security income payments shouldn't feel they're being singled out for investigation when they're contacted during the year by social security representatives.

The supplemental security income program makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 and over or blind or disabled. The law requires that eligibility for supplemental security income and the amount of the monthly payments be redetermined once a year for everyone getting the payments.

The Social Security Administration gets in touch with people to get information about income, living arrangements, and other factors that might affect their supplemental security income payments. This may be done by a questionnaire in the mail or by personal interview.

Social security representatives are glad to identify themselves. They never ask you to give them money to have something done. It's their duty to help people — in any way they can — to get supplemental security income payments in the right amount.

For more information about supplemental security income payments contact the Arlington Heights social security office, located at 120 W. Eastman. Phone 255-6570, toll free.

Questions pay when hunting for house

by DOROTHEA BROOKS
United Press International

You've decided to buy a house. You know what you'd like. You know what you can afford. You're willing to compromise.

The problem now is to find THE house.

It's not always a case of "What you see is what you get."

It pays to look behind the scenes — at beams and foundations and the neighborhood around the house. It pays to ask a lot of questions.

American Bankers Association housing experts suggest a program for zeroing in on compatible communities, neighborhoods and specific homes:

First, select areas where you'd like to live. Then consider:

- Schools. Are they good quality, convenient?
- Public Facilities. Are there parks, playgrounds, swimming and other recreational facilities nearby? What about convenient shopping? What about cultural facilities that may be important to your family?
- Transportation. How long will it take, and how much will it cost to travel to work, to school, to shopping? Is there public transportation? Will an additional car be necessary?
- Zoning. Is the surrounding area restricted to residential building? Are there any plans to develop industry, roads or other facilities?
- Property Values. How much have homes in the area sold for in recent months? How does this compare with surrounding areas? Is the neighborhood on its way up or down? Have people improved their homes? Are they well kept? Is there a problem with noise or air pollution?
- Taxes. What are current rates for property, school, sewer and other taxes? Are future building programs likely to increase taxes?

A local realtor or banker can help with answers to some of these questions. You may want to contact the local zoning or planning board, public works department or other local government agencies. You may find it worthwhile talking to neighbors.

Before considering specific houses, list features important to your family in order of their importance — things like the number of bedrooms, baths, a separate dining room, air conditioning, garage, family room. If you're thinking of adding features to a home, such as appliances, carpeting, air-conditioning, garage, be aware of the price tag — what the cost will be to add it either now or at a later date.

In looking at an existing home, be sure just what the asking price includes — appliances, carpeting, window air conditioners, chandeliers, outdoor equipment, even shrubbery. Be sure everything you want is listed in the contract.

In any house you are considering seriously, you should check certain physical factors as a part of your preliminary inspection. Professional inspection is wise before you buy, or you may sign a contract subject to a satisfactory inspection report.

Among things to be aware of, ABA lists:

- Plumbing. Turn on several hot water faucets. There should be plenty of pressure and water should run clear and hot in a few seconds and remain hot. Check capacity and age of water heater. Depending on quality and use, a heater will last seven to 15 years. Is there good quality piping? Are any pipes exposed, subject to freezing? Is there public sewage disposal or a septic tank? Is septic tank capacity adequate?

A three-bedroom home requires a 900-gallon tank; four-bedrooms, 1,125 and each added bedroom calls for another 270 gallons. Be sure the system has been inspected recently and is in good working order. Find out how old drainage fields are. If there is a private water supply, check the system carefully and have water tested for purity. Keep a sharp eye out for evidence of large water leaks, wet pipes or wet areas near plumbing.

- Heating and Cooling. Does the house feel comfortable? Thermostat setting above 72-74 degrees in winter, or below 70-72 degrees in summer, may indicate problems. Is the house well-insulated? Are there drafts from doors, windows or other openings? Ask for recent bills for all utilities, getting several for the coldest and warmest months for a fair indication.
- General Construction. Check walls for serious cracks or bulges; floors to be sure they are level and in good condition (look under carpeting.) Be sure appliances work. Determine what remodeling and decorating will be required.
- Outdoors. Look for water damage along foundation. Check gutters, downspouts, cement walks, shingles, roofing, driveway and other exposed areas. Will substantial landscaping be needed. Will any trees require expensive repair or removal?

Always examine a house in daylight and try to examine it on a rainy day.

Century 21 membership doubles

Century 21 Real Estate Corporation of Northern Illinois reported doubled membership and tripled real estate transaction value in the first quarter of 1976.

Total real estate sales volume for the three months ended March 31 was $137 million, up from $47 million in the first quarter of 1975. Properties sold rose to 2,999 from 946, and the number of reporting offices increased to 132 from 61. The actual number of offices signed at the end of the quarter was 146 compared with 64 in the first quarter of 1975.

Lowell Stahl, regional director of Century 21's Rosemont-based office, said each CENTURY 21 reporting office increased unit sales by an average of 46 per cent. "The value of these sales was up an average of 35 per cent per office," Stahl said.

"Total sales volume for 1975 was $308 million," Stahl said. "That figure was generated by an average of 84 offices, 55 at the beginning of the year and 113 reporting offices out of 125 signed at the end of the year. If we achieve our goal of 200 offices signed by the end of 1976 and the gains per office recorded in the first quarter hold through the balance of the year," Stahl said, "our combined membership could generate total real estate sales volume of more than $700 million this year with an annualized value, assuming the availability of 200 offices for the full year, of close to $1 billion, double the annualized value of the 1975 figure."

BUILDERS–DEVELOPERS–REALTORS

Arizona builder charged with misleading buyers

An Arizona developer is charged by the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development with misleading purchasers about the land they are buying.

The sale of lots at Pinedale Estates, about 200 miles northeast of Phoenix, has been ordered halted by HUD's Office of Interstate Land Sales Registration.

According to HUD, purchasers of lots there face numerous hidden additional costs not appearing in the property reports going to prospective buyers or in the documents on file with the registration office.

Sitgreaves Development Company failed to report there could be additional charges to purchasers for completing the subdivision's water, electric, and telephone lines, according to OILSR. The developer did not indicate when the electric and telephone lines would be completed.

Buyers were not advised of a cost increase for installing septic tanks on their lots.

The promised ponds, horseback riding facilities and recreational spaces are not yet finished and prospective buyers were not given completion dates. Further, they were not informed of additional costs to complete and use the facilities.

Some lots need land fill and certain steep lots may need specially constructed buildings. The registration office charges that the lots are not identified and buyers have not been warned of additional costs for the required extra work.

In addition to concealing hidden costs, the Sitgreaves Company failed to clarify ownership of the well which supplies water to the subdivison. The developer's rights to use the well and its equipment could affect the future availability of water to lot owners.

Buyers may have problems getting to their land, the office reports, because it can be reached only by a narrow, gravel U.S. Forest Service road or over private property. The developer gave no information on the current condition of access roads and failed to tell buyers there are no arrangements to maintain them. Also, some of the lots cannot be reached by conventional cars.

Finally, the developer failed to mention the are is subject to forest fires.

The suspension of sales will remain in effect at Pinedale Estates until the company amends the property reports and the records on file to describe accurately the land offered for sale.

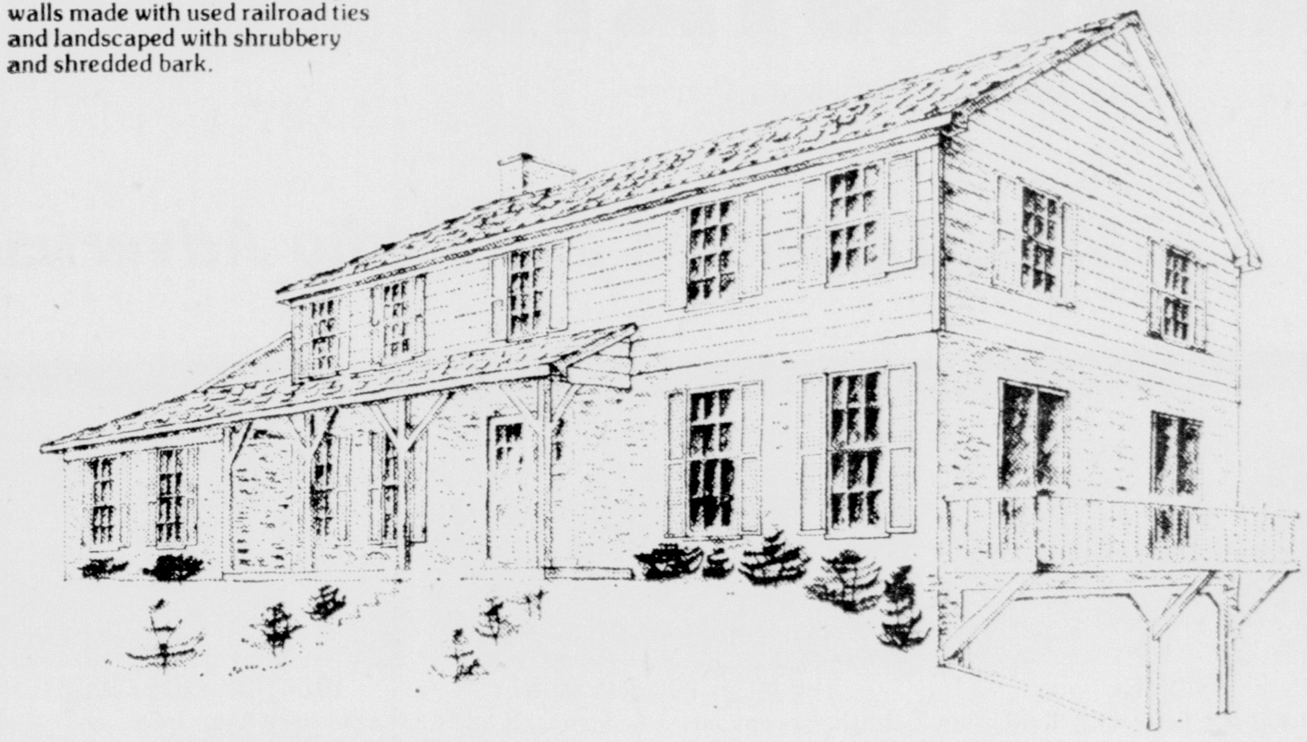
THE IDEA HOME

The home pictured below, like most of our homes, includes a full basement, three car garage with electric door opener, air conditioning, humidification, brick or stone veneer, cedar siding, screened-in porch, oak cabinetry and two fireplaces. In addition, our Idea Home has many unique concepts:

Idea No. 1—Site Planning
As with all homes designed by Barrington Construction Company, the Idea Home was individually designed for the natural terrain of the lot. There is a dry creek that meanders diagonally across the property with trees along each side. The home was sited to the side of the creek and to the rear of the trees on the high part of the lot. The walk from the drive to the front door is made with used railroad ties. There are several retaining walls made with used railroad ties and landscaped with shrubbery and shredded bark.

Idea No. 2—Entrance
The centrally located foyer distributes traffic to six areas: the living room, family room, kitchen, laundry room, den, second floor. The foyer floor is a country provincial ceramic tile. The exterior door locks, interior door knobs, switch plates, cabinet handles, and bathroom hardware are the same pattern in order to develop a consistent trim finish theme.

Idea No. 3—Kitchen
The kitchen is designed in a country motif. The cabinets have solid oak panelled doors in distressed walnut. Total cooking capability is provided by a microwave oven, a self-clean oven, ceramic cooktop, indoor grill and griddle. The ceramic tile cooking center is framed with heavy, solid cedar beams and columns dark stained. A new type of kitchen sink has an oversized compartment for washing large pots and pans. Instead of peninsular wall cabinets which cut the kitchen in half, the wall cabinets are installed between the base cabinets and the breakfast area to make a 3′ wide cabinet and countertop area and workspace. A 1′ high back on the pass-through countertop shields the kitchen from the breakfast area. There is a 30′ expanse of glass across the kitchen, breakfast room, and family room.



Idea No. 4—Family Room/Screened Porch
The family room is panelled with rough-sawn horizontal cedar boards of the same pattern as the exterior siding. The ceiling has heavy rough-sawn cedar beams that are solid timber. To each side of the fireplace are sliding glass doors leading to a large screened-in porch. The screening goes from the floor to the underside of the cedar rafters which are 16′ high at their highest point.

Idea No. 5—Laundry Room/Powder Room
The laundry is finished uniquely so that it may be considered as part of the foyer, part of the den-guest room, or a hallway to the powder room. If the pocket door between the laundry and foyer is open and the closet doors are closed over the laundry fixtures, it becomes a hallway to the luxurious powder room. If the pocket door is shut, the powder room becomes a private bath for the den-guest room.

Idea no. 6—Den/Guest Room
The den-guest room has a full wall of bookshelves. It has windows to the south and west. It also has sliding glass doors to the porch on the north side. With glass on three sides, the den-guest room is a very light-bright room.

Idea No. 7—Owner's Suite
Upstairs, there are four large bedrooms. The owner's suite is several rooms in one. A fireplace divides the sleeping area from the sitting room. There are sliding glass doors from the sitting room to a wood deck overlooking a lake. The dressing room has three-way, full-length mirror doors, a double walkin closet with 24′ of clothespole, and a large linen closet. There are double bath vanities with 24k gold plated faucets. The vanity top is raised an extra 4″ in height and has a marble cosmetic ledge. There is a luminous ceiling over the vanity area with full height mirror completely covering three walls.

Individually Designed One-Of-A-Kind Homes In A Unique Environment

In South Barrington, you will find a secluded community of 1-2 acre homesites on high, rolling terrain overlooking miles of countryside and small private ponds. Some lots are on one of the largest residential lakes in Cook County with four season recreation. The Village of Barrington, shopping, schools, golf courses, indoor tennis, other activites are minutes away.

Barrington Construction Company designs and builds a one-of-a-kind home to fit the individual tastes of each owner. Home types include ranch, hillside ranch, Cape Cod, and 2-story. Home styles include colonial, traditional, Spanish, and rustic contemporary. If you have some dramatic, unusual ideas of your own for a new home, come see us. We'll take the time and effort to design and build a home for your particular lifestyle. Call 381-6288 for an appointment to discuss your plans and visit our Idea Home.

An Energy Savings Offer Worth Thousands Over the Life of Your New Capp Home. It's FREE... Until June 30th.

Skyrocketing prices for oil, natural gas and electricity have turned home buying into a totally new ball game.

Suddenly, the added value of extra insulating features can mean savings of thousands on heating and air-conditioning bills over the life of a home.

Naturally, you'd expect to pay a great deal for these extras. But what if a custom builder offered to give you these insulating features without charge? Free. ABSOLUTELY FREE!

From now until June 30th, Capp Homes—The Finish-It-Yourself House Company—is making this offer. We'll provide your new Capp home with plenty of additional insulation—right where it's needed most. You'll have extra ceiling insulation for the attic, which is the single most significant area of energy savings. And you'll get insulation around the foundation wall, where cold air seeps in.

We'll also give you Free storm windows and screens for every window in the house. They're durable combination windows that keep the weather out—hot or cold.

Capp has sold over 50,000 homes to families like yours—offering a wide variety of Finish-It-Yourself designs that can be customized to your family's needs and pocketbook.

Beat the June 30th deadline. Now is the time to think savings. Call your Capp representative today or send the coupon. Remember, you must order your new Capp home before June 30th and start building this year to get these free energy savings features. Don't miss this chance to save.

Divorced couple needs appraiser

Mr. Meltzer on real estate

by Bernard Meltzer

With the growing number of divorces taking place in the United States, I receive many letters concerning split marriages. Here is one example.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: My husband and I have been married for seven years. We have both decided that is enough. He has decided to relocate out West. I am going to stay put.

We worked out a very amicable divorce until we got down to the issue of our house. Since I am staying in the area, I would like to keep the house. My husband says this is fine, and I should pay him for his half.

When we bought the house five years ago, the price was $30,000. There is a mortgage balance of $20,000. I offered him $5,000, which seemed fair for his half. My husband claims that the house is now worth $60,000 — and wants me to pay him $20,000.

We are at a loss in trying to settle our differences. Please advise.

—Seven Year Itch.

This is one area where the services of a good real estate appraiser could come in handy. It is important that the appraiser be somebody independent of both you and your husband.

The normal procedure is for the attorneys to select an appraiser and the cost be divided equally between husband and wife. This is the only way you will ever solve this type of problem.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: The house we are living in is quite old and almost no renovation work has been done since it was originally built 40 years ago.

When we purchased the house last year, there was an old fuse box in the basement with only two fuses in it. It was a common occurrence to blow at least one fuse a day — and my wife and I began to make a game out of whose turn it was next to venture down to the basement and replace the fuse.

A year of this was enough. We called in a local electrician who told us that in order to update the house's electrical service, we needed a new 200-amp circuit breaker system. We gave the job to the electrician and it cost a lot of money.

Now we have a large circuit breaker panel in the basement with only two circuit breakers in it. These circuit breakers have to be reset as often as we had to change fuses. I am writing you before I sue the electrician. What seems to be the problem?

—Blown Fuse.

Replacing the circuit breaker panel was only half of the problem. The other part of the problem has to do with the distribution of wiring throughout the house.

Unfortunately, when your house was built, there were very few appliances, and the use of electricity was limited to minimal lighting requirements.

All of the outlets and lights in your house are connected to only two circuits. The size of the wiring can handle no more than 20 amps per circuit. You must consider the new electrical service to be phase one of your electrical renovation.

As a next step, you should install additional outlets throughout the house where they are needed. Give prime attention to the kitchen, for appliances, and any area where air conditioners or similar electrical devices are used.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Our daughter and her husband are now in a position to buy a house. They have a downpayment, but they can get more favorable terms if we will lend them enough to fatten the initial payment. There is no problem about the sum involved or the probability of repayment.

In your judgment, what is the best way to set up this loan to avoid complications for all parties concerned?

—Doting Parents

If there is no problem about the sum involved or the probability of repayment, I think it would be best if you offered this loan on an informal basis, rather than as a typical business transaction.

After all, if it should turn out that they are unable to repay the loan, you would certainly not foreclose on the mortgage. Very often when close members of a family become too businesslike, strained relations (and sometimes even complete estrangement) result.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Last week I received a telephone call from the political headquarters for one of the presidential candidates. They would like to rent my vacant garage for one month prior to the primary election.

They claim they do not have any money and wonder if I would donate the space. Since the rental value is $100, can I give them the space free and deduct $100 from my tax return as a political contribution?

—Patriotic But Practical

Whenever you donate the use of a property for no rental, it is impossible to deduct the rental value as a political contribution or a charitable contribution.

The law requires an exchange of dollars. If they were to pay you the rent, you could then donate it back to the campaign, if you were so inclined. In that way, you would have a legal deduction.

But you would also be required to report the $100 rental as income. This would be of no real benefit to you unless the candidate wins — thereby offering the possibility of a political job.

Some investigations need not scare you

People getting supplemental security income payments shouldn't feel they're being singled out for investigation when they're contacted during the year by social security representatives.

The supplemental security income program makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 and over or blind or disabled. The law requires that eligibility for supplemental security income and the amount of the monthly payments be redetermined once a year for everyone getting the payments.

The Social Security Administration gets in touch with people to get information about income, living arrangements, and other factors that might affect their supplemental security income payments. This may be done by a questionnaire in the mail or by personal interview.

Social security representatives are glad to identify themselves. They never ask you to give them money to have something done. It's their duty to help people — in any way they can — to get supplemental security income payments in the right amount.

For more information about supplemental security income payments contact the Arlington Heights social security office, located at 120 W. Eastman. Phone 255-6570, toll free.

Arizona builder charged with misleading buyers

An Arizona developer is charged by the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development with misleading purchasers about the land they are buying.

The sale of lots at Pinedale Estates, about 200 miles northeast of Phoenix, has been ordered halted by HUD's Office of Interstate Land Sales Registration.

According to HUD, purchasers of lots there face numerous hidden additional costs not appearing in the property reports going to prospective buyers or in the documents on file with the registration office.

Sitgreaves Development Company failed to report there could be additional charges to purchasers for completing the subdivision's water, electric, and telephone lines, according to OILSR. The developer did not indicate when the electric and telephone lines would be completed.

Buyers were not advised of a cost increase for installing septic tanks on their lots.

The promised ponds, horseback riding facilities and recreational spaces are not yet finished and prospective buyers were not given completion dates. Further, they were not informed of additional costs to complete and use the facilities.

Some lots need land fill and certain steep lots may need specially constructed buildings. The registration office charges that the lots are not identified and buyers have not been warned of additional costs for the required extra work.

In addition to concealing hidden costs, the Sitgreaves Company failed to clarify ownership of the well which supplies water to the subdivison. The developer's rights to use the well and its equipment could affect the future availability of water to lot owners.

Buyers may have problems getting to their land, the office reports, because it can be reached only by a narrow, gravel U.S. Forest Service road or over private property. The developer gave no information on the current condition of access roads and failed to tell buyers there are no arrangements to maintain them. Also, some of the lots cannot be reached by conventional cars.

Finally, the developer failed to mention the are is subject to forest fires.

The suspension of sales will remain in effect at Pinedale Estates until the company amends the property reports and the records on file to describe accurately the land offered for sale.

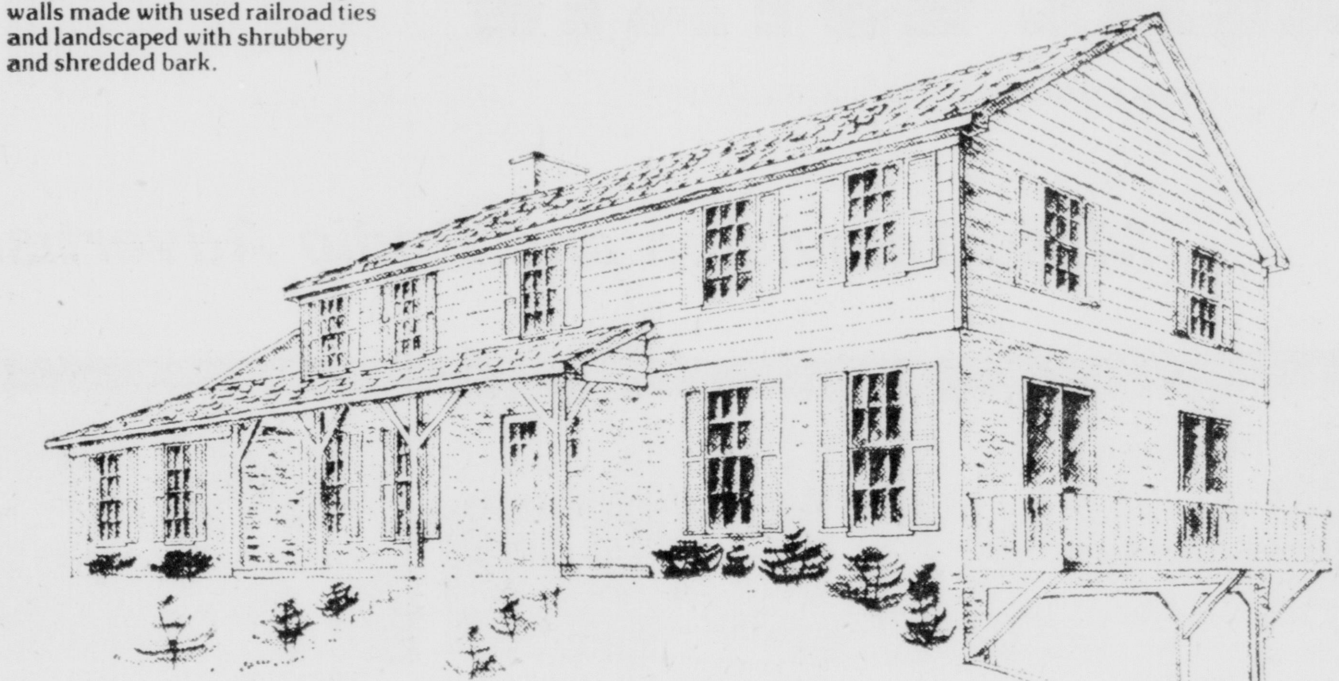
THE IDEA HOME

The home pictured below, like most of our homes, includes a full basement, three car garage with electric door opener, air conditioning, humidification, brick or stone veneer, cedar siding, screened-in porch, oak cabinetry and two fireplaces. In addition, our Idea Home has many unique concepts:

Idea No. 1—Site Planning
As with all homes designed by Barrington Construction Company, the Idea Home was individually designed for the natural terrain of the lot. There is a dry creek that meanders diagonally across the property with trees along each side. The home was sited to the side of the creek and to the rear of the trees on the high part of the lot. The walk from the drive to the front door is made with used railroad ties. There are several retaining walls made with used railroad ties and landscaped with shrubbery and shredded bark.

Idea No. 2—Entrance
The centrally located foyer distributes traffic to six areas: the living room, family room, kitchen, laundry room, den, second floor. The foyer floor is a country provincial ceramic tile. The exterior door locks, interior door knobs, switch plates, cabinet handles, and bathroom hardware are the same pattern in order to develop a consistent trim finish theme.

Idea No. 3—Kitchen
The kitchen is designed in a country motif. The cabinets have solid oak panelled doors in distressed walnut. Total cooking capability is provided by a microwave oven, a self-clean oven, ceramic cooktop, indoor grill and griddle. The ceramic tile cooking center is framed with heavy, solid cedar beams and columns dark stained. A new type of kitchen sink has an oversized compartment for washing large pots and pans. Instead of peninsular wall cabinets which cut the kitchen in half, the wall cabinets are installed between the base cabinets and the breakfast area to make a 3′ wide cabinet and countertop area and workspace. A 1′ high back on the pass-through countertop shields the kitchen from the breakfast area. There is a 30′ expanse of glass across the kitchen, breakfast room, and family room.



Idea No. 4—Family Room/Screened Porch
The family room is panelled with rough-sawn horizontal cedar boards of the same pattern as the exterior siding. The ceiling has heavy rough-sawn cedar beams that are solid timber. To each side of the fireplace are sliding glass doors leading to a large screened-in porch. The screening goes from the floor to the underside of the cedar rafters which are 16′ high at their highest point.

Idea No. 5—Laundry Room/Powder Room
The laundry is finished uniquely so that it may be considered as part of the foyer, part of the den-guest room, or a hallway to the powder room. If the pocket door between the laundry and foyer is open and the closet doors are closed over the laundry fixtures, it becomes a hallway to the luxurious powder room. If the pocket door is shut, the powder room becomes a private bath for the den-guest room.

Idea no. 6—Den/Guest Room
The den-guest room has a full wall of bookshelves. It has windows to the south and west. It also has sliding glass doors to the porch on the north side. With glass on three sides, the den-guest room is a very light-bright room.

Idea No. 7—Owner's Suite
Upstairs, there are four large bedrooms. The owner's suite is several rooms in one. A fireplace divides the sleeping area from the sitting room. There are sliding glass doors from the sitting room to a wood deck overlooking a lake. The dressing room has three-way, full-length mirror doors, a double walkin closet with 24′ of clothespole, and a large linen closet. There are double bath vanities with 24k gold plated faucets. The vanity top is raised an extra 4″ in height and has a marble cosmetic ledge. There is a luminous ceiling over the vanity area with full height mirror completely covering three walls.

Individually Designed One-Of-A-Kind Homes In A Unique Environment

In South Barrington, you will find a secluded community of 1-2 acre homesites on high, rolling terrain overlooking miles of countryside and small private ponds. Some lots are on one of the largest residential lakes in Cook County with four season recreation. The Village of Barrington, shopping, schools, golf courses, indoor tennis, other activites are minutes away.

Barrington Construction Company designs and builds a one-of-a-kind home to fit the individual tastes of each owner. Home types include ranch, hillside ranch, Cape Cod, and 2-story. Home styles include colonial, traditional, Spanish, and rustic contemporary. If you have some dramatic, unusual ideas of your own for a new home, come see us. We'll take the time and effort to design and build a home for your particular lifestyle. Call 381-6288 for an appointment to discuss your plans and visit our Idea Home.

An Energy Savings Offer Worth Thousands Over the Life of Your New Capp Home. It's FREE... Until June 30th.

Skyrocketing prices for oil, natural gas and electricity have turned home buying into a totally new ball game.

Suddenly, the added value of extra insulating features can mean savings of thousands on heating and air-conditioning bills over the life of a home.

Naturally, you'd expect to pay a great deal for these extras. But what if a custom builder offered to give you these insulating features without charge? Free. ABSOLUTELY FREE!

From now until June 30th, Capp Homes—The Finish-It-Yourself House Company—is making this offer. We'll provide your new Capp home with plenty of additional insulation—right where it's needed most. You'll have extra ceiling insulation for the attic, which is the single most significant area of energy savings. And you'll get insulation around the foundation wall, where cold air seeps in.

We'll also give you Free storm windows and screens for every window in the house. They're durable combination windows that keep the weather out—hot or cold.

Capp has sold over 50,000 homes to families like yours—offering a wide variety of Finish-It-Yourself designs that can be customized to your family's needs and pocketbook.

Beat the June 30th deadline. Now is the time to think savings. Call your Capp representative today or send the coupon. Remember, you must order your new Capp home before June 30th and start building this year to get these free energy savings features. Don't miss this chance to save.

Remodeling eliminates high costs

Remodeling office space may be the only feasible alternative to soaring construction costs, said Robert E. Prior, property manager for the Crosby Company in Minneapolis.

Prior said it is important to select knowledgeable subcontractors who are trustworthy. "Pick your contractor with care, establish some general guidelines, and then depend on him to do the job."

According to Prior, there are two routes a property manager can follow in the selection of a contractor — "one being t hire a general contractor to coordinate all phases of construction, the other being to act as a general contractor yourself, hiring all the subcontractors independently.

"In either case, spend some time finding reputable firms who do quality work, and then stay with them," he said. "It is far less costly than bringing in new people who must familiarize themselves with the loading docks, elevators, etc. I have also found that for each contractor, you must speak a slightly different language. Maintaining the same firms over a long period of time reduces many communication problems and thus reduces cost."

Prior offers practical advice on all phases of remodeling office space, including demolition, electrical wiring and decorating. He said wall construction is probably the single most expensive item of the entire project.

"Probably the most simple and least expensive method is the galvanized metal stud with either 1/2 " or 5/8" sheetrock on each side, screwed to the stud with sheetmetal screws," said Prior. "The base plate is screwed to the floor and the top plate screwed to the false ceiling T-bar suspension system. In most cases, wall insulation or sound attenuation board is not necessary. Only the most discriminating ear will be disturbed by the small amount of noise filtered through this wall. Again, it is best to know if someone is sensitive to noise, and then provide for them during construction. This type of wall runs about $22.00 to $23.00 per lineal foot, measured right through doors, to construct."

Prior said methods of payment for remodeling work also vary. "The key factor here," states Prior, "is the rental market. If your area is pressed for tenants, you should consider paying for all of the remodeling costs. If tenants are beating a path to your door, then you can probably demand that the tenant pay for all of it."

Miller Builders opens new unit

Miller Builders, Inc. has opened its first new single-family housing development of the year in Schaumburg.

Forty-four lots located in six cul-de-sac courts, have been prepared in Nantucket Cove in Wise Rd., just east of Roselle Rd. Four of the courts are adjacent to an eight-acre lake.

Three home plans, including a two-story, a Cape Cod, and a split-level design, ar priced from $65,900 to $71,900.

Nantucket Cove homes include the four-bedroom Cape Cod Canterbury with 2½ baths, a finished 24-ft. family room, and an 18-ft. first floor utility room adjacent to the two car garage.

The Lyncroft, a two-story home of Colonial design, also has four bedrooms, and 2½ baths, along with a 16-ft. "mud room" behind the two car garage. Its master bedroom suite has a separate sitting area, and a dressing room in addition to a private bath.

Combining new and old, the colonial-influenced split-level Lexington features a large, divided pane bow bay window in the living room, and a sub-basement. All three homes have spacious, forman entry foyers.

Prices include dishwasher, waste disposal, continuous clean oven and range, shag wall-to-wall carpeting, complete landscaping, and clay face brick with cedar or aluminum siding.

Remodeling eliminates high costs

Remodeling office space may be the only feasible alternative to soaring construction costs, said Robert E. Prior, property manager for the Crosby Company in Minneapolis.

Prior said it is important to select knowledgeable subcontractors who are trustworthy. "Pick your contractor with care, establish some general guidelines, and then depend on him to do the job."

According to Prior, there are two routes a property manager can follow in the selection of a contractor — "one being t hire a general contractor to coordinate all phases of construction, the other being to act as a general contractor yourself, hiring all the subcontractors independently.

"In either case, spend some time finding reputable firms who do quality work, and then stay with them," he said. "It is far less costly than bringing in new people who must familiarize themselves with the loading docks, elevators, etc. I have also found that for each contractor, you must speak a slightly different language. Maintaining the same firms over a long period of time reduces many communication problems and thus reduces cost."

Prior offers practical advice on all phases of remodeling office space, including demolition, electrical wiring and decorating. He said wall construction is probably the single most expensive item of the entire project.

"Probably the most simple and least expensive method is the galvanized metal stud with either 1/2 " or 5/8" sheetrock on each side, screwed to the stud with sheetmetal screws," said Prior. "The base plate is screwed to the floor and the top plate screwed to the false ceiling T-bar suspension system. In most cases, wall insulation or sound attenuation board is not necessary. Only the most discriminating ear will be disturbed by the small amount of noise filtered through this wall. Again, it is best to know if someone is sensitive to noise, and then provide for them during construction. This type of wall runs about $22.00 to $23.00 per lineal foot, measured right through doors, to construct."

Prior said methods of payment for remodeling work also vary. "The key factor here," states Prior, "is the rental market. If your area is pressed for tenants, you should consider paying for all of the remodeling costs. If tenants are beating a path to your door, then you can probably demand that the tenant pay for all of it."

Miller Builders opens new unit

Miller Builders, Inc. has opened its first new single-family housing development of the year in Schaumburg.

Forty-four lots located in six cul-de-sac courts, have been prepared in Nantucket Cove in Wise Rd., just east of Roselle Rd. Four of the courts are adjacent to an eight-acre lake.

Three home plans, including a two-story, a Cape Cod, and a split-level design, ar priced from $65,900 to $71,900.

Nantucket Cove homes include the four-bedroom Cape Cod Canterbury with 2½ baths, a finished 24-ft. family room, and an 18-ft. first floor utility room adjacent to the two car garage.

The Lyncroft, a two-story home of Colonial design, also has four bedrooms, and 2½ baths, along with a 16-ft. "mud room" behind the two car garage. Its master bedroom suite has a separate sitting area, and a dressing room in addition to a private bath.

Combining new and old, the colonial-influenced split-level Lexington features a large, divided pane bow bay window in the living room, and a sub-basement. All three homes have spacious, forman entry foyers.

Prices include dishwasher, waste disposal, continuous clean oven and range, shag wall-to-wall carpeting, complete landscaping, and clay face brick with cedar or aluminum siding.

Is your body calling for help?

Exercising to music relaxing and fun

by BARBARA LADD

First there was walnut-and-raisin-stuffed Cornish game hen. Then came the pecan pie, eggs Divan, crab-stuffed shrimp and gooey, warm rum buns. Followed by crepes, lasagna, hot fudge sundaes . . . and . . .

Then came the five pounds, a regrettable vacation souvenir.

Rumor had it that a fun and effective exercise class was beginning late April at Recreation Park, Arlington Heights, on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. Given my (ahem) "increasing" situation, I decided to check it out.

Our instructor was Beverly Kramer, Northbrook, a mother of two young boys and the epitome of good health and looks. She began teaching exercise courses last September after training five years under Margaret Sorenson of the Northbrook YMCA. Beverly didn't deceive us about her purpose.

"MOST WOMEN come in seeking figure improvements, but to me the most important benefit is to the cardiovascular (heart and blood circulation) system," she said.

Naturally, a nicer figure is an added plus to getting in shape, she added.

We began by taking our pulses at rest. "An average pulse is anywhere between 74 and 83 (beats per minute)," she said. "If you have anything over 84, you should see a doctor before doing anything really strenuous."

Generally, the slower the pulse at rest, the healthier the body, she explained.

A few moans in the class encouraged me — my heart was pumping a bit under the normal level. (Maybe my condition wasn't as desperate as I thought?)

BEVERLY switched on her pre-programmed music. As the light rock tunes echoed off the gym walls, we warmed up to the beat, stretching, bending and reaching. Amazingly, it seemed as if we 22 rather out-of-shape women were learning dance movements instead of calisthenics.

"Warming up is important," said Beverly, who has had several years of dance training. "For one thing, muscles function more effectively when they are warm, rather than when cramped, cold or tensed up."

The risk of injury is also reduced, she said, since muscles are less likely to become strained.

"You don't have to be young to be healthy." — Beverly Kramer.

The music faded into some sort of march (was it a John Philip Sousa special?) and Beverly "stressed" our system, making us skip, run, jog, walk and, in general, move around.

"IT'S IMPORTANT to keep the body in condition," she said. "By putting stress on your system regularly, your body will be able to endure more."

Considering the inactive American lifestyle and the increasing numbers of working women, heart attacks could creep up to become as much a killer of women as they are of men unless exercise is given priority in our lives, warned Beverly.

"So many women think youth is where it's at healthwise," she said, to inspire us. "But that's not necessarily true. Often their diet is poor, they sit at a desk all day and talk on the phone at night."

We took our pulses again. The rates were supposed to go up 50 per cent of our normal rest rate. For example, if my pulse at rest was 70, it should have been at around 105 beats per minute after five minutes of stress.

AFTER THAT Beverly put us through more exercises. The stretching was to improve our posture so our organs would be in proper alignment. It also was to increase our flexibility so we could move more efficiently, she said.

"So much of lower back problems involves poor posture. People just don't stand tall."

She taught us exercises to help condition every area of the body. She said most women who have borne children want abdominal exercises and older women need exercises to firm up the inner thighs, since that is where they often put on weight. (Those exercises are also the most difficult ones to do, if my aching muscles and my cohorts' groans are any indication.)

THEN BEVERLY stressed our cardio-vascular system again. But no march music — this time it was rip-roaring Charleston. To me, it seemed (gasp) to be a lot more work than John Philip Sousa. But the woman in front of me, a senior citizen and grandmother of 12 children, didn't appear to be the least fazed.

"You don't have to be a young person to be healthy, have a svelte body and have good flexibility," said Beverly.

As the hour came to a close, we began "letting down" with quieter exercises and music.

Although Beverly said exercising once a week isn't going to be a cure-all for bad diet and sedentary living, it's a start. The grandmother in front of me said she worked off an inch from both her hips and waist since September, when Beverly started teaching.

"EXERCISING is definitely repetition," said Beverly. "Ideally you should spend 10 to 15 minutes a day at it. So I try to show women things they can do at home. Kids love to see mommy let her hair down and they love to participate with her. That's why we skip, hop, march and move around."

AN ADVOCATE OF exercise and good health, Beverly Kramer instructs women of all ages in calisthenics designed to improve posture, flexibility and the cardio-vascular system. "What works for some won't work for others," she says, so she uses lots of overlapping exercises.

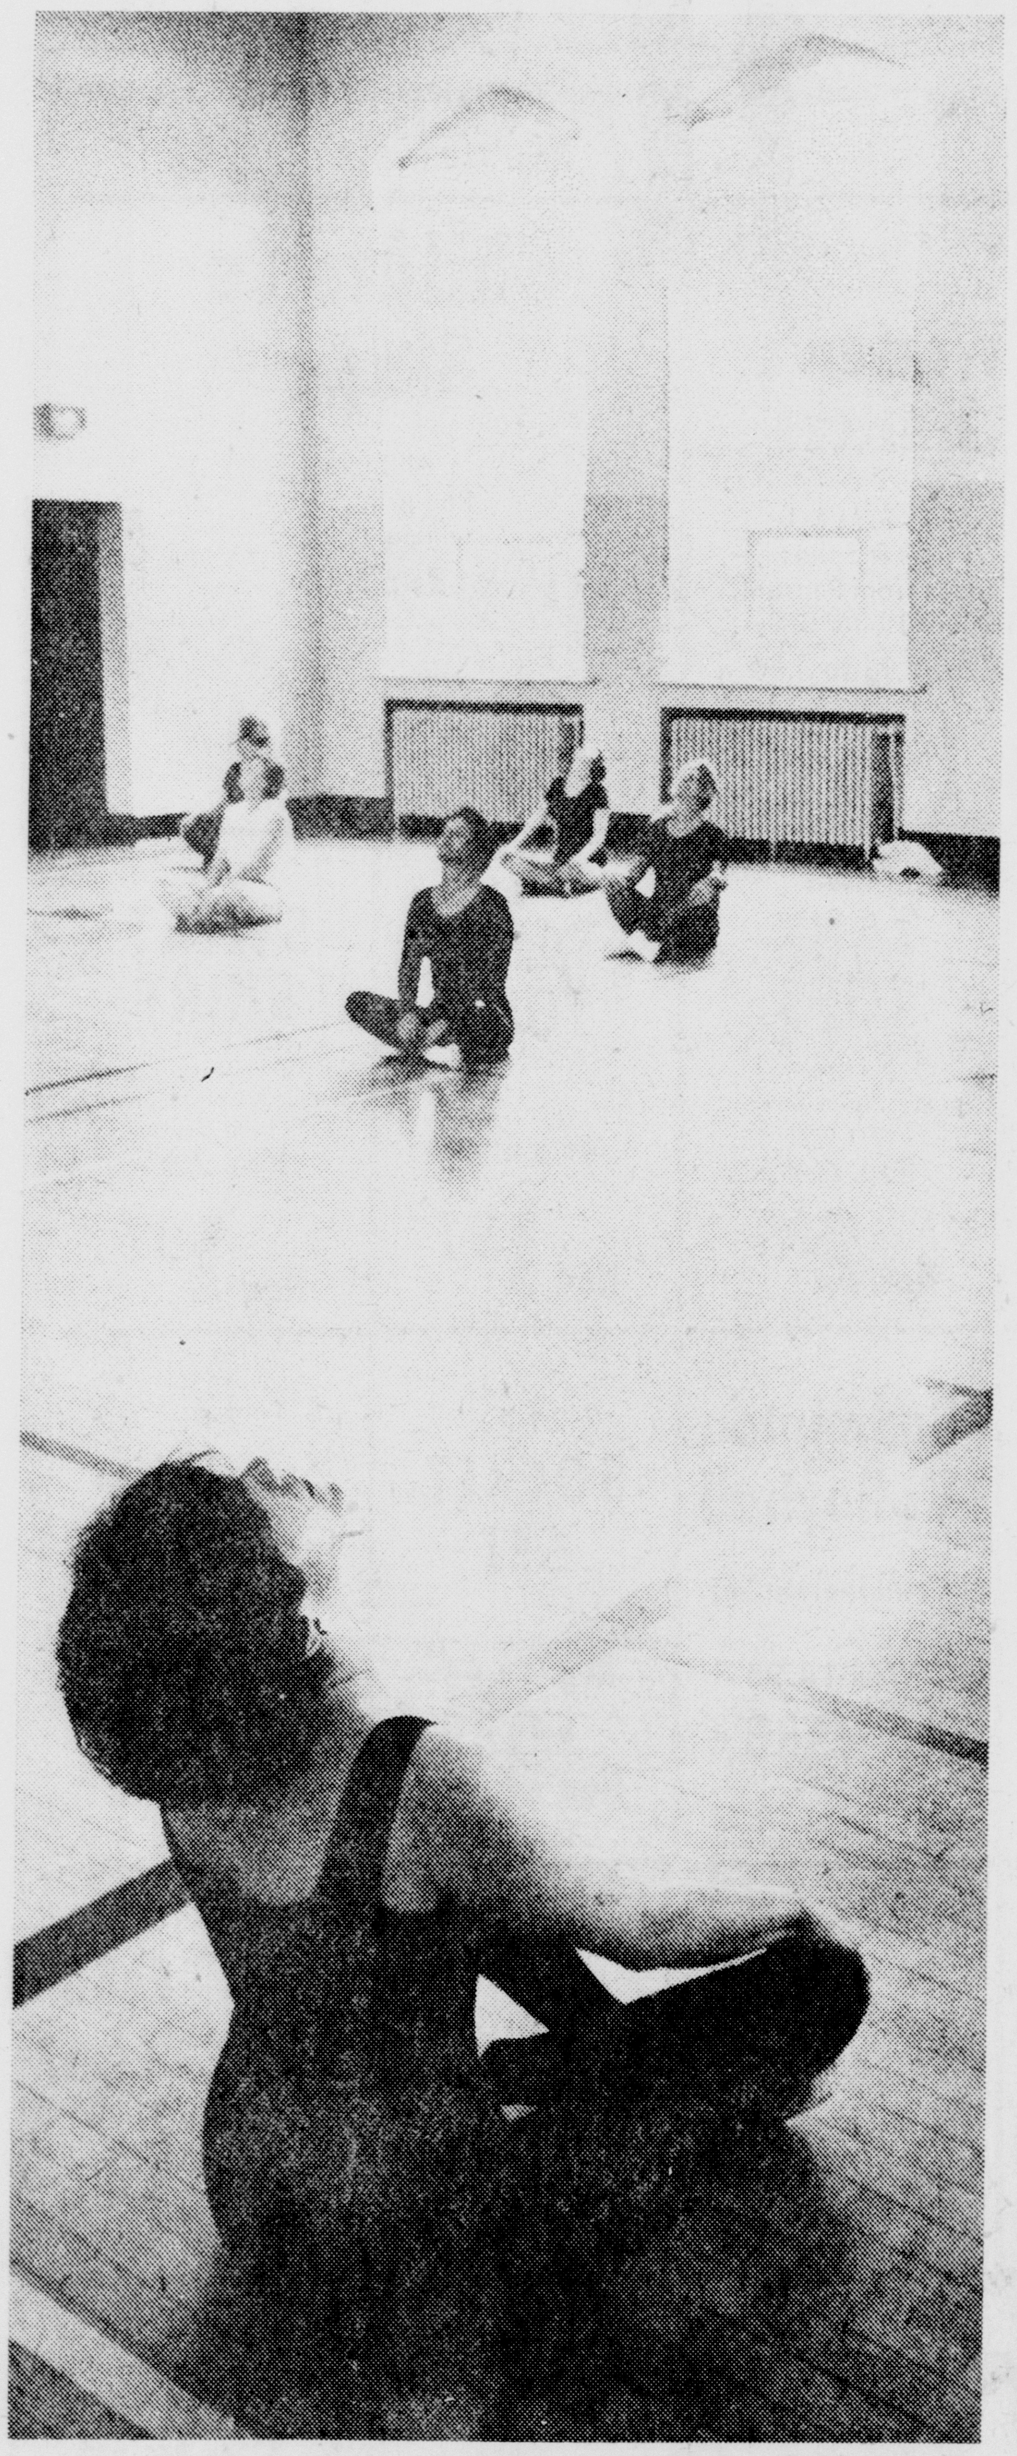
"Lively music keeps people interested. I try to find something people will think of as fun. I don't want them to think exercising is work."

The music did make class seem relaxing and fun. But I had a premonition (based, no doubt, on past experience) that my life wouldn't move easily in the next few days.

"If you're really stiff from some of the exercises, your body is saying 'help, help, help.' "

And that's (ouch) exactly what it said.

Interested people may telephone Recreation Park at 255-8850 during weekday afternoons for more information.



TEN MINUTES of "let-down" follow the more strenuous exercise in Beverly Kramer's class. This includes conditioning facial muscles done to soothing music, but more important, quiet relaxation.

DANCING THE CHARLESTON is a fast and fun way to "stress" the cardio-vascular system, says Beverly Kramer. She chooses dances according to the amount of hopping, skipping and jumping so her students can build up their endurance. "People have the misconception you can't get in shape after 40 or 50, but that isn't so," she says. "You need to re-educate your body."

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Isometrics benefit grossly exaggerated

I have heard that one can build up his muscles by doing isometric exercises only a few minutes a day. Is this true? I would like to increase the strength in my arms and shoulders particularly, and if I could do this with just a few simple isometric exercises, it would certainly be great. Would you explain a little bit about how important isometric exercises are and how one can use them to build up the strength and size of the muscles?

An isometric exercise refers to contracting the muscle without changing its shape or length. A good example would be if you tensed your arm firmly so all the muscles in your arm are contracted even though you didn't move the arm or any part of it.

When you are tensing the muscles, really the different muscle groups are contracting against each other. The biceps of the upper arm that tends to bend the elbow is contracting against the triceps, the muscle on the opposite side at the back of the arm which straightens the elbow.

These two opposing muscles then are really contracting against each other with equal force and holding the elbow in a steady position. You can do this with almost any opposing sets of muscles in the body. You can tighten the leg muscles, arm muscles, hand muscles and in all of these instances the muscle will gain some strength with the procedure.

Some of the claims for the effectiveness of isometric exercises have been grossly exaggerated. Don't expect to build a Mr. America body with a few isometric exercises a week.

One of the biggest disadvantages of isometric exercises, particularly for middle-aged and older people, is their effect on the heart and circulation. While the muscle is tense or contracted, it prevents the flow of blood through the muscle. This in turn induces sharp rises in the blood pressure and in some susceptible people triggers off extra beats of the heart which may not always be desirable. Once a muscle is relaxed, of course, there is a sudden rush of blood into the muscle.

ISOMETRIC EXERCISES with the arm, for example, held in one position will not develop a smooth, even, well-developed muscle. It may end up being bumpy and it will be strengthened only in those fibers that apply leverage against the point of attachment to the bony skeleton.

The blood pressure may increase as much as 120 points from a single isometric contraction. For this reason I would prefer that anyone who wants to use isometric exercises have a medical evaluation first.

I'd like to point out that isometric exercises are not the same as weight lifting. In moving weights you move them through distance. This changes the shape of the muscles as it shortens and lengthens and is an isotonic exercise.

I am all for your idea to develop your muscles and gain strength. This will help you with your posture which may in turn, if done properly, help prevent backaches. It will help improve the function of your lungs and general health. But I believe you need a more balanced program. For more information about the use of isometric and isotonic exercises, send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 1-10, Exercise, Posture, Strength. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Oxalic acid treatment suggested for tub stain

Dear Dorothy: We have an avocado-colored porcelain bathtub which has developed a white build-up in the lower portion of the tub. Have used a popular tub and tile cleaner with no luck. Any suggestions? — Mrs. Beverly Abram Thought I'd better throw this one to the Porcelain Enamel Institute. There is a commercial tub and tile cleaner which will clean up such a build-up — but, unfortunately, it isn't available to homeowners because of its acid content. The only thing suggested was to make a poultice of the cleanser containing oxalic acid and if that doesn work, make an oxalic acid solution — one or two parts to ten parts of water. If you read this column constantly, you know that I don't like to ecommend oxalic acid for use in the home (a) because it's dangerous — and (b) it looks exactly like granulated sugar. So after use, get rid of it.

Dear Dorothy: Can you tell me why my baked custard gets watery after baking? Could the oven be too hot — or could I be using the wrong amount of sugar?—Shirley A. Smith

Assuming you are using the amount of sugar specified in your recipe, too hot an oven can definitely make custard watery. Be sure the water in the outside pan is at least one third of the way up — and check with a silver knife when it's supposed to be done.

Dear Dorothy: Is there a laundry product that will remove perspiration odor from a Qiana garment? Even though an adequate deodorant is used, a slight odor lingers in the fabric after washing.—Alice D.

As synthetics are not absorbent, are you sure it's not your imagination? A water conditioner might give off a slight fragrance.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Palatine Juniors donate $4,200 to local groups

Although it's total membership is below the allowable maximum, Junior Woman's Club of Palatine has made allocations shattering all previous records.

This year's allocations totaled $4,200, raised from a rummage sale, compiling and selling a cookbook and an antique show. All monies went to community groups and individuals.

The Juniors, which is open to women of all ages interested in working in their community, gave $600 to the Palatine Historical Museum; $550, St. Teresita Child Development Center; $500, Palatine paramedics; two $400 college scholarships; $312 Countryside Center for the Handicapped, $300 each to The Bridge and Palatine Beautification committee; $200, FISH; $175 Palatine Community Child Care Center; $113, Council on Understanding Learning Disabilities.

Receiving from $50 to $100 were Palatine Leisure Club, Senior Citizens Group; Palatine Bicentennial Celebration; and a music scholarship.

Palatine Juniors are not affiliated with any federated or national organization. Women interested in the group may call Janis Morrisroe, 397-7977, or Judy Juhl, 358-6278.

Air travelers: your rights

Keeping up

by Monica Wilch Perin

Anyone who has done much traveling by air has horror stories of prolonged delays, cancellations, diversions to distant cities, lost baggage and near-starvation.

Unfortunately, many people don't realize they have certain legal rights in these situations — and, of course, the airlines seldom volunteer that informationn.

The Washington-based Aviation Consumer Action Project (ACAP), a Nader organization, recently leafletted several major airports with brochures listing some of these passenger rights. But ACAP could find no citizen group in Chicago willing to leaflet the world's busiest airport — O'Hare.

So, for the benefit of Chicago area air travelers, here are some highlights from the ACAP brochure:

FLIGHT DELAYS. Airlines reserve the right to delay or cancel flights without prior notice. If the problem is something other than weather or air congestion, passengers should ask the airline agent to check other airlines' schedules at once for alternate reservations. When your flight is canceled, the airline must arrange alternate transportation on the next available flight to your destination at no additional charge.

When you are stuck in an airport waiting room for several hours, the airlines must provide certain accommodations. These vary from airline to airline, but the basic services are these:

- A hotel room if the delay occurs between the hours of 10 p.m. and 6 a.m. unless interruption occurs in passenger's own city.
- Meals if delay extends beyond meal hours, especially if a meal was to be served on the flight.
- One telephone call or telegram anywhere in continental U.S., sometimes Canada.
- Transportation between the airport and passenger's hotel or home.

BAGGAGE. Airlines limit their liability for checked baggage to $500 or less per passenger — and they may pay less or nothing on a damage or loss claim. You can buy additional coverage at 10 cents per $100, but it is not insurance and does not guarantee the airline will pay the full value.

Airlines sometimes try to avoid a claim by saying the baggage — which they accepted — was "unacceptable," meaning not able to withstand "ordinary handling" or not "suitable." Some have ruled thusly on the common, soft-sided luggage.

You should never pack in checked luggage: money, jewelry, valuable papers, art work, musical instruments. Always lock and label your baggage with your name, address and phone.

Lost or damaged baggage should be reported immediately. Airlines sometimes reject claims not made within hours. Keep a copy of the airline's "loss or damage" report which you have filled out, as well as your baggage check and your airline ticket.

A Civil Aeronautics Board study recently found that airlines "often insult, intimidate, cause financial burden and otherwise inconvenience the passenger . . ." in the course of a claim. Keep after them, and if you have trouble, write to the president of the airline and to the CAB and ACAP (addresses given at end of this column.)

FARES. ACAP last year petitioned the CAB to require airlines to distribute price lists to the public, disclosing all fares in clear English. The airlines oppose this, and the CAB has done nothing. Thus, fares continue to be a maze that neither passengers nor airline employes nor travel agents always understand.

Surveys by Consumers Union and other groups have confirmed that passengers are frequently overcharged because they were not offered the lowest fares available on a particular route. When planning a trip, check with several airlines and ask for all the applicable fares, including:

- Excursion or "Bicentennial" rates, a discount for round trip tickets to certain cities under certain conditions.
- Weekend excursion fare, available on many short-haul flights and not necessarily restricted to a weekend stay.
- Inclusive tour fares, available if you pre-pay your hotel through the airline, resulting in substantial savings.
- Night fares, a discount for flights leaving late in the evening.
- Standby fares, available to some cities, now offered to adults.
- Children's rates, generally free until about 2 years, then half or two-thirds adult fare.

RESERVATIONS. Airlines regularly over-book flights to make up for "no-shows." Airlines advise passengers to purchase tickets by a specific time and date but may not disclose that your failure to do so gives them the right to cancel your reservation if the flight is overbooked.

They also don't tell you that you must get to the boarding gate — not just the ticket counter — at least 10 minutes before departure to avoid being bumped.

But if you are bumped, the airlines usually are required to pay you compensation up to $200, unless they arrange for an alternate flight arriving at your destination within two hours after your original flight.

If you are denied any of these rights by an airline, write to: The Office of Consumer Advocate, Civil Aeronautics Board, Washington, D. C. 20428, and to: Aviation Consumer Action Project, Post Office Box 19029, Washington, D. C. 20036.

Down's syndrome conference set

"Up the Down's Staircase," a conference on Down's syndrome from infancy to adulthood, will be held May 21-22 at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, Chicago, in conjunction with the 26th annual convention of the Illinois Association for Retarded Citizens.

Workshops covering all aspects of Down's syndrome plus guardianship, wills, trusts, behavior modification, insurance, marriage and sex will have been planned. Conference fee is $3.

Is your body calling for help?

by BARBARA LADD

First there was walnut-and-raisin-stuffed Cornish game hen. Then came the pecan pie, eggs Divan, crab-stuffed shrimp and gooey, warm rum buns. Followed by crepes, lasagna, hot fudge sundaes . . . and . . .

Then came the five pounds, a regrettable vacation souvenir.

Rumor had it that a fun and effective exercise class was beginning late April at Recreation Park, Arlington Heights, on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. Given my (ahem) "increasing" situation, I decided to check it out.

Our instructor was Beverly Kramer, Northbrook, a mother of two young boys and the epitome of good health and looks. She began teaching exercise courses last September after training five years under Margaret Sorenson of the Northbrook YMCA. Beverly didn't deceive us about her purpose.

"MOST WOMEN come in seeking figure improvements, but to me the most important benefit is to the cardiovascular (heart and blood circulation) system," she said.

Naturally, a nicer figure is an added plus to getting in shape, she added.

We began by taking our pulses at rest. "An average pulse is anywhere between 74 and 83 (beats per minute)," she said. "If you have anything over 84, you should see a doctor before doing anything really strenuous."

Generally, the slower the pulse at rest, the healthier the body, she explained.

A few moans in the class encouraged me — my heart was pumping a bit under the normal level. (Maybe my condition wasn't as desperate as I thought?)

BEVERLY switched on her pre-programmed music. As the light rock tunes echoed off the gym walls, we warmed up to the beat, stretching, bending and reaching. Amazingly, it seemed as if we 22 rather out-of-shape women were learning dance movements instead of calisthenics.

"Warming up is important," said Beverly, who has had several years of dance training. "For one thing, muscles function more effectively when they are warm, rather than when cramped, cold or tensed up."

The risk of injury is also reduced, she said, since muscles are less likely to become strained.

"You don't have to be young to be healthy." — Beverly Kramer.

The music faded into some sort of march (was it a John Philip Sousa special?) and Beverly "stressed" our system, making us skip, run, jog, walk and, in general, move around.

"IT'S IMPORTANT to keep the body in condition," she said. "By putting stress on your system regularly, your body will be able to endure more."

Considering the inactive American lifestyle and the increasing numbers of working women, heart attacks could creep up to become as much a killer of women as they are of men unless exercise is given priority in our lives, warned Beverly.

"So many women think youth is where it's at healthwise," she said, to inspire us. "But that's not necessarily true. Often their diet is poor, they sit at a desk all day and talk on the phone at night."

We took our pulses again. The rates were supposed to go up 50 per cent of our normal rest rate. For example, if my pulse at rest was 70, it should have been at around 105 beats per minute after five minutes of stress.

AFTER THAT Beverly put us through more exercises. The stretching was to improve our posture so our organs would be in proper alignment. It also was to increase our flexibility so we could move more efficiently, she said.

"So much of lower back problems involves poor posture. People just don't stand tall."

She taught us exercises to help condition every area of the body. She said most women who have borne children want abdominal exercises and older women need exercises to firm up the inner thighs, since that is where they often put on weight. (Those exercises are also the most difficult ones to do, if my aching muscles and my cohorts' groans are any indication.)

THEN BEVERLY stressed our cardio-vascular system again. But no march music — this time it was rip-roaring Charleston. To me, it seemed (gasp) to be a lot more work than John Philip Sousa. But the woman in front of me, a senior citizen and grandmother of 12 children, didn't appear to be the least fazed.

"You don't have to be a young person to be healthy, have a svelte body and have good flexibility," said Beverly.

As the hour came to a close, we began "letting down" with quieter exercises and music.

Although Beverly said exercising once a week isn't going to be a cure-all for bad diet and sedentary living, it's a start. The grandmother in front of me said she worked off an inch from both her hips and waist since September, when Beverly started teaching.

"EXERCISING is definitely repetition," said Beverly. "Ideally you should spend 10 to 15 minutes a day at it. So I try to show women things they can do at home. Kids love to see mommy let her hair down and they love to participate with her. That's why we skip, hop, march and move around."

AN ADVOCATE OF exercise and good health, Beverly Kramer instructs women of all ages in calisthenics designed to improve posture, flexibility and the cardio-vascular system. "What works for some won't work for others," she says, so she uses lots of overlapping exercises.

"Lively music keeps people interested. I try to find something people will think of as fun. I don't want them to think exercising is work."

The music did make class seem relaxing and fun. But I had a premonition (based, no doubt, on past experience) that my life wouldn't move easily in the next few days.

"If you're really stiff from some of the exercises, your body is saying 'help, help, help.' "

And that's (ouch) exactly what it said.

Interested people may telephone Recreation Park at 255-8850 during weekday afternoons for more information.

TEN MINUTES of "let-down" follow the more strenuous exercise in Beverly Kramer's class. This includes conditioning facial muscles done to soothing music, but more important, quiet relaxation.

DANCING THE CHARLESTON is a fast and fun way to "stress" the cardio-vascular system, says Beverly Kramer. She chooses dances according to the amount of hopping, skipping and jumping so her students can build up their endurance. "People have the misconception you can't get in shape after 40 or 50, but that isn't so," she says. "You need to re-educate your body."

June bride's chances improved for a 50th

For June brides there's good news from Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. The significant reduction in mortality in the United States since the turn of the century has greatly increased the likelihood that couples will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary.

However, on the gloomy side, there's probably a better chance that today's brides will still be alive than that they'll still be married. Divorces and annulments are much greater today than in the early years of the century.

Chances for mutual survival for an additional 50 years for a man aged 23 who marries a woman aged 21 (the current median ages at first marriage) are 334 in 1,000, compared with only 140 in 1,000 in 1900-02.

DIFFERENCES IN ages can have a substantial effect on the length of married life. Currently, a groom of 35 and a bride of 30 can expect another 32.6 years of joint survival but if a 35-year-old male married a 37-year-old female, their expected average remaining lifetime together is two years less.

Good news from the statisticians is that if a man of 65 marries, he can now look forward to at least 10 years of life together with his wife if she is the same age or younger.

The outlook for celebrating a silver anniversary has also increased. For men who marry as late as age 35, the chances of a silver wedding celebration are about 7 in 10 — better odds than even very young couples enjoyed in 1900-02.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Isometrics benefit grossly exaggerated

I have heard that one can build up his muscles by doing isometric exercises only a few minutes a day. Is this true? I would like to increase the strength in my arms and shoulders particularly, and if I could do this with just a few simple isometric exercises, it would certainly be great. Would you explain a little bit about how important isometric exercises are and how one can use them to build up the strength and size of the muscles?

An isometric exercise refers to contracting the muscle without changing its shape or length. A good example would be if you tensed your arm firmly so all the muscles in your arm are contracted even though you didn't move the arm or any part of it.

When you are tensing the muscles, really the different muscle groups are contracting against each other. The biceps of the upper arm that tends to bend the elbow is contracting against the triceps, the muscle on the opposite side at the back of the arm which straightens the elbow.

These two opposing muscles then are really contracting against each other with equal force and holding the elbow in a steady position. You can do this with almost any opposing sets of muscles in the body. You can tighten the leg muscles, arm muscles, hand muscles and in all of these instances the muscle will gain some strength with the procedure.

Some of the claims for the effectiveness of isometric exercises have been grossly exaggerated. Don't expect to build a Mr. America body with a few isometric exercises a week.

One of the biggest disadvantages of isometric exercises, particularly for middle-aged and older people, is their effect on the heart and circulation. While the muscle is tense or contracted, it prevents the flow of blood through the muscle. This in turn induces sharp rises in the blood pressure and in some susceptible people triggers off extra beats of the heart which may not always be desirable. Once a muscle is relaxed, of course, there is a sudden rush of blood into the muscle.

ISOMETRIC EXERCISES with the arm, for example, held in one position will not develop a smooth, even, well-developed muscle. It may end up being bumpy and it will be strengthened only in those fibers that apply leverage against the point of attachment to the bony skeleton.

The blood pressure may increase as much as 120 points from a single isometric contraction. For this reason I would prefer that anyone who wants to use isometric exercises have a medical evaluation first.

I'd like to point out that isometric exercises are not the same as weight lifting. In moving weights you move them through distance. This changes the shape of the muscles as it shortens and lengthens and is an isotonic exercise.

I am all for your idea to develop your muscles and gain strength. This will help you with your posture which may in turn, if done properly, help prevent backaches. It will help improve the function of your lungs and general health. But I believe you need a more balanced program. For more information about the use of isometric and isotonic exercises, send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 1-10, Exercise, Posture, Strength. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Oxalic acid treatment suggested for tub stain

Dear Dorothy: We have an avocado-colored porcelain bathtub which has developed a white build-up in the lower portion of the tub. Have used a popular tub and tile cleaner with no luck. Any suggestions? — Mrs. Beverly Abram

Thought I'd better throw this one to the Porcelain Enamel Institute. There is a commercial tub and tile cleaner which will clean up such a build-up — but, unfortunately, it isn't available to homeowners because of its acid content. The only thing suggested was to make a poultice of the cleanser containing oxalic acid and if that doesn work, make an oxalic acid solution — one or two parts to ten parts of water. If you read this column constantly, you know that I don't like to ecommend oxalic acid for use in the home (a) because it's dangerous — and (b) it looks exactly like granulated sugar. So after use, get rid of it.

Dear Dorothy: Can you tell me why my baked custard gets watery after baking? Could the oven be too hot — or could I be using the wrong amount of sugar?—Shirley A. Smith

Assuming you are using the amount of sugar specified in your recipe, too hot an oven can definitely make custard watery. Be sure the water in the outside pan is at least one third of the way up — and check with a silver knife when it's supposed to be done.

Dear Dorothy: Is there a laundry product that will remove perspiration odor from a Qiana garment? Even though an adequate deodorant is used, a slight odor lingers in the fabric after washing.—Alice D.

As synthetics are not absorbent, are you sure it's not your imagination? A water conditioner might give off a slight fragrance.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Palatine Juniors donate $4,200 to local groups

Although it's total membership is below the allowable maximum, Junior Woman's Club of Palatine has made allocations shattering all previous records.

This year's allocations totaled $4,200, raised from a rummage sale, compiling and selling a cookbook and an antique show. All monies went to community groups and individuals.

The Juniors, which is open to women of all ages interested in working in their community, gave $600 to the Palatine Historical Museum; $550, St. Teresita Child Development Center; $500, Palatine paramedics; two $400 college scholarships; $312 Countryside Center for the Handicapped, $300 each to The Bridge and Palatine Beautification committee; $200, FISH; $175 Palatine Community Child Care Center; $113, Council on Understanding Learning Disabilities.

Receiving from $50 to $100 were Palatine Leisure Club, Senior Citizens Group; Palatine Bicentennial Celebration; and a music scholarship.

Palatine Juniors are not affiliated with any federated or national organization. Women interested in the group may call Janis Morrisroe, 397-7977, or Judy Juhl, 358-6278.

Meadows pair marks 50th

Mr. and Mrs. Carl L. Hundrieser

The distinction of being the guest to come the farthest for Carl L. and Emma Hundrieser's golden wedding anniversary went to their daughter-in-law, Erika, who flew home from Africa where her husband, Dick, a missionary, is business administrator for Guenter Memorial Hospital in Nigeria.

The Hundriesers, residents at 3006 Owl Dr., Rolling Meadows since 1956, celebrated their 50 years of marriage May 8 with a dinner party for friends and relatives in the Hoffman Estates home of their architect son, Carl E. Also present was their photographer son, Paul of Detroit, Mich.

Married on Mother's Day, May 9, 1926, in Chicago, the couple repeated their vows on Mother's Day '76 in Rolling Meadows Community Church and then brunched with the family at Rolling Meadows Holiday Inn.

Emma is semi-retired, working part-time at The Crawford Store in Rolling Meadows. A volunteer at Northwest Community Hospital for the past five years, she was surprised by her co-workers at the hospital with a party on May 6. Carl retired in 1972 after 23 years as a salesman for Bambas Tobacco.

She'll use roses in arrangements

Judy Schafernak, Palatine, nationally accredited flower show judge, will demonstrate and discuss flower arranging at the Chicago Regional Rose Society District One meeting Thursday evening, May 20.

The 8 o'clock meeting will be held in the Oakton Neighborhood Center, 4701 Oakton, Skokie, and all flower buffs are invited. There is no admission.

Mrs. Schafernak, co-chairman of the Illinois Garden Club's exhibits at the recent Chicago Flower and Garden Show, and district rosarians will also answer questions and offer advice to novice rose growers. Information 677-8806.

Air travelers: your rights

Keeping up

by Monica Wilch Perin

Anyone who has done much traveling by air has horror stories of prolonged delays, cancellations, diversions to distant cities, lost baggage and near-starvation.

Unfortunately, many people don't realize they have certain legal rights in these situations — and, of course, the airlines seldom volunteer that informationn.

The Washington-based Aviation Consumer Action Project (ACAP), a Nader organization, recently leafletted several major airports with brochures listing some of these passenger rights. But ACAP could find no citizen group in Chicago willing to leaflet the world's busiest airport — O'Hare.

So, for the benefit of Chicago area air travelers, here are some highlights from the ACAP brochure:

FLIGHT DELAYS. Airlines reserve the right to delay or cancel flights without prior notice. If the problem is something other than weather or air congestion, passengers should ask the airline agent to check other airlines' schedules at once for alternate reservations. When your flight is canceled, the airline must arrange alternate transportation on the next available flight to your destination at no additional charge.

When you are stuck in an airport waiting room for several hours, the airlines must provide certain accommodations. These vary from airline to airline, but the basic services are these:

- A hotel room if the delay occurs between the hours of 10 p.m. and 6 a.m. unless interruption occurs in passenger's own city.
- Meals if delay extends beyond meal hours, especially if a meal was to be served on the flight.
- One telephone call or telegram anywhere in continental U.S., sometimes Canada.
- Transportation between the airport and passenger's hotel or home.

BAGGAGE. Airlines limit their liability for checked baggage to $500 or less per passenger — and they may pay less or nothing on a damage or loss claim. You can buy additional coverage at 10 cents per $100, but it is not insurance and does not guarantee the airline will pay the full value.

Airlines sometimes try to avoid a claim by saying the baggage — which they accepted — was "unacceptable," meaning not able to withstand "ordinary handling" or not "suitable." Some have ruled thusly on the common, soft-sided luggage.

You should never pack in checked luggage: money, jewelry, valuable papers, art work, musical instruments. Always lock and label your baggage with your name, address and phone.

Lost or damaged baggage should be reported immediately. Airlines sometimes reject claims not made within hours. Keep a copy of the airline's "loss or damage" report which you have filled out, as well as your baggage check and your airline ticket.

A Civil Aeronautics Board study recently found that airlines "often insult, intimidate, cause financial burden and otherwise inconvenience the passenger . . ." in the course of a claim. Keep after them, and if you have trouble, write to the president of the airline and to the CAB and ACAP (addresses given at end of this column.)

FARES. ACAP last year petitioned the CAB to require airlines to distribute price lists to the public, disclosing all fares in clear English. The airlines oppose this, and the CAB has done nothing. Thus, fares continue to be a maze that neither passengers nor airline employes nor travel agents always understand.

Surveys by Consumers Union and other groups have confirmed that passengers are frequently overcharged because they were not offered the lowest fares available on a particular route. When planning a trip, check with several airlines and ask for all the applicable fares, including:

- Excursion or "Bicentennial" rates, a discount for round trip tickets to certain cities under certain conditions.
- Weekend excursion fare, available on many short-haul flights and not necessarily restricted to a weekend stay.
- Inclusive tour fares, available if you pre-pay your hotel through the airline, resulting in substantial savings.
- Night fares, a discount for flights leaving late in the evening.
- Standby fares, available to some cities, now offered to adults.
- Children's rates, generally free until about 2 years, then half or two-thirds adult fare.

RESERVATIONS. Airlines regularly over-book flights to make up for "no-shows." Airlines advise passengers to purchase tickets by a specific time and date but may not disclose that your failure to do so gives them the right to cancel your reservation if the flight is overbooked.

They also don't tell you that you must get to the boarding gate — not just the ticket counter — at least 10 minutes before departure to avoid being bumped.

But if you are bumped, the airlines usually are required to pay you compensation up to $200, unless they arrange for an alternate flight arriving at your destination within two hours after your original flight.

If you are denied any of these rights by an airline, write to: The Office of Consumer Advocate, Civil Aeronautics Board, Washington, D. C. 20428, and to: Aviation Consumer Action Project, Post Office Box 19029, Washington, D. C. 20036.

Down's syndrome conference set

"Up the Down's Staircase," a conference on Down's syndrome from infancy to adulthood, will be held May 21-22 at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, Chicago, in conjunction with the 26th annual convention of the Illinois Association for Retarded Citizens.

Workshops covering all aspects of Down's syndrome plus guardianship, wills, trusts, behavior modification, insurance, marriage and sex will have been planned. Conference fee is $3.

Spring luncheons abound

Mayor speaks to AAUW

The spring luncheon for Schaumburg Branch of the American Association of University Women is this Saturday at Nordic Hills Country Club, Itasca. Guest speaker will be Mayor Virginia Hayter of Hoffman Estates.

New officers to be installed are Harolyn Ropp, president; Patty Mitcho and Anna Waterloo, vice presidents; Barbara Rosok and Connie Goede, secretaries; and Bette Ledvina, treasurer.

Carole Lemon, 529-9305, can be called for further luncheon information.

GOP women set picnic

Members of Maine Township Republican Women's Club are counting on a sunny day Thursday, May 20, the date of their annual picnic. The event begins at 11:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. H. H. Korff, 1800 Lee St., Des Plaines.

White elephant items are requested for a silent auction to be held during the afternoon.

Republican candidates and their spouses are invited. Anyone else interested in attending should call Mrs. Korff at 827-1848 by Monday.

Pansy is theme

The annual salad-bar "Pansy Luncheon" of Chicago Northwest Suburban alumnae of Delta Delta Delta will be held Tuesday noon in the home of Mrs. Charles Russell, Palatine. Each member will bring a favorite salad plus five copies of the recipe.

Installation of officers will highlight the afternoon program. Marilyn Friker, Arlington Heights, is president; Judy Lydolph, Hoffman Estates, vice president; Marilyn Patrick, Arlington Heights, secretary; and Dee LaForte, Arlington Heights, treasurer.

Interested alumnae may call the president at 259-9106.

Guests bring salads

St. Simon's Episcopal Churchwomen will hold their spring salad luncheon Tuesday in the church, Arlington Heights. The luncheon, for which members will supply the salads, will be followed by a jewelry demonstration by Eileen Scheffer. Information 259-0844.

Tells Oriental heritage

South Church Woman's Guild's guest luncheon next Tuesday will be the last luncheon of this season for the Mount Prospect church group.

The program will be given by Korean-born Bong Hee Stephans of Arlington Heights who will share talk on her oriental heritage in a cultural arts program of song, dance and presentation of slides.

Reservations may be made with the church office, 253-0501.

June bride's chances improved for a 50th

For June brides there's good news from Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. The significant reduction in mortality in the United States since the turn of the century has greatly increased the likelihood that couples will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary.

However, on the gloomy side, there's probably a better chance that today's brides will still be alive than that they'll still be married. Divorces and annulments are much greater today than in the early years of the century.

Chances for mutual survival for an additional 50 years for a man aged 23 who marries a woman aged 21 (the current median ages at first marriage) are 334 in 1,000, compared with only 140 in 1,000 in 1900-02.

DIFFERENCES IN ages can have a substantial effect on the length of married life. Currently, a groom of 35 and a bride of 30 can expect another 32.6 years of joint survival but if a 35-year-old male married a 37-year-old female, their expected average remaining lifetime together is two years less.

Good news from the statisticians is that if a man of 65 marries, he can now look forward to at least 10 years of life together with his wife if she is the same age or younger.

The outlook for celebrating a silver anniversary has also increased. For men who marry as late as age 35, the chances of a silver wedding celebration are about 7 in 10 — better odds than even very young couples enjoyed in 1900-02.

How important is the size of your child's class?

by DIANE GRANAT

When the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 Board of Education decided to raise the district's average class size next fall from 25 to 27 students, more than 300 teachers came out to protest.

Arlington Heights Dist. 25 teachers voiced their concern over the planned class-size increase from 25 to 26.4 students, saying class size "is the most critical factor in a quality education for our children."

In recent months the controversy over class size has become heated as Northwest suburban school districts begin to cope with declining enrollments and deficit budgets.

SOME PERSONS assume a declining school enrollment will mean cozier classes with more attention for each student. In fact, the opposite is happening.

During the period of booming enrollments and growing affluence in the late 1960s, school districts could afford to hire more teachers, build more classrooms and lower the number of pupils per class.

But today, as enrollment drops so does the amount of state aid the schools receive, since it is allotted on a per-pupil basis.

One of the first things to go when budget cutbacks are made is small classes. In eight elementary school districts in the Northwest suburbs, school boards recently raised average class sizes and dismissed surplus teachers.

In River Trails Dist. 26, class size next year will increase from an average of 20 to 26 students per class. In Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15, teachers will find average classes of 28 instead of 26 students in the fall.

Parents ask what effect larger class size will have on the quality of education for their children. Are small classes a luxury or are they a necessary part of our educational program? Educators aren't sure.

Interpreting the research to support their particular viewpoint, teachers, administrators and school boards have turned a largely economic and labor-management issue into an educational issue.

For teachers, increased class size means more children to handle with fewer teaching jobs. For school boards and administrators, raising class size is an efficient way to reduce spending.

Class-size statistics can often be confusing. The average class size quoted by administrators is just that — an average. Actual class size may vary from a special education class of 10 students to sixth-grade classroom of 33 students in a district with an average class size of 26.

Many factors affect the class-size statistics. In some districts team teaching is used, with several teachers working with large groups of students. Although a school may have large classes, it also may have aides assisting the teacher, or the children may do most of their work in small groups.

The financial and enrollment problems of local school districts are expected to continue at least another year, and boards again will be faced with the need to cut budgets. The class-size debate is certain to continue.

Pro: 'Larger classes mean fewer teaching jobs, so teachers don't like it'

It can be hard to find the benefits of large classes. But it is much easier to find reasons why class sizes should be larger.

Perhaps the best reason is money — it is expensive to reduce class size, and there seems to be no overwhelming research supporting small classes.

The President's Commission on School Finance in 1972 found "no research evidence that demonstrates improved student achievement resulting from decreasing pupil-teacher ratios." So when cost-cutting time arrives, educators are not shy about raising class size.

ANTHONY CRESSWELL, an education professor at Northwestern University, said he views class size as an economic issue, but the rhetoric surrounding it turns it into an educational argument.

"Larger classes mean fewer teaching jobs, so teachers don't like it. Larger classes also mean fewer costs, so school boards like it," Cresswell said. "Both groups use educational evidence to support an economic issue."

The evidence points in both directions — pro-large and pro-small — but without any definite answers, some parents wonder if it might be harmful to sacrifice small classes during a financial crunch.

Much of the research says it may not only be harmless to increase class size, but larger classes may even have a favorable impact on pupil achievement.

SEVERAL STUDIES OF high school students show students from large classes perform better on standardized tests than students in small classes.

A 1968 study of ninth-graders found students achieved more in mathematics classes of 70 to 85 students, than in classes with 25 to 40 students.

Another study of seventh and eighth graders found no significant gains in academic achievement in English and math in either large or small classes. When classes with fewer than 25 pupils were compared with classes with more than 33, no difference was found in the students' success.

A common misunderstanding about class size is the difference between pupil-teacher ratio and actual classroom size.

Class size usually refers to the number of students assigned to a teacher for a period of instruction, and ratio refers to the number of staff members — including supervisors, resource teachers and classroom teachers — to pupils.

THEREFORE, A SCHOOL system may have a large class size and yet have a relatively low ratio of pupils to staff positions.

In some districts, average classes may have 27 students, but the actual pupil-teacher ratio may be as low as 22:1, which includes music, art, physical-education teachers and aides.

Larger classes also can be beneficial with certain teaching methods. For instance, with team teaching, large classes are most efficient, with several teachers monitoring larger groups.

One reason educators have no qualms about larger classes is because it is only a small part of a group of factors which influence educational achievement. Teacher experience, materials, school facilities, teaching methods, as well as class size, are "school resources" which affect a child's growth.

But socio-economic characteristics of a child — family income, background, and to some observers, race and sex — all play a greater role in a child's education, some experts say.

James S. Coleman's landmark study of educational opportunity in the United States found that family background is the most important factor in determining pupil achievement.

In his 1966 study, Coleman discovered that the nature of the student body was more important in affecting achievement than anything the schools did.

OTHER MAJOR studies also disputed the importance of school factors in influencing a child's success.

Arthur R. Jensen, in his controversial study of blacks and IQs, said 80 per cent of IQ is genetically determined, and that schools cannot succeed in bringing achievement levels of black students up to those of non-blacks.

The implications drawn from Christopher Jencks' 1972 study of inequality are that schools don't make a difference in one's future occupation or income.

Based on these and other findings, a study conducted in Philadelphia's public schools suggests that for the sake of efficiency, some school resources could be drawn away from those activities where extra inputs don't seem to make much difference, such as unproductive class sizes.

SOME RESEARCHERS have concluded that learning by pupils in large groups can be effective if:

- The teacher is trained and motivated for his job;
- There is opportunity for small group work within the large classes; and
- School facilties and schedules are kept flexible.

Flexibility is the key to class size, agrees Cresswell of Northwestern. He said the money-saving benefits of larger classes are very useful, as long as school districts don't become rigid.

"As long as they talk about averages, it's OK," Cresswell said. "But with a standard class size where you can't deviate, you put a strait jacket on your program."

Con: 'Small class size is one of the factors helping improve performance'

Herding. Waiting. Keeping order. Less warmth. Less help. More paper work. More frustration.

These are the cries of teachers who say a large class is their No. 1 Enemy. And teachers have become the main advocates of smaller classes.

A nationwide "Teacher Opinion Poll" conducted by the National Education Assn. last year asked teachers what one change they would make to improve their own morale or professional satisfaction. "Lower class size" was the overwhelming answer.

IN A RECENT ARTICLE in the NEA journal, NEA Director Terry Herndon said the ideal class size is from 18 to 22 in elementary school, whereas most classes are larger.

Although most research says there is no magic number for class size, some studies agree with the teachers and show the benefits of smaller classes over larger ones.

A professor of human development at the University of Illinois Chicago Circle says small classes help students' attitudes about school. Herbert Walberg took a national survey of high school students and found students liked small classes better but they also found them more difficult.

"In small classes each child is more visible to the teacher," Walberg said. "It's difficult, but learning is difficult. Kids are put on the spot to perform in those classes."

IN ANOTHER STUDY, Walberg found that states that have lower class sizes have lower failure rates on military draft tests for 18-year-old males.

"In the South there are extremely high class sizes and also extremely high rates of failure on these tests," Walberg said. He noted that in some northern states, where class sizes are smaller, success on draft exams was considerably higher.

Walberg said his research was adjusted for income, race, social class and population density. He also assumed the same result would hold for women.

A recent study by the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia found that small classes help low achievers but are of no special benefit to average and high achievers.

THE 1975 STUDY OF Philadelphia public school students measured achievement by performance on standardized tests, with average achievers scoring at or about grade level, high achievers above grade level and low achievers below.

Elementary students who are below grade level gain in classes with less than 28 students, but the rest of the students can be in classes up to 33 without any negative effect on achievement, the study found.

For all elementary students sampled by the Philadelphia researchers, being in classes of 34 or more has a negative effect. It is possible the negative relationship may arise from a teacher's hostile reaction to a class size larger than mandated by the union contract, rather than from the largeness itself, the researchers said.

"In junior high school, classes of 32 or more showed lower achievement growth for the sample students, with low-income students experiencing the greatest negative effects from larger classes," the Philadelphia report said.

ONE OF THE MOST impressive studies of the relationship of class size to pupil achievement was conducted over a five-year period from 1959 through 1964 in the Baltimore public schools.

Orlando Furno and George J. Collins measured achievement in reading and arithmetic over the five-year period and found pupils in the smallest classes, with about 25 pupils, scored higher on standardized achievement tests than pupils in larger classes.

One finding of Furno and Collins was that smaller class sizes were considerably more productive for non-white students than for white students.

Although the evidence supports the conclusion that smaller classes result in greater pupil achievement, one criticism raised about the Baltimore study is that its findings may be of little use outside an urban setting.

Several other studies have been conducted which support the contention that smaller classes have a more positive educational impact on children.

THEY INCLUDE:

- A 1969 study which found a reduction in class size from an average of 30 pupils to an average of 15, led to achievement gains in reading for first-through fourth-grade students.

Researcher Irving H. Balow concluded class size has a more important effect on reading achievement for pupils in the first two grades than for those in the upper grades.

- A study of kindergarten children shows small classes, with between 23 and 28 children, offer a better learning environment for kindergarteners than large classes, with 34 to 39 children.

In the 1966 research, G. M. Cannon found teachers had more creativity in teaching and also gave more attention to each pupil in smaller classes. Cannon also found more aggression and frustration among children in larger classes.

- A researcher from Columbia University conducted a study in 1965 which found there was less mass instruction in classrooms with fewer than 20 pupils.

James H. Pugh visited 180 classes and found pupils in small classrooms received more individual attention and instruction than those in classes with more than 30.

Walberg said it is difficult to control studies of class size in elementary schools because of the variations in teaching methods at that level.

"You might have an open class with 100 kids and five teachers, or a self-contained class with 30 kids and one teacher," Walberg said.

Although Walberg said class size is not the best measure of the quality of education, "it is a good indication, and small class size is one of the factors helping improve performance."

Walberg draws a parallel between family size and class size: on the average, children from smaller families have a higher IQ, he said.

WALBERG SAID THE decline in college entrance examination scores is due to a tremendous increase in family size, rather than a deterioration in schooling. The scores on these tests are starting to go up again, since family sizes are getting smaller, he said.

Walberg said one of the benefits of small classes is that they might counteract some of the problems that have arisen from society becoming more mechanized and impersonal. He feels small children must have more contact with adults both in smaller families and smaller classes.

"A lot of surplus teachers could be employed as aides, to have more adults per child," Walber said. "It's awfully good for little children to be with responsible adults they can get to know warmly and continuously. When they are in with 40 kids, it's hard to establish that."

Meadows pair marks 50th

Mr. and Mrs. Carl L. Hundrieser

The distinction of being the guest to come the farthest for Carl L. and Emma Hundrieser's golden wedding anniversary went to their daughter-in-law, Erika, who flew home from Africa where her husband, Dick, a missionary, is business administrator for Guenter Memorial Hospital in Nigeria.

The Hundriesers, residents at 3006 Owl Dr., Rolling Meadows since 1956, celebrated their 50 years of marriage May 8 with a dinner party for friends and relatives in the Hoffman Estates home of their architect son, Carl E. Also present was their photographer son, Paul of Detroit, Mich.

Married on Mother's Day, May 9, 1926, in Chicago, the couple repeated their vows on Mother's Day '76 in Rolling Meadows Community Church and then brunched with the family at Rolling Meadows Holiday Inn.

Emma is semi-retired, working part-time at The Crawford Store in Rolling Meadows. A volunteer at Northwest Community Hospital for the past five years, she was surprised by her co-workers at the hospital with a party on May 6. Carl retired in 1972 after 23 years as a salesman for Bambas Tobacco.

She'll use roses in arrangements

Judy Schafernak, Palatine, nationally accredited flower show judge, will demonstrate and discuss flower arranging at the Chicago Regional Rose Society District One meeting Thursday evening, May 20.

The 8 o'clock meeting will be held in the Oakton Neighborhood Center, 4701 Oakton, Skokie, and all flower buffs are invited. There is no admission.

Mrs. Schafernak, co-chairman of the Illinois Garden Club's exhibits at the recent Chicago Flower and Garden Show, and district rosarians will also answer questions and offer advice to novice rose growers. Information 677-8806.

Four tell of wedding plans

Kass-Snelten

Buffalo Grove residents Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth J. Kass announce the engagement of their daughter, Deborah Jean, to Cory Snelten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Snelten Jr., Prospect Heights. The couple plans a July wedding.

A '74 graduate of Wheeling High, Deborah is employed as a keypunch operator at Union '76 in Palatine. Cory, a '74 graduate of Hersey High, is employed by Aamco Transmissions, Schaumburg.

Ramirez-Pockenpaugh

The engagement of Dubelza Ramirez to Roger Pockenpaugh is announced by her mother, Mrs. Dan Ramirez, Palatine. Dubelza and Roger, son of Mrs. Paul Pockenpaugh Whittier, Calif., and Mr. Pockenpaugh Palatine, are planning an August wedding.

A '72 graduate of Fremd High, Dubelza will graduate this month from Harper College's nursing program and in July will be employed as a registered nurse at Loyola Hospital. Her fiance, also a Fremd graduate, is with NFE International, Arlington Heights.

Foley-Wahls

Planning an October wedding are Denise K. Foley and Michael Wahls. The couple's engagement and approaching marriage are announced by Denise's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Foley, Mount Prospect. Michael is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wahls, Johnsburg, Ill.

Both Denise and Michael are employed by Allstate in Northbrook. Denise is a graduate of Prospect High and Michael of McHenry High.

Hendrix-Ellis

Mr. and Mrs. James Hendrix, Mount Prospect, announce the engagement of their daughter, Diane Marie, to Michael Craig Ellis, son of former Mount Prospect residents Mr. and Mrs. Roswell Ellis of Worthington, Ohio. The wedding is set for July.

Diane and Mike are graduates of Forest View High. Diane is a graduate of Brymans School of Nursing and is a medical assistant in Prospect Heights. Mike is a student at Loyola University.

Job dislike blamed on TV, rearing

by JAMES LAWRENCE

A Colorado University professor places the prime responsibility on television and permissive parents for millions of Americans who despise their bosses and hate work.

Eugene Koprowski, professor of business and management, said young persons entering the job market expect immediate gratification, mainly in the form of promotions and job excitement.

He said the attitudes develop from their upbringing that is essentially left to mothers because fathers spent most of their time at work or at job-related activities.

"Kids are being conditioned by television to think that any problem can be resolved in a half-hour, or if it's more difficult, maybe an hour," said Koprowski. "If they don't happen to like the program, they can turn the station. This is what managers are doing today."

KOPROWSKI, WHO also is an industrial consultant on employe relations, said job dissatisfaction was not confined to young persons, but extended to older workers as well. He said many workers of all ages who are unhappy with their jobs shortchange their employers by doing as little as possible without feelings of guilt.

"These people feel absolutely no guilt about not earning their wages honestly," Koprowski said in a telephone interview to Boulder. "They feel that they're in fact the ones being cheated.

Koprowski said most employers concerned were hiring consultants and behavioral experts to help them solve the problem. He said corporations recognized industry often represented an extended family by sometimes controlling employes' social lives and expectations.

"The way organizations use people's time, there is little energy left over after the stress of a work day," he said. 'This can be devastating to a person's self concept and employers realize they must do something to make things better."

KOPROWSKI, 47, SAID industry was redesigning jobs, giving more responsibility to workers and involving them more in decision-making in efforts to reduce job dissatisfaction.

He said most unhappy employes are blue-collar workers, and among those most satisfied with their jobs are university professors, scientists and attorneys.

"What we have to do is find those elements which make a professional's job attractive (and) incorporate them into nonprofessional work," he said.

"It can't be done by just changing the title of a person's job from, for instance, garbage man to sanitation engineer, but through offering more autonomy and challenges requiring a worker to think."

THE PROFESSOR SAID several major firms across the country were experimenting with new ideas to enrich workers' jobs. However, he said no conclusive evidence had been compiled on the success of the projects.

Koprowski warned, however, that corporations should not go too far in efforts to rid workers of their discontent because a "homogeneous society would result.

"If corporations controlled all aspects of people's lives, we would all become robots."

(United Press International)

Cupid's Deadlines:

Engagements due at least six weeks before wedding date.

Marriages due three weeks after wedding for complete story; five weeks after wedding for brief story.

Nonsmokers paid if they quit

A cosmetics manufacturer in Los Angeles has launched a program to help smokers break the habit or cut down, and to discourage nonsmokers from starting.

Board chairman J. B. Nethercutt, a reformed smoker himself, said the company will pay an employe a $10 per quarter bonus this year not to smoke on the job, in storage areas and rest rooms.

Even though a special smoking section has been established in the company cafeteria for use during lunch and coffee breaks, Nethercutt estimates Merle Norman Cosmetics will save just over $10 per employe quarterly in reduced housekeeping costs, lower absenteeism and increased productivity.

Spring luncheons abound

Mayor speaks to AAUW

The spring luncheon for Schaumburg Branch of the American Association of University Women is this Saturday at Nordic Hills Country Club, Itasca. Guest speaker will be Mayor Virginia Hayter of Hoffman Estates.

New officers to be installed are Harolyn Ropp, president; Patty Mitcho and Anna Waterloo, vice presidents; Barbara Rosok and Connie Goede, secretaries; and Bette Ledvina, treasurer.

Carole Lemon, 529-9305, can be called for further luncheon information.

GOP women set picnic

Members of Maine Township Republican Women's Club are counting on a sunny day Thursday, May 20, the date of their annual picnic. The event begins at 11:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. H. H. Korff, 1800 Lee St., Des Plaines.

White elephant items are requested for a silent auction to be held during the afternoon.

Republican candidates and their spouses are invited. Anyone else interested in attending should call Mrs. Korff at 827-1848 by Monday.

Pansy is theme

The annual salad-bar "Pansy Luncheon" of Chicago Northwest Suburban alumnae of Delta Delta Delta will be held Tuesday noon in the home of Mrs. Charles Russell, Palatine. Each member will bring a favorite salad plus five copies of the recipe.

Installation of officers will highlight the afternoon program. Marilyn Friker, Arlington Heights, is president; Judy Lydolph, Hoffman Estates, vice president; Marilyn Patrick, Arlington Heights, secretary; and Dee LaForte, Arlington Heights, treasurer.

Interested alumnae may call the president at 259-9106.

Guests bring salads

St. Simon's Episcopal Churchwomen will hold their spring salad luncheon Tuesday in the church, Arlington Heights. The luncheon, for which members will supply the salads, will be followed by a jewelry demonstration by Eileen Scheffer. Information 259-0844.

Tells Oriental heritage

South Church Woman's Guild's guest luncheon next Tuesday will be the last luncheon of this season for the Mount Prospect church group.

The program will be given by Korean-born Bong Hee Stephans of Arlington Heights who will share talk on her oriental heritage in a cultural arts program of song, dance and presentation of slides.

Reservations may be made with the church office, 253-0501.

Have a Summer Dream

"Summer Dream" is the theme for the spring luncheon of Mount Prospect Woman's Club. Featuring fashions from the Robin's Nest of Mount Prospect, the luncheon show will be held May 27 at Inverness Country Club.

Happenings

All area women are invited. Tickets are $7.50 and tables are for 10. Ticket chairman is Bridgette Lunde, 593-1225. Those interested in car pools may call CL 9-4222.

VFW to install

Elk Grove VFW Post 9284 Ladies Auxiliary will join the men's organization for an installation of officers Saturday evening in the post home, 400 E. Devon.

Jeanne Chesny is the new president; Nancy Carlson and Lorna Sztorc, vice presidents; Rita Bush, treasurer; Agnas Tokarewich, chaplain; Dorothy Niemiec, conductress.

Lillian Mayer, Elk Grove, now 4th Dist. president, will be mistress of ceremonies.

AAUW seeks members

A membership party, sponsored by Northwest Suburban Branch of the American Association of University Women, will be held neqt Tuesday at 7:45 p.m. in the Des Plaines home of Dr. Elfriede Horst-Levan.

Women who have graduated from an accredited college or university are invited and for further information may call Inara Brubaker at 827-5096.

Enjoy, enjoy Northwoods

Potting shed

by Mary B. Good

More than half of the residents of the Northwoods must be escapees from the city.

Judging feom the letters that find their way to me from Potting Shed readers, many Northwest suburbanites either have summer homes in the Lakeland area of Wisconsin or are summer visitors here.

When I lived in Arlington Heights and made by weekend getaways to the Minocqua area, it always frustrated me to find that I was nearly always too early or too late for wild strawberry, blueberry, raspberry, cranberry and/or hazelnut picking time. So to assist our welcome visitors to the North from Herald country in their foraging adventures, a popular pastime here, I present my Northwoods Nature-Lover's Calendar of Events, compiled over a five-year observation period. These are estimated average dates when Mother Nature does her thing in the North. I hope this will be helpful in planning visits to the Minocqua-Eagle River-Rhinelander area to the many who come each year.

CLIP AND SAVE:

Early May — first wildflowers in bloom: trailing arbutus, hepatica (no picking, but beautiful!).

Mid-May to late May — spring mushrooms pop up (a delight to eat)-. Marsh marigolds, first edible flower. (leaves must be thoroughly cooked to boil out toxic helleborins, unopened cooked buds make excellent capers!)

May 30 — set tomato plants in the vegetable garden, geraniums at the summer place. Most popular cultivated flowers are tuberous begonias and hanging fuchsias for Northerners.
Deer have fawns

June — pink Ladyslipper orchids bloom (bring your cameras).
June 20 — first hummingbirds arrive. Giant trilliums flood the countryside.
Most species of woodland orchids blossom (Take a walk with a Department of Natural Resources naturalist; watch movies in the moonlight.)
June 20 — wild strawberry picking time.
July 10 — Blueberries ready for picking.
Aug. 15 — Wild raspberries waiting for you to find them (follow a bear, they know all the good spots!).
Aug. 25 — Bring your pails for blackberries.
First of Sept. — Hummingbirds (and a lot of tourists) go home.
Sept. 5-16 — expect first fall frost anytime.
Sept.-Oct. — depending on temperature and rainfall, mushrooms invite.
Sept. 15-30 — all the deciduous trees turn brilliant colors. A real spectacle (we call it "Colorama.")
Sept. 25 — wild cranberries ready to grab (by canoe, mostly) after first frost.
If the squirrels don't get them first, you can have your turn at collecting hazelnuts (filberts to you).
Sept. 30 — wild rice season opens (non-Indians need a permit that is easy to obtain).

OUR POPULATION swells from 2,000 to upwards of 25,000 in Minocqua alone during the summer. Most persons start dreaming of "going up North" anytime after Memorial Day. And if you missed some of the enchantments of spring in the Cook County Forest Preserves, rest assured you can catch them later here since our season is three weeks later than the Chicago area.

I keep a daily check on Chicago area weather conditions and often compare them to our slower timeing here. Our dandelions, for example, are not quite ready for wine-making, the flowers holding off with our recent 19 and 20-degree night temps. On the other hand, in Chicago on April 24. I noticed yellow splashes of dandelion patches coloring all of the Northwest suburbs.

One small reminder when picking wild fruit: Pollution has not escaped the Northwoods. Avoid eating any goodies growing underneath utility lines and in roadside ditches. The power companies here have a nasty habit of spot-herbiciding to prevent tree growth from obstructing their utility lines and they don't warn anybody about it. Also wild food culled from roadside ditches may be watered from polluted drainoff and road salt.

Classes to help everyone get more from life

"Life Is for Lliving" classes will be offered for the first time in this area starting Monday at three different locations. These classes are designed to help people of all ages to get more satisfaction from their everyday lives.

Stressing such areas as "eliminating worry and tension," "strengthening self-confidence," and "improving your communications with other people," this five-week course offers practical suggestions which can be put to work every day to make life more rewarding.

THESE CLASSES were designed by Fred and Joyce McDonald of Prospect Heights while they were directing management training programs in Ireland, and are the outgrowth of more than 12 years of research in this field. The classes are designed for different age groups, junior high through senior citizens and will be offered Monday at the Old Orchard Country Club (adult class), Tuesday and Friday at the Northwest YMCA, Des Plaines (both junior high and senior high and adult class) and Wednesday and Thursday at the Randhurst Twin Ice Arena, Mount Prospect (junior high, senior high and adult classes).

More information concerning these classes may be obtained by calling Mrs. McDonald, who will be teaching the classes in this area, at 255-6524. There is a tuition fee of $40 for adults, $30 for students.

New house plant needs to adjust

Newly bought houseplants need special conditioning to adjust to a home environment, say Cooperative Extension specialists at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Without gradual conditioning to lower light intensity and humidity, new plants may lose their foliage within a week or two. To prevent this, the agents suggest placing the plants in a south window for about two and a half weeks, then in an east window for the same length of time before moving it to a permanent location.

In addition, water should be allowed to filter through the planters' drainage holes to remove excess fertilizer or salts that cause leaf drop in combination with lower light intensities. (UPI)

Music makers

Parents and older brothers and sisters can use music to help younger children learn basic skills, say Extension specialists at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

They recommend the sound of bells, voices, hollow blocks, drums and moving wheels as noises that intrigue most children and encourage them to do tricks and move rhythmically while listening.

How important is the size of your child's class?

by DIANE GRANAT

When the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 Board of Education decided to raise the district's average class size next fall from 25 to 27 students, more than 300 teachers came out to protest.

Arlington Heights Dist. 25 teachers voiced their concern over the planned class-size increase from 25 to 26.4 students, saying class size "is the most critical factor in a quality education for our children."

In recent months the controversy over class size has become heated as Northwest suburban school districts begin to cope with declining enrollments and deficit budgets.

SOME PERSONS assume a declining school enrollment will mean cozier classes with more attention for each student. In fact, the opposite is happening.

During the period of booming enrollments and growing affluence in the late 1960s, school districts could afford to hire more teachers, build more classrooms and lower the number of pupils per class.

But today, as enrollment drops so does the amount of state aid the schools receive, since it is allotted on a per-pupil basis.

One of the first things to go when budget cutbacks are made is small classes. In eight elementary school districts in the Northwest suburbs, school boards recently raised average class sizes and dismissed surplus teachers.

In River Trails Dist. 26, class size next year will increase from an average of 20 to 26 students per class. In Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15, teachers will find average classes of 28 instead of 26 students in the fall.

Parents ask what effect larger class size will have on the quality of education for their children. Are small classes a luxury or are they a necessary part of our educational program? Educators aren't sure.

Interpreting the research to support their particular viewpoint, teachers, administrators and school boards have turned a largely economic and labor-management issue into an educational issue.

For teachers, increased class size means more children to handle with fewer teaching jobs. For school boards and administrators, raising class size is an efficient way to reduce spending.

Class-size statistics can often be confusing. The average class size quoted by administrators is just that — an average. Actual class size may vary from a special education class of 10 students to sixth-grade classroom of 33 students in a district with an average class size of 26.

Many factors affect the class-size statistics. In some districts team teaching is used, with several teachers working with large groups of students. Although a school may have large classes, it also may have aides assisting the teacher, or the children may do most of their work in small groups.

The financial and enrollment problems of local school districts are expected to continue at least another year, and boards again will be faced with the need to cut budgets. The class-size debate is certain to continue.

Pro: 'Larger classes mean fewer teaching jobs, so teachers don't like it'

It can be hard to find the benefits of large classes. But it is much easier to find reasons why class sizes should be larger.

Perhaps the best reason is money — it is expensive to reduce class size, and there seems to be no overwhelming research supporting small classes.

The President's Commission on School Finance in 1972 found "no research evidence that demonstrates improved student achievement resulting from decreasing pupil-teacher ratios." So when cost-cutting time arrives, educators are not shy about raising class size.

ANTHONY CRESSWELL, an education professor at Northwestern University, said he views class size as an economic issue, but the rhetoric surrounding it turns it into an educational argument.

"Larger classes mean fewer teaching jobs, so teachers don't like it. Larger classes also mean fewer costs, so school boards like it," Cresswell said. "Both groups use educational evidence to support an economic issue."

The evidence points in both directions — pro-large and pro-small — but without any definite answers, some parents wonder if it might be harmful to sacrifice small classes during a financial crunch.

Much of the research says it may not only be harmless to increase class size, but larger classes may even have a favorable impact on pupil achievement.

SEVERAL STUDIES OF high school students show students from large classes perform better on standardized tests than students in small classes.

A 1968 study of ninth-graders found students achieved more in mathematics classes of 70 to 85 students, than in classes with 25 to 40 students.

Another study of seventh and eighth graders found no significant gains in academic achievement in English and math in either large or small classes. When classes with fewer than 25 pupils were compared with classes with more than 33, no difference was found in the students' success.

A common misunderstanding about class size is the difference between pupil-teacher ratio and actual classroom size.

Class size usually refers to the number of students assigned to a teacher for a period of instruction, and ratio refers to the number of staff members — including supervisors, resource teachers and classroom teachers — to pupils.

THEREFORE, A SCHOOL system may have a large class size and yet have a relatively low ratio of pupils to staff positions.

In some districts, average classes may have 27 students, but the actual pupil-teacher ratio may be as low as 22:1, which includes music, art, physical-education teachers and aides.

Larger classes also can be beneficial with certain teaching methods. For instance, with team teaching, large classes are most efficient, with several teachers monitoring larger groups.

One reason educators have no qualms about larger classes is because it is only a small part of a group of factors which influence educational achievement. Teacher experience, materials, school facilities, teaching methods, as well as class size, are "school resources" which affect a child's growth.

But socio-economic characteristics of a child — family income, background, and to some observers, race and sex — all play a greater role in a child's education, some experts say.

James S. Coleman's landmark study of educational opportunity in the United States found that family background is the most important factor in determining pupil achievement.

In his 1966 study, Coleman discovered that the nature of the student body was more important in affecting achievement than anything the schools did.

OTHER MAJOR studies also disputed the importance of school factors in influencing a child's success.

Arthur R. Jensen, in his controversial study of blacks and IQs, said 80 per cent of IQ is genetically determined, and that schools cannot succeed in bringing achievement levels of black students up to those of non-blacks.

The implications drawn from Christopher Jencks' 1972 study of inequality are that schools don't make a difference in one's future occupation or income.

Based on these and other findings, a study conducted in Philadelphia's public schools suggests that for the sake of efficiency, some school resources could be drawn away from those activities where extra inputs don't seem to make much difference, such as unproductive class sizes.

SOME RESEARCHERS have concluded that learning by pupils in large groups can be effective if:

- The teacher is trained and motivated for his job;
- There is opportunity for small group work within the large classes; and
- School facilties and schedules are kept flexible.

Flexibility is the key to class size, agrees Cresswell of Northwestern. He said the money-saving benefits of larger classes are very useful, as long as school districts don't become rigid.

"As long as they talk about averages, it's OK," Cresswell said. "But with a standard class size where you can't deviate, you put a strait jacket on your program."

Con: 'Small class size is one of the factors helping improve performance'

Herding. Waiting. Keeping order. Less warmth. Less help. More paper work. More frustration.

These are the cries of teachers who say a large class is their No. 1 Enemy. And teachers have become the main advocates of smaller classes.

A nationwide "Teacher Opinion Poll" conducted by the National Education Assn. last year asked teachers what one change they would make to improve their own morale or professional satisfaction. "Lower class size" was the overwhelming answer.

IN A RECENT ARTICLE in the NEA journal, NEA Director Terry Herndon said the ideal class size is from 18 to 22 in elementary school, whereas most classes are larger.

Although most research says there is no magic number for class size, some studies agree with the teachers and show the benefits of smaller classes over larger ones.

A professor of human development at the University of Illinois Chicago Circle says small classes help students' attitudes about school. Herbert Walberg took a national survey of high school students and found students liked small classes better but they also found them more difficult.

"In small classes each child is more visible to the teacher," Walberg said. "It's difficult, but learning is difficult. Kids are put on the spot to perform in those classes."

IN ANOTHER STUDY, Walberg found that states that have lower class sizes have lower failure rates on military draft tests for 18-year-old males.

"In the South there are extremely high class sizes and also extremely high rates of failure on these tests," Walberg said. He noted that in some northern states, where class sizes are smaller, success on draft exams was considerably higher.

Walberg said his research was adjusted for income, race, social class and population density. He also assumed the same result would hold for women.

A recent study by the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia found that small classes help low achievers but are of no special benefit to average and high achievers.

THE 1975 STUDY OF Philadelphia public school students measured achievement by performance on standardized tests, with average achievers scoring at or about grade level, high achievers above grade level and low achievers below.

Elementary students who are below grade level gain in classes with less than 28 students, but the rest of the students can be in classes up to 33 without any negative effect on achievement, the study found.

For all elementary students sampled by the Philadelphia researchers, being in classes of 34 or more has a negative effect. It is possible the negative relationship may arise from a teacher's hostile reaction to a class size larger than mandated by the union contract, rather than from the largeness itself, the researchers said.

"In junior high school, classes of 32 or more showed lower achievement growth for the sample students, with low-income students experiencing the greatest negative effects from larger classes," the Philadelphia report said.

ONE OF THE MOST impressive studies of the relationship of class size to pupil achievement was conducted over a five-year period from 1959 through 1964 in the Baltimore public schools.

Orlando Furno and George J. Collins measured achievement in reading and arithmetic over the five-year period and found pupils in the smallest classes, with about 25 pupils, scored higher on standardized achievement tests than pupils in larger classes.

One finding of Furno and Collins was that smaller class sizes were considerably more productive for non-white students than for white students.

Although the evidence supports the conclusion that smaller classes result in greater pupil achievement, one criticism raised about the Baltimore study is that its findings may be of little use outside an urban setting.

Several other studies have been conducted which support the contention that smaller classes have a more positive educational impact on children.

THEY INCLUDE:

- A 1969 study which found a reduction in class size from an average of 30 pupils to an average of 15, led to achievement gains in reading for first-through fourth-grade students.

Researcher Irving H. Balow concluded class size has a more important effect on reading achievement for pupils in the first two grades than for those in the upper grades.

- A study of kindergarten children shows small classes, with between 23 and 28 children, offer a better learning environment for kindergarteners than large classes, with 34 to 39 children.

In the 1966 research, G. M. Cannon found teachers had more creativity in teaching and also gave more attention to each pupil in smaller classes. Cannon also found more aggression and frustration among children in larger classes.

- A researcher from Columbia University conducted a study in 1965 which found there was less mass instruction in classrooms with fewer than 20 pupils.

James H. Pugh visited 180 classes and found pupils in small classrooms received more individual attention and instruction than those in classes with more than 30.

Walberg said it is difficult to control studies of class size in elementary schools because of the variations in teaching methods at that level.

"You might have an open class with 100 kids and five teachers, or a self-contained class with 30 kids and one teacher," Walberg said.

Although Walberg said class size is not the best measure of the quality of education, "it is a good indication, and small class size is one of the factors helping improve performance."

Walberg draws a parallel between family size and class size: on the average, children from smaller families have a higher IQ, he said.

WALBERG SAID THE decline in college entrance examination scores is due to a tremendous increase in family size, rather than a deterioration in schooling. The scores on these tests are starting to go up again, since family sizes are getting smaller, he said.

Walberg said one of the benefits of small classes is that they might counteract some of the problems that have arisen from society becoming more mechanized and impersonal. He feels small children must have more contact with adults both in smaller families and smaller classes.

"A lot of surplus teachers could be employed as aides, to have more adults per child," Walber said. "It's awfully good for little children to be with responsible adults they can get to know warmly and continuously. When they are in with 40 kids, it's hard to establish that."

LAMB

As You'll Like It

Appealing to America's growing gourmet palate, lamb is destined to achieve the popularity it merits. Today's lamb is of especially high eating quality — tender and of distinctive, yet delicate, flavor. It is, in fact much superior to the lamb served at the White House in our country's youth. For it was after sheeping raising went west to the Rockies that the market value of sheep shifted from wool to meat and the modern era of breeding and feeding lamb for the table began. The result was heavier yet young lamb, providing tender, meatier cuts. Today's lamb, bigger and better than ever, supplies more meat in relation to bone, making it a better buy.

Lamb Rib Roasts

2 lamb rib roasts, 2 to 3 pounds each

Place roasts fat side up on rack in open roasting pan. Insert roast meat thermometer in one roast so the tip is centered in thickest part and does not rest in fat or on bone. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in a moderate oven (375 degrees) to desired degree of doneness: 140 degrees for rare; 160 degrees for medium) 170 degrees to 180 degrees for well done. Allow 25 to 30 minutes per pound for rare; 30 to 35 minutes per pound for medium; 35 to 40 minutes per pound for well done.

Note: Remove "fell" (thin paper-like covering) from lamb rib roasts if retailer has not already done so.

Dilly Lamb Kabobs

2 pounds lamb cubes for kabobs (1½-inch pieces)
1 can (8¼ ounces) pineapple chunks in heavy syrup
½ cup lemon juice
¼ cup oil
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoons dill weed
3 large carrots, cut in 1-inch pieces
1 green pepper, cut in 1-inch pieces
1 teaspoon cornstarch

Drain pineapple chunks; reserve syrup and combine with lemon juice, oil, brown sugar, salt and dill weed in small saucepan. Cook slowly 5 minutes, stirring to dissolve sugar. Cool. Place lamb cubes in plastic bag; add marinade, mixing to coat cubes. Close bag securely (pressing out air); place in utility dish and marinate in refrigerator 2 hours or overnight. When ready to prepare kabobs, cook carrots in boiling salted water 12 minutes or until just tender. Remove meat from marinade and pour marinade over carrots and green pepper. Drain marinade from vegetables, combine with cornstarch in small saucepan and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Thread lamb cubes on six 15-inch skewers alternately with pieces of carrots, pineapple and green pepper. Place skewers on rack in broiler pan so surface of meat is 3 inches from heat. Broil 5 minutes; turn and broil second side 5 minutes. Brush lamb and vegetables with sauce and broil 2 to 3 minutes; turn, brush with sauce and continue broiling 2 to 3 minutes or to doneness desired. 6 servings.

Spicy Lamb Stew

2 to 2½ pounds lamb for stew, cut in 1-inch pieces
¼ cup flour
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons cooking fat
1 cup water
1 small bay leaf
1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes
1 medium onion, cut into wedges
½ teaspoon oregano
¼ cup water
2 packages (9 ounces each) frozen green beans*

Combine flour, salt, cinnamon and pepper; dredge lamb cubes, reserving excess flour. Brown meat in cooking fat; pour off drippings. Add 1 cup water and bay leaf to meat, cover tightly and cook slowly 20 minutes. Remove bay leaf. Drain tomatoes; reserve liquid and break tomatoes in pieces. Add tomato liquid, onion and oregano to meat and cook slowly, covered, 1 hour. Blend reserved flour with ¼ cup water and use to thicken stew. Add tomatoes and continue cooking 5 minutes. Cook frozen green beans according to package directions; drain and stir into stew. 6 to 8 servings.

*One pound fresh green beans, broken in pieces, may be substituted for the frozen beans. Add fresh beans to stew with the tomato liquid, and cook until meat and beans are tender.

Sunny Lamb Chops

6 lamb blade chops, cut ¾-inch thick
1 tablespoon brown sugar
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon mint leaves
1 clove garlic, minced
1 cup orange juice
1 tablespoon lime juice
1 orange
Salt
Pepper

Combine brown sugar, cornstarch, salt, mint leaves and garlic in small saucepan. Gradually add orange juice and lime juice and cook slowly for 10 minutes, stirring until thickened. Cut slice from each end of orange and cut orange crosswise into 6 slices. Slit each slice from center through edge on one side. Place chops on rack in broiler pan so surface of meat is 3-inches from heat. Broil 5 minutes, season with salt and pepper, turn and broil 4 minutes and season with salt and pepper. Turn chops, brush with sauce and broil 3 minutes; turn and brush with sauce. Twist each orange slice and place on top of a chop and brush with sauce. Continue broiling 3 minutes or to doneness desired. 6 servings.

Company cooking can't be postponed forever

The working woman cooks

by Joyce Zeller

Sooner or later you're going to have to give a dinner party. You can't put it off forever, even though the idea creates as much excitement as a dead toad.

The last thing you need is to cook for a crowd? Well, yes, it isn't easy to schedule time for company now that you're putting in 15-hour days, but old friends and lively conversation are good for you, and if you get organized in advance it won't take that much time.

No matter how much we try to ignore things like housework, the desire to be proficient is still there. We have had that role imprinted on us since childhood. Every once in awhile we must do something to prove to ourselves that we still have the old skills of cooking a great meal and being a good hostess.

WHAT WE NEED, of course, is a dinner menu unusual enough to impress the guests so they won't notice how cheap the meal is tt make. It also has to be simple enough to prepare so you can spend most of your time where the action is. Some of the best parties I've missed have been at my own house.

Here is a menu that is all those things. The meat sauce you make for the main dish has enough left over to save for another, different meal later on. The main ingredient is ground lamb and I don't want to hear any complaints. I know there are some people out there who think they don't like lamb, but I've never served this recipe to anyone who could taste the lamb in it. People just thought it was great and asked for the recipe. Don't even try to substitute hamburger. It turns out lousy. The origin of the dish is Greek. It's sort of a Greek lasagna.

THE MENU is as follows:

Pastitsio
Caesar salad
Salt sticks
Fresh strawberries with cheese

The day before the party make the meat sauce for the Pastitsio; prepare the lettuce for the salad; order the salt sticks from the bakery.

The day of the party finish the Pastitsio; make the salad dressing and croutons; prepare the strawberries; send your husband to bakery for salt sticks.

Two hours before guests arrive set the table, get appetizers ready if you're having any (raw vegetables with a cheese dip are good), and send your husband out for the kids' hamburgers.

When the guests arrive all you have to do is put the Pastitsio in the oven and toss the salad.

PASTITSIO

1 cup chopped onions
2½ pounds lean ground lamb
1 teaspoon garlic powder
1 large (20-ounce) can tomatoes
1 large (20-ounce) can tomato puree
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon each oregano and cinnamon
½ teaspoon allspice
½ cup fresh bread crumbs (freshly grated soft bread)
1 cup grated Parmesan cheese
½ pound Mozzarella, sliced thin
1 pound Ziti macaroni

In a large pan, saute onions, garlic and lamb until pink is gone. Add next 6 ingredients. Simmer 15 minutes. Add bread crumbs and cheese. Add some hot sauce to beaten egg and then add egg to sauce, stirring well. Put aside 3½ cups for another meal. Refrigerate. To assemble, cook macaroni in salted water until tender. Drain. Place in 9 by 15-inch baking pan. Top with sauce, then Mozzarella. Bake in 350-degree oven about 1 hour.*

CAESAR SALAD

For croutons, saute 1½ cups dried bread cubes in ¼ cup hot oil to which 1 clove of garlic has been added. When light brown, drain and cool.

For the dressing:

2 cloves garlic, chopped
1 flat anchovy
1/8 teaspoon each salt and pepper
4 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup salad oil
1 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 egg yolk

Mash garlic and anchovy in small bowl and mix with salt and pepper. Add lemon juice, oil and cheese. Just before serving add egg yolk. Toss with torn Romaine lettuce (2 large heads). Add croutons and toss again.

STRAWBERRIES

Hull, wash and chill strawberries. Moisten them with about ¼ cup Kirsch liqueur (a cherry-flavored liqueur) for each quart. For six people 1½ quarts should be enough. Buy about a pound of Gourmandise cheese, which is very rich and flavored slightly with Kirsch. Cut it in small cubes. Serve some strawberries and some cheese on each plate and provide each guest with a small dish of powdered sugar to dip the berries in. You can serve the rest of the Kirsch in liqueur glasses along with coffee.

*Next week we'll find out what to do with the rest of the lamb sauce.

Coffee cordial an easy end to any dinner

Coffee Cordial

For a company meal savor the richness of a coffee cordial. This delightful after-dinner beverage can be prepared by the potful — an easy combination of coffee, rum and sugar, served with a twist of orange peel.

COFFEE CORDIAL

4 cups freshly brewed coffee
¼ cup rum or brandy
¼ cup sugar
6 strips orange peel

Combine coffee, rum and sugar, pour into coffee cups and serve with a twist of orange peel. Makes 4½ cups or 6 servings.

(A fruit-flavored liqueur can be used in place of rum. If so, omit sugar.)

Aki and Kathy Matsushima

They cook according to culture

by LOIS SEILER

The most interesting way in which Aki and Kathy Matsushima entertain guests is to provide an authentic Japanese dinner.

A native of Tokyo, Aki met Kathy, an American, when she was teaching at a university in Japan. After their marriage, they lived in California for five years and moved to Mount Prospect one and a-half years ago.

Aki, an executive vice president of NOK-USA in Elk Grove Village, finds American food as palatable as Japanese and is easy to please, Kathy said. However, the only time he cooks is when the Matsushimas plan a Japanese meal.

Kathy and Aki have adapted Japanese recipes to suit American tastes, using ingredients which are readily available in the foreign food section of most supermarkets or in a Japanese grocery.

TO START THE evening's festivities, Japanese plum wine and appetizers are served first in the family room. Dressed in a Hapi coat, Aki cooks Yakitori on an electric hibachi. The appetizers consist of chicken, zucchini, cherry tomatoes and mushrooms assembled on small bamboo sticks which have been marinated in Teriyaki sauce for several hours or overnight.

While Aki presides at the hibachi, Kathy is busy in the kitchen making final preparations for dinner. Earlier in the day she made a clear broth from the bones and skin from the chicken used for the Yakitori. Japanese always serve a clear broth as the first course, with a few vegetables floating on top, said Kathy. Bouillon may be substituted, if desired, with a few sliced mushrooms, celery leaves, chopped green onions or Chinese pea pods added for interest.

The guests are served their soup while Aki cooks the Sukiyaki at the table in an electric skillet. Although preparing the meat and vegetables for the Sukiyaki takes awhile, cooking time is very short since the vegetables should be crisp.

YAKITORI, JAPANESE appetizers similar to shish kabobs, are marinated in Teriyaki sauce before Aki Matsushima, Mount Prospect, cooks them over an hibachi. He and his wife, Kathy, try to present their children, John and Karen, with a blend of American and Japanese cultures.

KATHY TASTEFULLY arranges a large platter with all the ingredients, including thinly-sliced beef, Sukiyaki-no-toma (a canned combination of

Grocers once were pepperers

Once again we bring you food facts of unusual flavor gathered from here and there. Our first story has the provocative heading: "So you think you know your groceries? Bet you don't even know your grocer!" What I mean is, back in the early days of England, grocers weren't grocers at all. They were Pepperers, guys who handled spices and weighed them on peso grosso scales. Peso grosso means gross amount, and the Pepperers were often called grossarii. That's where we got the word grocer.

* * *

Our next item concerns a gift of some food sent by the State of Massachusetts to King Charles the Second of England. In 1677, relations were a little strained between the Colonies and England, and the gift meant to be a peace offering almost started a war. It was 10 barrels of cranberries, an acidy fruit little known to the British at that time. That wasn't so bad, but the cranberries were sent with no serving directions, and no sugar. The King didn't think they were "berry" good.

Did you know that our present day sandwich was named after the Fourth Earl of Sandwich, England, John Montagu? But the sandwich wasn't John's idea at all.

Folks ate sandwiches many years before the Earl, but he did make them popular. Montagu hated to tear himself away from the card table for meals, so he had his servant bring him meat between slices of bread, which later were called sandwiches in honor of the Earl. And what kind do you suppose he ate when he played cards? Club sandwiches, no doubt.

Let's talk about potatoes — or spuds, Mickeys, patates, bog apples or whatever you call them. The Irish potato, it seems, didn't originate in Ireland at all but in South America, where Spanish explorers found it 500 years ago. But don't call it a Spanish potato — that's a sweet potato. Now, take the Canada potato. It isn't even a potato; it's a Jerusalem artichoke. It doesn't come from Jerusalem, either, and it isn't a real artichoke. If you're confused after all that, maybe you're better off eating potato chips. But what if they're not really potato chips but Saratoga chips? Well, let's leave that one for a later time.

GOURMET COOKING
fun to prepare . . .

Hundreds of northwest suburban women and men are finding out just how easy gourmet cooking is and how much fun it can be during classes conducted by the Continental Cooking School, 1144 S. Elmhurst Road in Mount Prospect's Countryside Court. After completing only one or two courses many students admit that they look forward to cooking and meal planning when they once considered them chores. Even cookbook recipes are easier to prepare because of the student's increased confidence in the kitchen. "We begin where cookbooks end," explains restauranteur and the school's owner, Albert Zeller. "We stress organization, and the fundamentals at each level of cooking. Of course a few pointers from our chefs help a lot too. Our method of teaching is a new concept in culinary instruction that we've developed right in our own kitchen classroom.
Continental's new concept in teaching isn't the only thing unique about the school. In fact, the school itself is a new concept in non-commercial cooking schools. Continental is the only school of its kind in Chicagoland to offer a variety of courses in so many different areas of the culinary arts. Courses currently offered are: Microwave, Advanced Microwave, Crepes and Omelets, Hors D'Oeuvres, Introductory Course, Low Calorie, Bar-B-Que and Salads, and, Bridal Course.
The school's staff consists of seven of the areas foremost chefs and instructors who conduct classes in their areas of expertise.
The school's most popular course is Microwave Oven Cooking. One reason for this popularity is because Continental is the only school in Chicagoland to offer special classes in microwave cooking." You have to learn to cook all over again," explains the school's instructor, Ida Shelhamer, "but it's worth it. Microwave ovens can do so many things conventional ovens can't do and with the time they save, they are well worth the investment. The only problem with the ovens was that the instruction booklets were so incomplete that many women weren't using their ovens to their full potential. But thanks to our classes, women are now getting their money's worth from their ovens and loving it."
The Culinary Shop, located in the front of the school, carries a complete selection of gourmet kitchenware and utensils ranging from butcher block tables to zesters. Other items include the new miracle appliance, Cuisinart's Food Processor and name brand microwave ovens at competitive prices. With the purchase of an oven, the customer receives a free microwave cooking course valued at $39.
It won't be long before Continental reaches its goal of bringing gourmet cooking into everyone's kitchen. Continental is making it easy to learn and easy to afford. The low tuition fee includes all recipes, food supplies, and other materials used in the courses. But lowered tuition fees, small workable class sizes for personalized instruction, and increased demand, has caused many classes to fill up fast. Anyone interested in enrolling or for more information, should call the school at 593-3020. Or visit the school during the week or on Saturdays at 1144 S. Elmhurst Road in the Countryside Court, one block south of Golf Road.

LAMB

As You'll Like It

Appealing to America's growing gourmet palate, lamb is destined to achieve the popularity it merits. Today's lamb is of especially high eating quality — tender and of distinctive, yet delicate, flavor. It is, in fact much superior to the lamb served at the White House in our country's youth. For it was after sheeping raising went west to the Rockies that the market value of sheep shifted from wool to meat and the modern era of breeding and feeding lamb for the table began. The result was heavier yet young lamb, providing tender, meatier cuts. Today's lamb, bigger and better than ever, supplies more meat in relation to bone, making it a better buy.

Lamb Rib Roasts

2 lamb rib roasts, 2 to 3 pounds each

Place roasts, fat side up, on rack in open roasting pan. Insert roast meat thermometer in one roast so the tip is centered in thickest part and does not rest in fat or on bone. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in a moderate oven (375 degrees) to desired degree of doneness: 140 degrees for rare; 160 degrees for medium) 170 degrees to 180 degrees for well done. Allow 25 to 30 minutes per pound for rare; 30 to 35 minutes per pound for medium; 35 to 40 minutes per pound for well done.

Note: Remove "fell" (thin paper-like covering) from lamb rib roasts if retailer has not already done so

Dilly Lamb Kabobs

2 pounds lamb cubes for kabobs (1½-inch pieces)
1 can (8¼ ounces) pineapple chunks in heavy syrup
½ cup lemon juice
¼ cup oil
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoons dill weed
3 large carrots, cut in 1-inch pieces
1 green pepper, cut in 1-inch pieces
1 teaspoon cornstarch

Drain pineapple chunks; reserve syrup and combine with lemon juice, oil, brown sugar, salt and dill weed in small saucepan. Cook slowly 5 minutes, stirring to dissolve sugar. Cool. Place lamb cubes in plastic bag; add marinade, mixing to coat cubes. Close bag securely (pressing out air); place in utility dish and marinate in refrigerator 2 hours or overnight. When ready to prepare kabobs, cook carrots in boiling salted water 12 minutes or until just tender. Remove meat from marinade and pour marinade over carrots and green pepper. Drain marinade from vegetables, combine with cornstarch in small saucepan and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Thread lamb cubes on six 15-inch skewers alternately with pieces of carrots, pineapple and green pepper. Place skewers on rack in broiler pan so surface of meat is 3 inches from heat. Broil 5 minutes; turn and broil second side 5 minutes. Brush lamb and vegetables with sauce and broil 2 to 3 minutes; turn, brush with sauce and continue broiling 2 to 3 minutes or to doneness desired. 6 servings.

Spicy Lamb Stew

2 to 2½ pounds lamb for stew, cut in 1-inch pieces
¼ cup flour
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons cooking fat
1 cup water
1 small bay leaf
1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes
1 medium onion, cut into wedges
½ teaspoon oregano
¼ cup water
2 packages (9 ounces each) frozen green beans*

Combine flour, salt, cinnamon and pepper; dredge lamb cubes, reserving excess flour. Brown meat in cooking fat; pour off drippings. Add 1 cup water and bay leaf to meat, cover tightly and cook slowly 20 minutes. Remove bay leaf. Drain tomatoes; reserve liquid and break tomatoes in pieces. Add tomato liquid, onion and oregano to meat and cook slowly, covered, 1 hour. Blend reserved flour with ¼ cup water and use to thicken stew. Add tomatoes and continue cooking 5 minutes. Cook frozen green beans according to package directions; drain and stir into stew. 6 to 8 servings.

*One pound fresh green beans, broken in pieces, may be substituted for the frozen beans. Add fresh beans to stew with the tomato liquid, and cook until meat and beans are tender.

Sunny Lamb Chops

6 lamb blade chops, cut ¾-inch thick
1 tablespoon brown sugar
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon mint leaves
1 clove garlic, minced
1 cup orange juice
1 tablespoon lime juice
1 orange
Salt
Pepper

Combine brown sugar, cornstarch, salt, mint leaves and garlic in small saucepan. Gradually add orange juice and lime juice and cook slowly for 10 minutes, stirring until thickened. Cut slice from each end of orange and cut orange crosswise into 6 slices. Slit each slice from center through edge on one side. Place chops on rack in broiler pan so surface of meat is 3-inches from heat. Broil 5 minutes, season with salt and pepper, turn and broil 4 minutes and season with salt and pepper. Turn chops, brush with sauce and broil 3 minutes; turn and brush with sauce. Twist each orange slice and place on top of a chop and brush with sauce. Continue broiling 3 minutes or to doneness desired. 6 servings.

When cheese and ground beef are incorporated into a corn muffin mix, it becomes a hearty main dish base.

Measurements are given in both metric and American Standard units. Normally, dry substances are measured in grams in the metric system. However, foods and equipment manufacturers in the United States have developed cups and spoons in milliliter readings for both liquid and dry ingredients to make conversion easier for cooks.

1 (340-gram or 12-ounce) package corn muffin mix or about 625 millitliters or 2½ cups mix

Cooking with metrics

5 milliliters or 1 teaspoon chili powder
2½ milliliters or ½ teaspoon salt
About ½ milliliter or 1/8 teaspoon pepper
250 milliliters or 1 cup (113 grams or 4 ounces) shredded sharp Cheddar cheese
167 milliliters or 2/3 cup milk
1 egg
83 milliliters or 1/3 cup ripe olive slices
15 milliliters or 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
125 milliliters or ½ cup chopped onion
63 millitliters or ¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 (454-gram or 16-ounce) can tomatoes
1 (170-gram or 6-ounce) can tomato paste
2½ milliliters or ½ teaspoon salt
About ½ milliliter or 1/8 teaspoon pepper
Few drops hot pepper sauce

For corn bread, brown meat; drain. Combine corn muffin mix, chili powder, salt and pepper. Stir in 167-grams (2/3 cup) cheese and all the meat. Add milk and egg; mix well. Pour batter into greased 23-centimeter (9-inch) square baking pan. Sprinkle remaining cheese and olives on top of corn bread. Bake in preheated moderate oven (190 degrees Celsius or 375 degrees Fahrenheit) 25 to 30 minutes.

For sauce, saute onion and green pepper in butter. Stir in remaining ingredients. Simmer, uncovered, 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. To serve, cut corn bread into 6 pieces. Spoon about 125 milliliters (½ cup) sauce over each piece. Serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

Consumers criticize additives use

by JEANNE LESEM

"I realize that we, the public, are getting only what we ask for in foods: long shelf-life, good smells, pretty colors and ease of preparation. But why, when the FDA specifically comes out and states that certain chemical additives are causing cancer, etc., does the food industry continue to include these potential killers?"

" . . . I would rather shop more often than have you add chemicals to sustain shelf-life while doing away with mine."

The preceding is typical of reader responses to recent questionnaires from a magazine on food-buying habits. Consumers are increasingly critical of convenience foods, and are demanding products made without artificial flavors, stabilizers, preservatives and other food additives.

"IF YOU INSIST that the public wants additions — at least offer those of us who don't an alternative," wrote another reader. "I see no sane reason why we must be constantly bombarded with flavored and colored brownies, sweetened and preserved canned fruit, 18-syllable-long additives to sauces, preserved mayonnaises, white flour and sugar-predominant cakes, nitrate-rich meats, over-sweetened (with sugar) milks, preserved and flavored dressings, gleaned and polished rice (containing no nutriton), synthetic white flour noodles, sweetened and salted soups and vegetables."

Eighty-one per cent of the respondents to a Better Homes and Gardens questionnaire said they were reading food product labels more now than a year ago. Forty-four per cent said they looked particularly for caloric information, 62 per cent were concerned about chemical additives and/or preservatives and 68 per cent, about the net weight of products.

FAMILIES UNDER 35 years of age showed the least interest in information on oils, fats and health probelm ingredients, and those 50 and up showed the greatest. Young families focused on chemical additives and/or preservatives.

Many questioned the credibility of food manufacturers.

"I refuse to buy the products from television commercials which insult my intelligence," wrote one. "Ask the big companies what is wrong with being honest in trying to sell their products. Consumers are not dumb."

Some manufacturers are responding to consumers' pleas for such things as less-sweet canned fruit and small bags of whole wheat flour for small households.

BUT CONVENIENCE products containing additives and preservatives continue to proliferate. Even readers who criticize those products say eliminating all of them would be difficult.

"I'd like to see less convenience foods . . . yet I like to use prepared soups, salad dressings, mayonnaise!" wrote one. She also asked for packaging that conserves paper.

A New Jersey Woman acknowedged the difficulty of preparing each meal from scratch with only natural ingredients . . . life's busy schedule prevents this, she said. Her solution: a plea to the food industry to "... explore new avenues to please our buds while keeping us healthy."

Teachers develop recipes for kids

By JEANNE LESEM

Two young school teachers from Los Angeles use cooking to teach a lot more than the three Rs to kindergarten through fifth grade pupils.

Georgia Johnson and Gail Povey developed simple cooking centers where children can work in pairs on simple recipes in a corner of their classrooms.

Most of their recipes require no cooking or adult supervision. All the recipes and supplementary teaching materials are in their newly published book, "Metric Milk Shakes and Witches' Cakes" (Citation Press, $4.95). Although it was written for teachers, it could just as easily be used at home by parents as rainy day or vacation projects for children.

In an interview, Ms. Johnson said she and Mrs. Povey planned the programs to help children develop independence and self-confidence, among other things.

CHILDREN LEARN geography by planning a round-the-world trip and preparing food from the countries involved, she said. They learn spelling by reading recipes, develop motor skills by preparing food, learn arithmetic, budgeting and even the metric system and consumer awareness when they talk about ingredients and their cost.

Mrs. Povey is a reading specialist and Ms. Johnson, an early childhood teacher.

At her school Ms. Johnson organized Les Petits Gourmets, a restaurant run by pupils with pupils as guests. The restaurant was a rule-learning, role-playing tool.

"It represented real life to them," she said. They ate there, they learned about money transactions both by figuring the cost of food products in stores and the prices on menus.

"They had to decide between buying food at stores or eating at their restaurant. They learned how to entice customers to the restaurant (even though the same food was cheaper prepared at home)," she said.

"THE SCHOOL is really a melting pot. It's not too far from UCLA, and married students' housing is in the area. We have foreign students from Africa, Turkey, Israel, South America, Germany, France and Korea."

"In my classroom I use food as a way of getting to know where they came from," said Ms. Johnson.

She made a mythical trip around the world as one assignment. Her pupils chose the states and cities they wanted to visit. They learned how to apply for a passport. They learned geography, mapping out their route around the world.

"They had to decide what (food) to order in each country. Using a map, they cooked their way around the world: tortillas in Arizona and New Mexico and potato pancakes in Germany, Crepes in France became their specialty," she said.

"There are so many ways a child can cook. Why can't they cook by themselves, without heat, help or special ingredients? They can be independent, develop self-confidence."

"WE TRIED TO stress nutrition, and teach by example," she said. "Breakfast isn't always cereal or eggs."

Ms. Johnson said the children took great pride in their cooking centers. She said eating food right after they prepare it is a great incentive.

They also learn from their mistakes. One team that put two tablespoons instead of two teaspoons of sugar into an eggnog complained that the beverage was too sweet, and found out why.

three Japanese vegetables), green onions, Chinese cabbage, spinach leaves and mushrooms.

These are stir-fried in small portions in a flavorful combination of Kikkoman soy sauce, saki and sugar. Both the saki (a rice wine) and the plum wine may be purchased at any liquor store. Kikkoman soy sauce must be used, said Kathy, as it is a Japanese product rather than a Chinese one.

As portions of the Sukiyaki are cooked, guests may help themselves in small bowls, using the non-eating end of their chopsticks. "The Japanese usually dip the mixture into a raw egg before eating, but this feature is not always popular with Americans," Kathy said.

RICE SHOULD be served in separate bowls at this time. Kathy prepares it the Japanese way, whereby the rice is gummier and easier to manage with chopsticks.

Although the Japanese usually eat fruit for dessert, Kathy prefers serving sherbet with mandarin orange sections.

Active in Southminster Presbyterian Church, Aki and Kathy chair a group which is sponsoring a Vietnamese family, and Kathy is chairperson of Rachael Circle. They have two young children.

YAKITORI

3 to 4 chicken breasts, uncooked
1 fresh zucchini or green pepper
Cherry tomatoes
Small whole mushrooms, fresh or canned
1 small bottle (5 ounces) Teriyaki sauce

Remove skin and bones from raw chicken and cut in ¾-inch cubes. (Use skin and bones to make a broth for the first course.) Cut zucchini in ¾-inch cubes.

Assemble ingredients on small bamboo sticks, using about three chicken pieces per stick. Place in a flat pan and pour Teriyaki sauce over all. Marinate at last a half hour, or overnight. May be roasted on electric or charcoal hibachi, broiled or sauteed in heated oil just before serving. Makes 24 to 36 Yakitori. Serves 6.

JAPANESE RICE

3 cups regular rice
3 cups water

Wash rice in pan and drain well several times until rinse water is clear. This removes all coating and makes rice softer. Then add measured water to rice and let stand 15 to 30 minutes.

Bring to a boil over high heat and boil one minute. Cover pan and simmer 20 minutes. Remove from heat and let stand ten minutes more. Do not open lid at any time. Serves 6.

SUKIYAKI

2 to 3 pounds beef rib steak or rib roast, cut very thin
1 can Sukiyaki-no-toma
1 bunch green onions, cut in inch lengths, greens and all
1 small Nappa or Chinese cabbage, cut in 2-inch pieces
½ pound spinach leaves, stems removed
8 to 10 large mushrooms, sliced, or canned whole mushrooms

Choice of one or two of the following: sliced onion, zucchini, carrots or Japanese Tofu (bean curd)

All the ingredients should be attractively arranged on a large platter. Prepare the following sauce in a pitcher:

2/3 cup Kikkoman soy sauce
1/3 cup Saki
½ cup granulated sugar

When ready to serve and guests are seated, begin frying some of the meat in a small amount of oil in an electric skillet at the table.

Over medium heat, add vegetables a little at a time to the partially-cooked meat. Pour some sauce over all. Push cooked portion to one side and add more meat, vegetables and sauce. Water may be added to Sukiyaki at any time if the mixture becomes too strong tasting or starts to stick to the pan. Vegetables should be crisp.

Company cooking can't be postponed forever

The working woman cooks

by Joyce Zeller

Sooner or later you're going to have to give a dinner party. You can't put it off forever, even though the idea creates as much excitement as a dead toad.

The last thing you need is to cook for a crowd? Well, yes, it isn't easy to schedule time for company now that you're putting in 15-hour days, but old friends and lively conversation are good for you, and if you get organized in advance it won't take that much time.

No matter how much we try to ignore things like housework, the desire to be proficient is still there. We have had that role imprinted on us since childhood. Every once in awhile we must do something to prove to ourselves that we still have the old skills of cooking a great meal and being a good hostess.

WHAT WE NEED, of course, is a dinner menu unusual enough to impress the guests so they won't notice how cheap the meal is tt make. It also has to be simple enough to prepare so you can spend most of your time where the action is. Some of the best parties I've missed have been at my own house.

Here is a menu that is all those things. The meat sauce you make for the main dish has enough left over to save for another, different meal later on. The main ingredient is ground lamb and I don't want to hear any complaints. I know there are some people out there who think they don't like lamb, but I've never served this recipe to anyone who could taste the lamb in it. People just thought it was great and asked for the recipe. Don't even try to substitute hamburger. It turns out lousy. The origin of the dish is Greek. It's sort of a Greek lasagna.

THE MENU is as follows:

Pastitsio
Caesar salad
Salt sticks
Fresh strawberries with cheese

The day before the party make the meat sauce for the Pastitsio; prepare the lettuce for the salad; order the salt sticks from the bakery.

The day of the party finish the Pastitsio; make the salad dressing and croutons; prepare the strawberries; send your husband to bakery for salt sticks.

Two hours before guests arrive set the table, get appetizers ready if you're having any (raw vegetables with a cheese dip are good), and send your husband out for the kids' hamburgers.

When the guests arrive all you have to do is put the Pastitsio in the oven and toss the salad.

PASTITSIO

1 cup chopped onions
2½ pounds lean ground lamb
1 teaspoon garlic powder
1 large (20-ounce) can tomatoes
1 large (20-ounce) can tomato puree
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon each oregano and cinnamon
½ teaspoon allspice
½ cup fresh bread crumbs (freshly grated soft bread)
1 cup grated Parmesan cheese
½ pound Mozzarella, sliced thin
1 pound Ziti macaroni

In a large pan, saute onions, garlic and lamb until pink is gone. Add next 6 ingredients. Simmer 15 minutes. Add bread crumbs and cheese. Add some hot sauce to beaten egg and then add egg to sauce, stirring well. Put aside 3½ cups for another meal. Refrigerate. To assemble, cook macaroni in salted water until tender. Drain. Place in 9 by 15-inch baking pan. Top with sauce, then Mozzarella. Bake in 350-degree oven about 1 hour.*

CAESAR SALAD

For croutons, saute 1½ cups dried bread cubes in ¼ cup hot oil to which 1 clove of garlic has been added. When light brown, drain and cool.

For the dressing:

2 cloves garlic, chopped
1 flat anchovy
1/8 teaspoon each salt and pepper
4 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup salad oil
1 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 egg yolk

Mash garlic and anchovy in small bowl and mix with salt and pepper. Add lemon juice, oil and cheese. Just before serving add egg yolk. Toss with torn Romaine lettuce (2 large heads). Add croutons and toss again.

STRAWBERRIES

Hull, wash and chill strawberries. Moisten them with about ¼ cup Kirsch liqueur (a cherry-flavored liqueur) for each quart. For six people 1½ quarts should be enough. Buy about a pound of Gourmandise cheese, which is very rich and flavored slightly with Kirsch. Cut it in small cubes. Serve some strawberries and some cheese on each plate and provide each guest with a small dish of powdered sugar to dip the berries in. You can serve the rest of the Kirsch in liqueur glasses along with coffee.

*Next week we'll find out what to do with the rest of the lamb sauce.

Coffee cordial an easy end to any dinner

Coffee Cordial

For a company meal savor the richness of a coffee cordial. This delightful after-dinner beverage can be prepared by the potful — an easy combination of coffee, rum and sugar, served with a twist of orange peel.

COFFEE CORDIAL

4 cups freshly brewed coffee
¼ cup rum or brandy
¼ cup sugar
6 strips orange peel

Combine coffee, rum and sugar, pour into coffee cups and serve with a twist of orange peel. Makes 4½ cups or 6 servings.

(A fruit-flavored liqueur can be used in place of rum. If so, omit sugar.)

Nutrition needs more awareness

by GAYNOR MADDOX

"Nutrition," says Jean Mayer, Ph.D. and noted nutrition scientist at Harvard, "is everybody's cup of tea."

But what are nutrients? according to Dr. Mayer, "Nutrient is just a short handy word to describe all the absorbable components of food — carbohydrates, proteins, fats (particularly polyunsaturated fats), vitamins and minerals — that the body needs in order to fulfill the three main nutritional requirements of good health.

"Those are: the energy we need to keep warm and help our organs function, as well as fuel for moving and working; specific nutrients that are needed to utilize foods; and finally, the nutrients that are required for the growth of cells and replacement of used up cells. Besides the carbohydrates, fats, proteins, vitamins and minerals that should be included, there is one other so essential it is often forgotten — water."

IN A WELL-WRITTEN, authoritative book, "A Diet for Living," (McKay, $8.95), Dr. Mayer explains that nutrition "is the science that deals with the effects of food on the body.

Its roots are not in whim, guesswork or superstition, or in the personal preferences and private interests of the men and women who practice it. It provides you valuable information on what you can or should eat, how much you should eat and under what circumstances. And, equally important, what you shouldn't eat, and why.

"For instance, a lack of vitamin D causes rickets in children, and an excess of the same vitamin acts as a poison. Omit calcium from your diet and your bones and teeth suffer. Over at most animal fats and your blood cholesterol will probably go up.

"THE GUIDANCE presented to you by nutritionists has been gathered, bit by important bit, by trained investigators. Their findings have been checked and confirmed by others equally responsible and — to the advantage of you and your family — professionally challenged by each other.

"All of us need to become more aware about nutrition. We should ask questions of nutritionists and listen to their answers. When the answers are complicated, confusing or unconvincing, we should ask more questions," Dr. Mayer observes in his "Diet for Living."

Aki and Kathy Matsushima

They cook according to culture

by LOIS SEILER

The most interesting way in which Aki and Kathy Matsushima entertain guests is to provide an authentic Japanese dinner.

A native of Tokyo, Aki met Kathy, an American, when she was teaching at a university in Japan. After their marriage, they lived in California for five years and moved to Mount Prospect one and a-half years ago.

Aki, an executive vice president of NOK-USA in Elk Grove Village, finds American food as palatable as Japanese and is easy to please, Kathy said. However, the only time he cooks is when the Matsushimas plan a Japanese meal.

Kathy and Aki have adapted Japanese recipes to suit American tastes, using ingredients which are readily available in the foreign food section of most supermarkets or in a Japanese grocery.

TO START THE evening's festivities, Japanese plum wine and appetizers are served first in the family room. Dressed in a Hapi coat, Aki cooks Yakitori on an electric hibachi. The appetizers consist of chicken, zucchini, cherry tomatoes and mushrooms assembled on small bamboo sticks which have been marinated in Teriyaki sauce for several hours or overnight.

While Aki presides at the hibachi, Kathy is busy in the kitchen making final preparations for dinner. Earlier in the day she made a clear broth from the bones and skin from the chicken used for the Yakitori. Japanese always serve a clear broth as the first course, with a few vegetables floating on top, said Kathy. Bouillon may be substituted, if desired, with a few sliced mushrooms, celery leaves, chopped green onions or Chinese pea pods added for interest.

The guests are served their soup while Aki cooks the Sukiyaki at the table in an electric skillet. Although preparing the meat and vegetables for the Sukiyaki takes awhile, cooking time is very short since the vegetables should be crisp.

KATHY TASTEFULLY arranges a large platter with all the ingredients, including thinly-sliced beef, Sukiyaki-no-toma (a canned combination of

YAKITORI, JAPANESE appetizers similar to shish kabobs, are marinated in Teriyaki sauce before Aki Matsushima, Mount Prospect, cooks them over an hibachi. He and his wife, Kathy, try to present their children, John and Karen, with a blend of American and Japanese cultures.

Eater's digest

Grocers once were pepperers

Once again we bring you food facts of unusual flavor gathered from here and there. Our first story has the provocative heading: "So you think you know your groceries? Bet you don't even know your grocer!" What I mean is, back in the early days of England, grocers weren't grocers at all. They were Pepperers, guys who handled spices and weighed them on peso grosso scales. Peso grosso means gross amount, and the Pepperers were often called grossarii. That's where we got the word grocer.

* * *

Our next item concerns a gift of some food sent by the State of Massachusetts to King Charles the Second of England. In 1677, relations were a little strained between the Colonies and England, and the gift meant to be a peace offering almost started a war. It was 10 barrels of cranberries, an acidy fruit little known to the British at that time. That wasn't so bad, but the cranberries were sent with no serving directions, and no sugar. The King didn't think they were "berry" good.

Did you know that our present day sandwich was named after the Fourth Earl of Sandwich, England, John Montagu? But the sandwich wasn't John's idea at all.

Folks ate sandwiches many years before the Earl, but he did make them popular. Montagu hated to tear himself away from the card table for meals, so he had his servant bring him meat between slices of bread, which later were called sandwiches in honor of the Earl. And what kind do you suppose he ate when he played cards? Club sandwiches, no doubt.

Let's talk about potatoes — or spuds, Mickeys, patates, bog apples or whatever you call them. The Irish potato, it seems, didn't originate in Ireland at all but in South America, where Spanish explorers found it 500 years ago. But don't call it a Spanish potato — that's a sweet potato. Now, take the Canada potato. It isn't even a potato; it's a Jerusalem artichoke. It doesn't come from Jerusalem, either, and it isn't a real artichoke. If you're confused after all that, maybe you're better off eating potato chips. But what if they're not really potato chips but Saratoga chips? Well, let's leave that one for a later time.

GOURMET COOKING
easy to learn . . .

Hundreds of northwest suburban women and men are finding out just how easy gourmet cooking is and how much fun it can be during classes conducted by the Continental Cooking School, 1144 S. Elmhurst Road in Mount Prospect's Countryside Court. After completing only one or two courses many students admit that they look forward to cooking and meal planning when they once considered them chores. Even cookbook recipes are easier to prepare because of the student's increased confidence in the kitchen. "We begin where cookbooks end," explains restauranteur and the school's owner, Albert Zeller. "We stress organization, and the fundamentals at each level of cooking. Of course a few pointers from our chefs help a lot too. Our method of teaching is a new concept in culinary instruction that we've developed right in our own kitchen classroom.
Continental's new concept in teaching isn't the only thing unique about the school. In fact, the school itself is a new concept in non-commercial cooking schools. Continental is the only school of its kind in Chicagoland to offer a variety of courses in so many different areas of the culinary arts. Courses currently offered are: Microwave, Advanced Microwave, Crepes and Omelets, Hors D'Oeuvres, Introductory Course, Low Calorie, Bar-B-Que and Salads, and Bridal Course.
The school's staff consists of seven of the areas foremost chefs and instructors who conduct classes in their areas of expertise.
The school's most popular course is Microwave Oven Cooking. One reason for this popularity is because Continental is the only school in Chicagoland to offer special classes in microwave cooking." You have to learn to cook all over again," explains the school's instructor, Ida Shelhamer, "but it's worth it. Microwave ovens can do so many things conventional ovens can't do and with the time they save, they are well worth the investment. The only problem with the ovens was that the instruction booklets were so incomplete that many women weren't using their ovens to their full potential. But thanks to our classes, women are now getting their money's worth from their ovens and loving it."
The Culinary Shop, located in the front of the school, carries a complete selection of gourmet kitchenware and utensils ranging from butcher block tables to zesters. Other items include the new miracle appliance, Cuisinart's Food Processor and name brand microwave ovens at competitive prices. With the purchase of an oven, the customer receives a free microwave cooking course valued at $39.
It won't be long before Continental reaches its goal of bringing gourmet cooking into everyone's kitchen. Continental is making it easy to learn and easy to afford. The low tuition fee includes all recipes, food supplies, and other materials used in the courses. But lowered tuition fees, small workable class sizes for personalized instruction, and increased demand, has caused many classes to fill up fast. Anyone interested in enrolling or for more information, should call the school at 593-3020. Or visit the school during the week or on Saturdays at 1144 S. Elmhurst Road in the Countryside Court, one block south of Golf Road.

A supply of frozen dough in the freezer, ready for unexpected guests can lighten the load if one would like fresh hot rolls or bread of one's own baking planning a party or family gathering.

The home baker has some interesting advantages over the manufacturers of the frozen doughs found today in the grocer's deepfreeze, though they, too, have proved to be a great convenience to all of us. The first advantage in making your own is that you have complete control over the dough's age. Secondly, you have the opportunity to make richer doughs, particularly when brief storage is planned.

Bread baking

by Catherine Clark

After making a dough for future use (your favorite recipe, or mine as given below), be sure to date the package so you will use it within one month's time. Wrap the dough with a double thickness of plastic material, plastic bags (use two) or foil in preparation for freezing your dough.

The following formula makes two loaves of dough for freezing:

5 cups all-purpose flour
1¾ cups whole milk
4 packages dry yeast
¾ tablespoon salt
¼ cup granulated sugar
3 tablespoons shortening

This dough can be held in the freezer for four weeks.

Additional tips for freezing dough include using cool liquids in the recipe so the dough does not become as warm during mixing and kneading as in regular breadmaking. Since it is to be frozen, it makes sense to start with cool dough to speed up the freezing process — an important element in your success.

Then, quickly form the dough into bricks or loaf shapes and immediately freeze in the colest part of your freezer. The object is to allow no rising to take place at this stage.

As for the proportion of ingredients, use one and a half times as much yeast as usual to compensate for damage to the yeast cells during frozen storage. Keep the salt and sugar content on the low side, but no lower than is consistent with good flavor. Too much salt and sugar inhibit yeast action when the time comes to bake the bread. (This factor is not as important if you plan to bake off the bread in a week or two.)

WHEN READY TO bake your bread or rolls, observe these methods and principles: slow thawing gives best results (overnight in the refrigerator is a good way). Quicker thawing can be accomplished by placing the dough in a greased bowl or pan submerged to the top in hot water. This takes about two hours. If you have a microwave oven with a thaw cycle, this may be used. Thawing time depends on the size of dough piece, so experiment and watch closely.

If time and speed are a priority, form loaves (or individual rolls), place in greased baking pan, allow to rise until double in size and bake in a 350 degree oven.

However, to improve the quality I suggest that, after dough is thawed, you rework it briefly by hand. Then, after allowing the ball of dough to rise once in a warm place until double in bulk, punch it down, form into a ball again for a second rising, which will take only about half as long as the first. Form into loaves or rolls, place in greased pans for final rising and baking. The reason for three risings instead of the normal two is to compensate for omitting fermentation (rising) before freezing. This is an important difference when working with dough for freezing.

A great deal of bread flavor comes from the fermentation that takes place during rising, so for the very best results, we mustn't shortcut this process. Other flavor factors are the ingredients (chiefly sugar and salt), and finally, the carmelizing of the crust, sadly missing in breads that have paper-thin crusts. A good, solid bake builds a crust with an aroma that permeates the entire loaf.

Sunflower surplus

Sunflowers blossomed as an agricultural crop in Texas for one year, but farmers are shying away from them now.

"Texas sunflower acreage shot from 5,000 acres in 1974 to 375,000 last year, and now mills and markets are oversupplied," said Dr. John Bremer of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Some crushers have enough sunflower seeds on hand to last about three years." Bremer said the 1976 sunflower crop in Texas will be down to about 100,000 acres.

No cooking

The next generation of Americans may live on frozen heat-and-eat dinners and instant breakfasts, says Marion Bennion, professor of food sciences and nutrition at Brigham Young University.

She said convenience foods are here to stay, and that food scientists and nutritionists are concerned about their nutritional content.

Such foods can be important in America's diet if their essential nutrient content is equal to or greater than the nutrients in the foods they replace, the professor said.

Highly fortified formulated and fabricated foods can contribute to nutritional imbalance if their vitamin fortification is out of proportion to their other nutrients and calories content, the professor said.

Sombrero corn bread

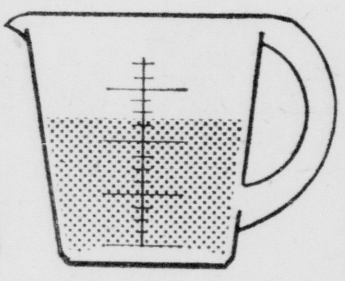
Hearty main dish incorporates mix

When cheese and ground beef are incorporated into a corn muffin mix, it becomes a hearty main dish base.

Measurements are given in both metric and American Standard units. Normally, dry substances are measured in grams in the metric system. However, foods and equipment manufacturers in the United States have developed cups and spoons in milliliter readings for both liquid and dry ingredients to make conversion easier for cooks.

227 grams or ½ pound ground beef
1 (340-gram or 12-ounce) package corn muffin mix or about 625 millitliters or 2½ cups mix

Cooking with metrics



5 milliliters or 1 teaspoon chili powder
2½ milliliters or ½ teaspoon salt
About ½ milliliter or 1/8 teaspoon pepper
250 milliliters or 1 cup (113 grams or 4 ounces) shredded sharp Cheddar cheese
167 milliliters or 2/3 cup milk
1 egg
83 milliliters or 1/3 cup ripe olive slices
15 milliliters or 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
125 milliliters or ½ cup chopped onion
63 millitliters or ¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 (454-gram or 16-ounce) can tomatoes
1 (170-gram or 6-ounce) can tomato paste
2½ milliliters or ½ teaspoon salt
About ½ milliliter or 1/8 teaspoon pepper
Few drops hot pepper sauce

For corn bread, brown meat; drain. Combine corn muffin mix, chili powder, salt and pepper. Stir in 167-grams (2/3 cup) cheese and all the meat. Add milk and egg; mix well. Pour batter into greased 23-centimeter (9-inch) square baking pan. Sprinkle remaining cheese and olives on top of corn bread. Bake in preheated moderate oven (190 degrees Celsius or 375 degrees Fahrenheit) 25 to 30 minutes.

For sauce, saute onion and green pepper in butter. Stir in remaining ingredients. Simmer, uncovered, 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. To serve, cut corn bread into 6 pieces. Spoon about 125 milliliters (½ cup) sauce over each piece. Serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

Consumers criticize additives use

by JEANNE LESEM

"I realize that we, the public, are getting only what we ask for in foods: long shelf-life, good smells, pretty colors and ease of preparation. But why, when the FDA specifically comes out and states that certain chemical additives are causing cancer, etc., does the food industry continue to include these potential killers?"

" . . . I would rather shop more often than have you add chemicals to sustain shelf-life while doing away with mine."

The preceding is typical of reader responses to recent questionnaires from a magazine on food-buying habits. Consumers are increasingly critical of convenience foods, and are demanding products made without artificial flavors, stabilizers, preservatives and other food additives.

"IF YOU INSIST that the public wants additions — at least offer those of us who don't an alternative," wrote another reader. "I see no sane reason why we must be constantly bombarded with flavored and colored brownies, sweetened and preserved canned fruit, 18-syllable-long additives to sauces, preserved mayonnaises, white flour and sugar-predominant cakes, nitrate-rich meats, over-sweetened (with sugar) milks, preserved and flavored dressings, gleaned and polished rice (containing no nutriton), synthetic white flour noodles, sweetened and salted soups and vegetables."

Eighty-one per cent of the respondents to a Better Homes and Gardens questionnaire said they were reading food product labels more now than a year ago. Forty-four per cent said they looked particularly for caloric information, 62 per cent were concerned about chemical additives and/or preservatives and 68 per cent, about the net weight of products.

FAMILIES UNDER 35 years of age showed the least interest in information on oils, fats and health probelm ingredients, and those 50 and up showed the greatest. Young families focused on chemical additives and/or preservatives.

Many questioned the credibility of food manufacturers.

"I refuse to buy the products from television commercials which insult my intelligence," wrote one. "Ask the big companies what is wrong with being honest in trying to sell their products. Consumers are not dumb."

Some manufacturers are responding to consumers' pleas for such things as less-sweet canned fruit and small bags of whole wheat flour for small households.

BUT CONVENIENCE products containing additives and preservatives continue to proliferate. Even readers who criticize those products say eliminating all of them would be difficult.

"I'd like to see less convenience foods . . . yet I like to use prepared soups, salad dressings, mayonnaise!" wrote one. She also asked for packaging that conserves paper.

A New Jersey Woman acknowedged the difficulty of preparing each meal from scratch with only natural ingredients . . . life's busy schedule prevents this, she said. Her solution: a plea to the food industry to "... explore new avenues to please our buds while keeping us healthy."

Teachers develop recipes for kids

By JEANNE LESEM

Two young school teachers from Los Angeles use cooking to teach a lot more than the three Rs to kindergarten through fifth grade pupils.

Georgia Johnson and Gail Povey developed simple cooking centers where children can work in pairs on simple recipes in a corner of their classrooms.

Most of their recipes require no cooking or adult supervision. All the recipes and supplementary teaching materials are in their newly published book, "Metric Milk Shakes and Witches' Cakes" (Citation Press, $4.95). Although it was written for teachers, it could just as easily be used at home by parents as rainy day or vacation projects for children.

In an interview, Ms. Johnson said she and Mrs. Povey planned the programs to help children develop independence and self-confidence, among other things.

CHILDREN LEARN geography by planning a round-the-world trip and preparing food from the countries involved, she said. They learn spelling by reading recipes, develop motor skills by preparing food, learn arithmetic, budgeting and even the metric system and consumer awareness when they talk about ingredients and their cost.

Mrs. Povey is a reading specialist and Ms. Johnson, an early childhood teacher.

At her school Ms. Johnson organized Les Petits Gourmets, a restaurant run by pupils with pupils as guests. The restaurant was a rule-learning, role-playing tool.

"It represented real life to them," she said. They ate there, they learned about money transactions both by figuring the cost of food products in stores and the prices on menus.

"They had to decide between buying food at stores or eating at their restaurant. They learned how to entice customers to the restaurant (even though the same food was cheaper prepared at home)," she said.

"THE SCHOOL is really a melting pot. It's not too far from UCLA, and married students' housing is in the area. We have foreign students from Africa, Turkey, Israel, South America, Germany, France and Korea."

"In my classroom I use food as a way of getting to know where they came from," said Ms. Johnson.

She made a mythical trip around the world as one assignment. Her pupils chose the states and cities they wanted to visit. They learned how to apply for a passport. They learned geography, mapping out their route around the world.

"They had to decide what (food) to order in each country. Using a map, they cooked their way around the world: tortillas in Arizona and New Mexico and potato pancakes in Germany, Crepes in France became their specialty," she said.

"There are so many ways a child can cook. Why can't they cook by themselves, without heat, help or special ingredients? They can be independent, develop self-confidence."

"WE TRIED TO stress nutrition, and teach by example," she said. "Breakfast isn't always cereal or eggs."

Ms. Johnson said the children took great pride in their cooking centers. She said eating food right after they prepare it is a great incentive.

They also learn from their mistakes. One team that put two tablespoons instead of two teaspoons of sugar into an eggnog complained that the beverage was too sweet, and found out why.

three Japanese vegetables), green onions, Chinese cabbage, spinach leaves and mushrooms.

These are stir-fried in small portions in a flavorful combination of Kikkoman soy sauce, saki and sugar. Both the saki (a rice wine) and the plum wine may be purchased at any liquor store. Kikkoman soy sauce must be used, said Kathy, as it is a Japanese product rather than a Chinese one.

As portions of the Sukiyaki are cooked, guests may help themselves in small bowls, using the non-eating end of their chopsticks. "The Japanese usually dip the mixture into a raw egg before eating, but this feature is not always popular with Americans," Kathy said.

RICE SHOULD be served in separate bowls at this time. Kathy prepares it the Japanese way, whereby the rice is gummier and easier to manage with chopsticks.

Although the Japanese usually eat fruit for dessert, Kathy prefers serving sherbet with mandarin orange sections.

Active in Southminster Presbyterian Church, Aki and Kathy chair a group which is sponsoring a Vietnamese family, and Kathy is chairperson of Rachael Circle. They have two young children.

YAKITORI

3 to 4 chicken breasts, uncooked
1 fresh zucchini or green pepper
Cherry tomatoes
Small whole mushrooms, fresh or canned
1 small bottle (5 ounces) Teriyaki sauce

Remove skin and bones from raw chicken and cut in ¾-inch cubes. (Use skin and bones to make a broth for the first course.) Cut zucchini in ¾-inch cubes.

Assemble ingredients on small bamboo sticks, using about three chicken pieces per stick. Place in a flat pan and pour Teriyaki sauce over all. Marinate at last a half hour, or overnight. May be roasted on electric or charcoal hibachi, broiled or sauteed in heated oil just before serving. Makes 24 to 36 Yakitori. Serves 6.

JAPANESE RICE

3 cups regular rice
3 cups water

Wash rice in pan and drain well several times until rinse water is clear. This removes all coating and makes rice softer. Then add measured water to rice and let stand 15 to 30 minutes.

Bring to a boil over high heat and boil one minute. Cover pan and simmer 20 minutes. Remove from heat and let stand ten minutes more. Do not open lid at any time. Serves 6.

SUKIYAKI

2 to 3 pounds beef rib steak or rib roast, cut very thin
1 can Sukiyaki-no-toma
1 bunch green onions, cut in inch lengths, greens and all
1 small Nappa or Chinese cabbage, cut in 2-inch pieces
½ pound spinach leaves, stems removed
8 to 10 large mushrooms, sliced, or canned whole mushrooms

Choice of one or two of the following: sliced onion, zucchini, carrots or Japanese Tofu (bean curd)

All the ingredients should be attractively arranged on a large platter. Prepare the following sauce in a pitcher:

2/3 cup Kikkoman soy sauce
1/3 cup Saki
½ cup granulated sugar

When ready to serve and guests are seated, begin frying some of the meat in a small amount of oil in an electric skillet at the table.

Over medium heat, add vegetables a little at a time to the partially-cooked meat. Pour some sauce over all. Push cooked portion to one side and add more meat, vegetables and sauce. Water may be added to Sukiyaki at any time if the mixture becomes too strong tasting or starts to stick to the pan. Vegetables should be crisp.

As portions of the Sukiyaki are cooked, guests may serve themselves in small bowls. Serves 6.

Nutrition needs more awareness

by GAYNOR MADDOX

"Nutrition," says Jean Mayer, Ph.D. and noted nutrition scientist at Harvard, "is everybody's cup of tea."

But what are nutrients? according to Dr. Mayer, "Nutrient is just a short handy word to describe all the absorbable components of food — carbohydrates, proteins, fats (particularly polyunsaturated fats), vitamins and minerals — that the body needs in order to fulfill the three main nutritional requirements of good health.

"Those are: the energy we need to keep warm and help our organs function, as well as fuel for moving and working; specific nutrients that are needed to utilize foods; and finally, the nutrients that are required for the growth of cells and replacement of used up cells. Besides the carbohydrates, fats, proteins, vitamins and minerals that should be included, there is one other so essential it is often forgotten — water."

IN A WELL-WRITTEN, authoritative book, "A Diet for Living," (McKay, $8.95), Dr. Mayer explains that nutrition "is the science that deals with the effects of food on the body.

Its roots are not in whim, guesswork or superstition, or in the personal preferences and private interests of the men and women who practice it. It provides you valuable information on what you can or should eat, how much you should eat and under what circumstances. And, equally important, what you shouldn't eat, and why.

"For instance, a lack of vitamin D causes rickets in children, and an excess of the same vitamin acts as a poison. Omit calcium from your diet and your bones and teeth suffer. Over at most animal fats and your blood cholesterol will probably go up.

"THE GUIDANCE presented to you by nutritionists has been gathered, bit by important bit, by trained investigators. Their findings have been checked and confirmed by others equally responsible and — to the advantage of you and your family — professionally challenged by each other.

"All of us need to become more aware about nutrition. We should ask questions of nutritionists and listen to their answers. When the answers are complicated, confusing or unconvincing, we should ask more questions," Dr. Mayer observes in his "Diet for Living."

DISCOUNT SUPERMARKETS

Everyday low prices!

Consistency! It's the key to maintaining a sound budget. It's also the main idea behind Eagle Everyday Low prices. We offer you prices you can count on to be low whenever you shop.

No limits!

A good price isn't such a good deal if the quantity you can buy at that price is limited. At Eagle, our No Limit policy gives you the right to purchase as many cans, boxes or packages as you like at the same low price. You can stock up if you want to.

Single item pricing!

You don't have to buy more than you want in order to save money at Eagle. Every item is priced individually. You can see at a glance how low Eagle prices are.

Eagle is the proven way to food savings! Proof vs. promises!

A lot of supermarkets promise to save you money on food. That may be fine. But you can't feed a family on promises.

At Eagle, where we're doing all we can to give you more for your food dollar, we feel that proof goes a lot farther than promises.

So we prove food savings with shopping comparison tests. We ask shoppers much like yourself, to compare Eagle with any other supermarket they choose, using their own shopping list.

In test after test, these shoppers prove that Eagle gives savings. Compare Eagle yourself! You'll have all the proof you need.

Compare the Eagle Way!

Eagle Honest Meat Labeling eliminates costly guessing and confusion when you shop.

Home bakers may freeze bread dough

Bread baking

by Catherine Clark

A supply of frozen dough in the freezer, ready for unexpected guests can lighten the load if one would like fresh hot rolls or bread of one's own baking planning a party or family gathering.

The home baker has some interesting advantages over the manufacturers of the frozen doughs found today in the grocer's deepfreeze, though they, too, have proved to be a great convenience to all of us. The first advantage in making your own is that you have complete control over the dough's age. Secondly, you have the opportunity to make richer doughs, particularly when brief storage is planned.

After making a dough for future use (your favorite recipe, or mine as given below), be sure to date the package so you will use it within one month's time. Wrap the dough with a double thickness of plastic material, plastic bags (use two) or foil in preparation for freezing your dough.

The following formula makes two loaves of dough for freezing:

5 cups all-purpose flour
1¾ cups whole milk
4 packages dry yeast
¾ tablespoon salt
¼ cup granulated sugar
3 tablespoons shortening

This dough can be held in the freezer for four weeks.

Additional tips for freezing dough include using cool liquids in the recipe so the dough does not become as warm during mixing and kneading as in regular breadmaking. Since it is to be frozen, it makes sense to start with cool dough to speed up the freezing process — an important element in your success.

Then, quickly form the dough into bricks or loaf shapes and immediately freeze in the colest part of your freezer. The object is to allow no rising to take place at this stage.

As for the proportion of ingredients, use one and a half times as much yeast as usual to compensate for damage to the yeast cells during frozen storage. Keep the salt and sugar content on the low side, but no lower than is consistent with good flavor. Too much salt and sugar inhibit yeast action when the time comes to bake the bread. (This factor is not as important if you plan to bake off the bread in a week or two.)

WHEN READY TO bake your bread or rolls, observe these methods and principles: slow thawing gives best results (overnight in the refrigerator is a good way). Quicker thawing can be accomplished by placing the dough in a greased bowl or pan submerged to the top in hot water. This takes about two hours. If you have a microwave oven with a thaw cycle, this may be used. Thawing time depends on the size of dough piece, so experiment and watch closely.

If time and speed are a priority, form loaves (or individual rolls), place in greased baking pan, allow to rise until double in size and bake in a 350 degree oven.

However, to improve the quality I suggest that, after dough is thawed, you rework it briefly by hand. Then, after allowing the ball of dough to rise once in a warm place until double in bulk, punch it down, form into a ball again for a second rising, which will take only about half as long as the first. Form into loaves or rolls, place in greased pans for final rising and baking. The reason for three risings instead of the normal two is to compensate for omitting fermentation (rising) before freezing. This is an important difference when working with dough for freezing.

A great deal of bread flavor comes from the fermentation that takes place during rising, so for the very best results, we mustn't shortcut this process. Other flavor factors are the ingredients (chiefly sugar and salt), and finally, the carmelizing of the crust, sadly missing in breads that have paper-thin crusts. A good, solid bake builds a crust with an aroma that permeates the entire loaf.

Sunflower surplus

Sunflowers blossomed as an agricultural crop in Texas for one year, but farmers are shying away from them now.

"Texas sunflower acreage shot from 5,000 acres in 1974 to 375,000 last year, and now mills and markets are oversupplied," said Dr. John Bremer of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Some crushers have enough sunflower seeds on hand to last about three years." Bremer said the 1976 sunflower crop in Texas will be down to about 100,000 acres.

No cooking

The next generation of Americans may live on frozen heat-and-eat dinners and instant breakfasts, says Marion Bennion, professor of food sciences and nutrition at Brigham Young University.

She said convenience foods are here to stay, and that food scientists and nutritionists are concerned about their nutritional content.

Such foods can be important in America's diet if their essential nutrient content is equal to or greater than the nutrients in the foods they replace, the professor said.

Highly fortified formulated and fabricated foods can contribute to nutritional imbalance if their vitamin fortification is out of proportion to their other nutrients and calories content, the professor said.
